Wicks Asks Data on UFA Bribes, If Taken by State Legislators; O'Dwyer Faces Federal Probes

Quits After Ultimatum

James J. Moran (seated) reads his resignation statement to reporters in New York, bowing to Mayor Vincent Impellitteri's ultimatum that the water commissioner resign or face trial. The ultimatum was a result of a revelation before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee that Moran was given $55,000 in gifts by the head of the Uniformed Firemen's Association. (NEA Telephoto)

State Tax Group Also Goes Over Matter, Is Report

New York, March 23 (AP)—John P. Crane, the firemen's union official who claims he passed out big-money gifts to various politicians, said today he would not comply with a demand that he quit a national post in the union.

Crane's dramatic testimony before the Senate crime investigators that he gave $10,000 cash to former Mayor William O'Dwyer and $55,000 to James P. Moran, O'Dwyer's longtime friend, has spurred an income tax probe of the affairs of all three.

Crane, president of the New York City Uniformed Firemen's Association, is also a vice president of the AFL International Association of firefighters. The international had ordered him to resign, or face ouster proceedings.

Probes Lie Ahead

New York, March 23 (AP)—Former Mayor William O'Dwyer faces income tax and perjury probes stemming from disputed testimony by a city firemen's union boss that he gave O'Dwyer $10,000 as "evidence of the support" of the firemen.

The firemen's union official, who is under grand jury investigation on other scores, gave the testimony before the U. S. Senate Crime Probe Committee.

Income tax and perjury investigations also are in store for James J. Moran, long time friend of O'Dwyer who now is U. S. ambassador to Mexico.

The investigations, ordered yesterday by the crime committee now meeting in Washington, resulted from the New York hearing testimony by John P. Crane, president of the AFL Uniformed Firemen's Association.

He, too, faces income and perjury investigation.

Crane swore he gave $10,000 in cash to O'Dwyer and $55,000 to Moran, the former in a political campaign and the latter as goodwill offerings.

Say Money Not Taken

O'Dwyer and Moran both told the committee they never took money from Crane.

O'Dwyer said he made another denial of the money-taking charge before a Manhattan grand jury looking into Crane's record in regard to some $135,000 purportedly missing from the firemen's union funds.

After the O'Dwyer-Crane testimony before the senators about the purported $10,000 contribution, committee counsel Rudolph Halley commented "one man is lying."

Moran, appointed to the $15,-

Walsh Studies Gaffney Report

Albany, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—Governor Dewey's counsel began today a study of testimony before the Kefauver Senate Crime Investigating Committee by high state police officials concerning gambling at Saratoga Springs.

The counsel, Lawrence E. Walsh, received this morning a copy of testimony given a week ago by Superintendent John A. Gaffney and two state police inspectors.

Receipt of a transcript of the testimony—162 pages—was announced by Governor Dewey's secretary, James C. Hagerty.

Lull Taken By Probers At Capital

Washington, March 23 (AP)—Federal law enforcement officials set to work today on evidence of perjury and suspicions of tax evasion provided them by the Senate Crime Committee's dramatic hearings into underworld operations.

The committee itself called a one-day lull after giving a balky Capone gang figure another chance to avoid contempt charges. It promised to produce shortly a pair of long-missing witnesses.

The group asked the Justice Department to study the record of its sensational New York hearings and determine whether anyone should be prosecuted for lying under oath. And a House committee asked federal officials to check on possible income tax frauds.

Freed Under Bond

Jacob (Greasy Thumb) Guzik, reputed payoff man for Scarface Al Capone's old gang, was freed by the Senate crime hunters under $10,000 bond. They ordered him to reappear March 30 after he refused to answer questions about the Chicago policy racket and other underworld activities.

Chairman Kefauver (D.-Tenn.) said that will be the last chance of the heavy-jowled Guzik to clear himself of contempt citations unanimously voted against him and three other gambling figures.

At the same time, Kefauver said, Guzik will be questioned further about the few answers he gave the committee yesterday when he figuratively thumbed his nose at the Senate inquiry.

Will Hear Farrell

The committee took a recess today. Tomorrow it will hear Louis Farrell, identified as a Des Moines, Iowa, liquor wholesaler, and Sidney Brodson of Milwaukee, listed as a reputed betting commissioner.

Kefauver said the group hopes to have Abner Zwillman of Newark, N. J., as a witness on Satur-

New Trouble Is Ahead on Prices With Anticipated Living Index

Pin-Point Shelling

Two and One-Half Point Increase Expected to Be Shown in Report

Washington, March 23 (AP)—The mobilization program, still buffeted by labor's blasts at its wage-stabilization section, headed into new storms today.

The government's latest cost-of-living index will be announced tonight. It is expected to show a two and one-half point rise between Jan. 15 and Feb. 15.

The price control office relaxed slightly its freeze on gasoline prices.

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston said last night "too much complacency" over inflation is undermining the mobilization effort.

And Chairman Maybank (D-S.C.) of a Senate-House "watchdog" committee ordered a broad investigation of the whole program with emphasis on wage-price controls and charges of favoritism.

The new living cost index appears certain to add fuel to labor's claims of unfair treatment.

On the basis of the index, one million employes of non-operating branches of the railroad industry would be in line for salary raises of five or six cents an hour. But because of the ten per cent ceiling in the wage stabilization formula they may have to content themselves with two and one-half cents.

184 Per Cent of '39

The index is expected to be around 184 per cent of the 1935-39 average.

Under escalator clauses in labor contracts, thousands of railway workers other than the non-operating employes, will be able to claim raises of eight or nine cents. The non-operating group negotiated a 12½ cent raise March 1. Contracts for switchmen and yardmen, made prior to the wage freeze Jan. 25, are not affected by the 10 per cent raise ceiling.

The anticipated new index increase does not affect automobile industry workers. Their next cost-of-living adjustment is due June 1.

Allows Minimum Profit

The new gasoline price order permits the nation's 400,000 service stations to use the same profit margins they had during the base freeze period—Dec. 19 to Jan. 26—but allows a minimum profit of four cents a gallon.

Price Stabilization officials said the four-cent minimum was to help dealers who, because of price wars, were caught in the general freeze with lower-than-customary profit margins.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle said the order may result in "some limited price increase but no general price rise on petroleum products."

Economic Stabilizer Johnston issued his warning against inflation in a speech broadcast over the CAB network.

"Inflation is already sabotaging our defense just as surely as if it carried the Red flag of international communism," Johnston said.

He called for a halt to the "upward march of farm prices" and "the never-ending chase between higher prices and higher wages."

GOP Chief Says Crane 'Inferred'

Asks Clarification for Good of Lawmakers, Public Regarding $60,000 Statement

Dewey Takes Stand

Governor to Throw Out Appointees, if They Have Crime Links

Albany, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—The Republican leader of the state Senate wants New York city's District Attorney Frank S. Hogan to disclose whether he knows of any state legislators who accepted bribes from the city Uniformed Firemen's Association.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston said last night that testimony before the U. S. Senate Crime Investigating Committee had left "a possible inference" that $60,000 in association funds had been used to bribe legislators.

Meanwhile, a fellow Republican, Senator William F. Condon, said in Yonkers that the firemen's union gave him a television set three years ago. Condon said the gift was made to show that the union "had no animosity" toward him for the Condon-Wadlin law. The law forbids strikes by public employes.

Many Were Present

Condon told newsmen he received the gift before "175 to 200" guests at a luncheon in the Yonkers city clubhouse, May 4, 1948.

The gift and the luncheon, Condon said, were "just like a Joe DiMaggio Day." He added the New York State Police Conference gave him a watch at a testimonial dinner in 1940.

In another offshoot of the Kefauver crime probe, Governor Dewey declared he would throw out without delay any of his appointees, if he learned they had been linked with the underworld.

But, Dewey asserted in what was described as a statement of policy:

"I am happy to be able to say that I have never heard that any appointee of mine, in 20 years of public office as a prosecutor or governor, has ever been associated with the underworld."

No Prior Statement

This statement followed reporters' queries as to whether Dewey planned any action against New York city officials said to have connections with gamblers or gangsters. Such conetcions were reported at Kefauver Committee hearings in New York.

Dewey said he could not "properly answer" that question. It would be improper for him to comment in advance of hearing evidence, Dewey said, in event he did sit as a judge in a removal proceeding.

The Governor had been asked specifically whether he contemplated removal action against a member of the New York City Board of Elections or a surrogate. No names were mentioned.

Dewey's statements were given to reporters at the capitol by his secretary, James C. Hagerty.

3,300 Paratroops Hit Behind Reds

Traffic Increases On French Rails

Official Says Service Is 80 Per Cent on Trunk Lines

Paris, March 23 (AP)—Traffic increased today on the strike-bound French rail network and an official of the government-owned roads said that 80 per cent of the trunk line trains would run today.

Suburban service remained poor, however, and observers considered the official predictions too optimistic. The 48-hour walkout is due to end at midnight (6 p. m., EST).

The improvement followed liberal use by the authorities of both "the carrot and the stock."

An advisory report to the cabinet said the cost of living had risen 12 per cent since August. On this basis, the cabinet was expected to announce later today an increase of about 10 per cent in the national minimum wage—now 17,300 francs ($50) a month.

A threat in the form of 40,000 requisition—draft—orders went to a selection of railway workers to remain on the job throughout the country. Disobedience meant the risk of five years in jail—theoretically. Actually, some employes were refusing to reply, backed by their unions.

Strikes in Paris—buses, subways, gas and electricity—were still going on but were not seriously affecting the city's life. It was just a bother to get around town if you did not own a car, or could not afford a taxi.

Drop Takes Place North of Seoul; Ridgway Has Direct Hand

Tokyo, March 23 (AP)—American paratroopers bolstered by tough rangers jumped today behind Communist lines north of Seoul and shocked some 20,000 Red Troops into hasty flight.

The paratroopers filled the sky with their brightly-hued parachutes like a massive Easter bouquet.

But the Communists rallied later and were fighting desperately to surround and wipe out the 3,300 outnumbered American jumpers.

An armored column spearheaded a fresh allied drive by three divisions north of Seoul linked up with the paratroops near the drop area south of Munsan.

Infantry Marches To Aid

Lines of infantrymen trudged up the road for miles behind, moving to the aid of the hard-fighting 'chutists.

A second column rolled through the road center of Uijongbu and fanned out to the east, north and west.

But the Reds won back a commanding peak four miles northwest of Uijongbu and late Friday were pouring heavy artillery and mortar fire into the allied positions.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway landed in a light plane only 29 minutes after the first paratrooper jumped. A field dispatch said he was in the thick of one firefight.

In central Korea, an American armored patrol pushed within two and one-quarter miles of Parallel 38 north of Chunchon without opposition.

The air assault was made behind 15,000 to 20,000 Communist troops, possibly the rear guard of a 60,000-man force reported earlier in the area.

South of Munsan

The paratroopers landed south of Munsan. The town is 21 miles northwest of Seoul and only nine miles south of the border.

Allied armor speeding north from Seoul in a new three-division offensive linked up with the chutists a few hours after the

Jeffers Assails Rat Hole Spending

World War 2 Rubber Boss Says Truman Throws Money Away

Washington, March 23 (AP)—William M. Jeffers, World War 2 boss of the federal rubber program, says President Truman is pouring the taxpayers' money "down a hundred rat holes" and has lost the people's confidence.

"Any thinking man knows we cannot look to the President for constructive leadership," Jeffers declared in a letter to Vice President Barkley.

"He is still operating on the old principle of 'tax and tax, spend and spend, elect and elect!' That policy was bad enough before this country was debt-ridden, but this country now is in a serious financial condition.

"On top of that, the people have lost confidence in the President, which is not going to help."

Urges Senate Action

Jeffers, retired president of the Union Pacific Railroad, wrote Barkley to urge that the senate do something to "get better principles in American government than taxing, spending and electing." Barkley is the Senate's presiding officer.

The vice president's office said Jeffers' letter had been received but that Barkley had not seen it

40 Millions Are Expected To View TV Easter Show

Hollywood, March 23 (AP)—The largest television audience yet—40,000,000 persons—is expected to watch a movie this week-end about a hill in Korea and another hill—Calvary.

All 107 television stations in the country and the four networks (ABC, CBS, NBC and Dumont) will carry the movie "Hill Number One" at least once. Most stations will carry it two or three times and some five.

Ruth Hussey, Joan Leslie, Gene Lockhart, Jeanne Cagney, Leif Erickson, Regis Toomey, Roddy McDowall and other Hollywood names appear in the movie—the third such production of Family Theatre, Inc.

A Family Theatre radio version of the crucifixion and resurrection story will be heard by millions more throughout the world Sunday night over MBS and the armed forces radio service.

These additional stars will be on the radio show: Licia Albanese and Marina Koshetz of opera; Jeff Chandler, Irene Dunne, Howard Keel, William Lundigan, Pat O'Brien, Rosalind Russell and Robert Ryan of the movies, and Irish tenor Christopher Lynch.

The story of "Hill Number One" will depict the resurrection and crucifixion of Christ as told by flashbacks from Hill 46 on a Korean battleground.

The movie, by ordinary Hollywood methods, would be a million dollar epic but it cost only $50,000 to make. The low figure was

Mayor Asks Dewey Sign Bridge Bill

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk yesterday sent the following letter to Governor Thomas E. Dewey asking him to act favorably on the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge measure now before the governor:

His Excellency
Governor Thomas E. Dewey
Albany, N. Y.

In the name of the people of Kingston and in behalf of the many thousands of residents of Ulster county and Northern Dutchess county, I petition Your Excellency to give favorable consideration to the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge bill now before you. I have had innumerable telephone calls asking me to present this petition. I know whatever action is taken will be done with the people of our great state in mind. I hope you will feel impelled to grant final approval to the measure. Eventual construction of the bridge will have, I am sure, a most salutary economic, social and cultural effect upon the great areas now isolated, except for the part-time interim ferry service now provided.

Very truly yours,
OSCAR V. NEWKIRK
Mayor

53 Persons Are Missing On Big Transport Plane

Craft Was on Its Way to Anglo Base; Wide Search Is Made

London, March 23 (AP)—A giant U. S. Air Force transport plane with 53 persons reported aboard vanished in fog and rain over the Altantic Ocean today while en route from the United States to England. One of the passengers was believed to be a brigadier general.

Search and rescue planes from three nations scoured the wind-tossed seas in a thus far fruitless search for some trace of wreckage, survivors or life rafts.

Officials at Shannon Airport in Ireland said the big plane, a C-124 which is known as Globemaster II, radioed at 1 a. m. that it had 53 persons aboard including a VIP (very important person) with the rank of brigadier general. At the time of that report the plane crew gave their position as 800 miles southwest of Ireland.

The plane, of a type used to ferry personnel and supplies across the ocean, was en route to Mildenhall Air Base in Suffolk from the base at Limestone, Me. At Limestone, the base public information officer confirmed that 53 persons were aboard but declined to list them by name until next of kin are notified.

British, Irish and U. S. planes were engaged in the search for the Globemaster, which normally would carry life rafts.

Thousands Make Annual Good Friday Pilgrimage

Jerusalem, March 23 (AP)—Thousands of devout Christians made a Good Friday pilgrimage through crooked streets of old walled Jerusalem today as a drouth described as the worst in 80 years plagued the Holy Land.

Holy Week devotions neared the joyous Easter Sunday climax after weeks of sunny, clear weather.

Pilgrims—hundreds from abroad—today followed the storied route taken by Christ as he carried his cross to Calvary.

Some groups, retracting Christ's steps, as usual carried with them large wooden crosses through the winding and narrow cobblestoned streets.

The 14th and last station of the "via dolorosa" is the tomb inside the Holy Sepulchre where Christ's body was believed taken after his death on nearby Calvary.

Tonight, in a medieval Roman Catholic service at the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre, a symbolic figure will be taken from a cross, bathed, anointed and laid in a tomb.

Archbishop Albert Gori, Roman Catholic patriarch of Jerusalem and the Holy Land last night washed the feet of junior priests in a Biblical re-enactment in front of the Basilica.

A solemn resurrection service Easter morn, heralded by the ringing of the Basilica's many bells, will be attended by a large num-

The counsel, Lawrence E. Walsh, received this morning a copy of testimony given a week ago by Superintendent John A. Gaffney and two state police inspectors.

Receipt of a transcript of the testimony—162 pages—was announced by Governor Dewey's secretary, James C. Hagerty.

New Trouble Is Ahead on Prices With Anticipated Living Index

Pin-Point Shelling

Two and One-Half Point Increase Expected to Be Shown in Report

Washington, March 23 (AP)—The mobilization program, still buffeted by labor's blasts at its wage-stabilization section, headed into new storms today.

The government's latest cost-of-living index will be announced tonight. It is expected to show a two and one-half point rise between Jan. 15 and Feb. 15.

The price control office relaxed slightly its freeze on gasoline prices.

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston said last night "too much complacency" over inflation is undermining the mobilization effort.

And Chairman Maybank (D-S.C.) of a Senate-House "watchdog" committee ordered a broad investigation of the whole program with emphasis on wage-price controls and charges of favoritism.

The new living cost index appears certain to add fuel to labor's claims of unfair treatment.

On the basis of the index, one million employes of non-operating branches of the railroad industry would be in line for salary raises of five or six cents an hour. But because of the ten per cent ceiling in the wage stabilization formula they may have to content themselves with two and one-half cents.

The index is expected to be around 184 per cent of the 1935-39 average.

Under escalator clauses in labor contracts, thousands of railway workers other than the non-operating employes, will be able to claim raises of eight or nine cents. The non-operating group negotiated a 12½ cent raise March 1. Contracts for switchmen and yardmen, made prior to the wage freeze Jan. 25, are not affected by the 10 per cent raise ceiling.

The anticipated new index increase does not affect automobile industry workers. Their next cost-of-living adjustment is due June 1.

Allows Minimum Profit

The new gasoline price order permits the nation's 400,000 service stations to use the same profit margins they had during the base freeze period—Dec. 19 to Jan. 26—but allows a minimum profit of four cents a gallon.

Price Stabilization officials said the four-cent minimum was to help dealers who, because of price wars, were caught in the general freeze with lower-than-customary profit margins.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle said the order may result in "some limited price increase but no general price rise on petroleum products."

Economic Stabilizer Johnston issued his warning against inflation in a speech broadcast over the CAB network.

But the Reds won back a commanding peak four miles northwest of Uijongbu and late Friday were pouring heavy artillery and mortar fire into the allied positions.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway landed in a light plane only 29 minutes after the first paratrooper jumped. A field dispatch said he was in the thick of one firefight.

In central Korea, an American armored patrol pushed within two and one-quarter miles of Parallel 38 north of Chunchon without opposition.

The air assault was made behind 15,000 to 20,000 Communist troops, possibly the rear guard of a 60,000-man force reported earlier in the area.

Jeffers Assails Rat Hole Spending

World War 2 Rubber Boss Says Truman Throws Money Away

Washington, March 23 (AP)—William M. Jeffers, World War 2 boss of the federal rubber program, says President Truman is pouring the taxpayers' money "down a hundred rat holes" and has lost the people's confidence.

"Any thinking man knows we cannot look to the President for constructive leadership," Jeffers declared in a letter to Vice President Barkley.

"He is still operating on the old principle of 'tax and tax, spend and spend, elect and elect!' That policy was bad enough before this country was debt-ridden, but this country now is in a serious financial condition.

"On top of that, the people have lost confidence in the President, which is not going to help."

Jeffers, retired president of the Union Pacific Railroad, wrote Barkley to urge that the senate do something to "get better principles in American government than taxing, spending and electing." Barkley is the Senate's presiding officer.

Mayor Asks Dewey Sign Bridge Bill

His Excellency
Governor Thomas E. Dewey
Albany, N. Y.

In the name of the people of Kingston and in behalf of the many thousands of residents of Ulster county and Northern Dutchess county, I petition Your Excellency to give favorable consideration to the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge bill now before you. I have had innumerable telephone calls asking me to present this petition. I know whatever action is taken will be done with the people of our great state in mind. I hope you will feel impelled to grant final approval to the measure. Eventual construction of the bridge will have, I am sure, a most salutary economic, social and cultural effect upon the great areas now isolated, except for the part-time interim ferry service now provided.

Very truly yours,

Craft Was on Its Way to Anglo Base; Wide Search Is Made

London, March 23 (AP)—A giant U. S. Air Force transport plane with 53 persons reported aboard vanished in fog and rain over the Altantic Ocean today while en route from the United States to England. One of the passengers was believed to be a brigadier general.

Search and rescue planes from three nations scoured the wind-tossed seas in a thus far fruitless search for some trace of wreckage, survivors or life rafts.

Officials at Shannon Airport in Ireland said the big plane, a C-124 which is known as Globemaster II, radioed at 1 a. m. that it had 53 persons aboard including a VIP (very important person) with the rank of brigadier general. At the time of that report the plane crew gave their position as 800 miles southwest of Ireland.

The plane, of a type used to ferry personnel and supplies across the ocean, was en route to Mildenhall Air Base in Suffolk from the base at Limestone, Me. At Limestone, the base public information officer confirmed that 53 persons were aboard but declined to list them by name until next of kin are notified.

British, Irish and U. S. planes were engaged in the search for the Globemaster, which normally would carry life rafts.

40 Millions Are Expected To View TV Easter Show

Hollywood, March 23 (AP)—The largest television audience yet—40,000,000 persons—is expected to watch a movie this week-end about a hill in Korea and another hill—Calvary.

All 107 television stations in the country and the four networks (ABC, CBS, NBC and Dumont) will carry the movie "Hill Number One" at least once. Most stations will carry it two or three times and some five.

Ruth Hussey, Joan Leslie, Gene Lockhart, Jeanne Cagney, Leif Erickson, Regis Toomey, Roddy McDowall and other Hollywood names appear in the movie—the third such production of Family Theatre, Inc.

A Family Theatre radio version of the crucifixion and resurrection story will be heard by millions more throughout the world Sunday night over MBS and the armed forces radio service.

These additional stars will be on the radio show: Licia Albanese and Marina Koshetz of opera; Jeff Chandler, Irene Dunne, Howard Keel, William Lundigan, Pat O'Brien, Rosalind Russell and Robert Ryan of the movies, and Irish tenor Christopher Lynch.

The story of "Hill Number One" will depict the resurrection and crucifixion of Christ as told by flashbacks from Hill 46 on a Korean battleground.

The movie, by ordinary Hollywood methods, would be a million dollar epic but it cost only $50,000 to make. The low figure was

Thousands Make Annual Good Friday Pilgrimage

Jerusalem, March 23 (AP)—Thousands of devout Christians made a Good Friday pilgrimage through crooked streets of old walled Jerusalem today as a drouth described as the worst in 80 years plagued the Holy Land.

Holy Week devotions neared the joyous Easter Sunday climax after weeks of sunny, clear weather.

Pilgrims—hundreds from abroad—today followed the storied route taken by Christ as he carried his cross to Calvary.

Some groups, retracting Christ's steps, as usual carried with them large wooden crosses through the winding and narrow cobblestoned streets.

The 14th and last station of the "via dolorosa" is the tomb inside the Holy Sepulchre where Christ's body was believed taken after his death on nearby Calvary.

Tonight, in a medieval Roman Catholic service at the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre, a symbolic figure will be taken from a cross, bathed, anointed and laid in a tomb.

Archbishop Albert Gori, Roman Catholic patriarch of Jerusalem and the Holy Land last night washed the feet of junior priests in a Biblical re-enactment in front of the Basilica.

Quits After Ultimatum

James J. Moran (seated) reads his resignation statement to reporters in New York, bowing to Mayor Vincent Impellitteri's ultimatum that the water commissioner resign or face trial. The ultimatum was a result of a revelation before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee that Moran was given $55,000 in gifts by the head of the Uniformed Firemen's Association. (NEA Telephoto)

State Tax Group Also Goes Over Matter, Is Report

New York, March 23 (AP)—John P. Crane, the firemen's union official who claims he passed out big-money gifts to various politicians, said today he would not comply with a demand that he quit a national post in the union.

Crane's dramatic testimony before the Senate crime investigators that he gave $10,000 cash to former Mayor William O'Dwyer and $55,000 to James P. Moran, O'Dwyer's longtime friend, has spurred an income tax probe of the affairs of all three.

Crane, president of the New York City Uniformed Firemen's Association, is also a vice president of the AFL International Association of firefighters. The international had ordered him to resign, or face ouster proceedings.

Probes Lie Ahead

New York, March 23 (AP)—Former Mayor William O'Dwyer faces income tax and perjury probes stemming from disputed testimony by a city firemen's union boss that he gave O'Dwyer $10,000 as "evidence of the support" of the firemen.

The firemen's union official, who is under grand jury investigation on other scores, gave the testimony before the U. S. Senate Crime Probe Committee.

Income tax and perjury investigations also are in store for James J. Moran, long time friend of O'Dwyer who now is U. S. ambassador to Mexico.

The investigations, ordered yesterday by the crime committee now meeting in Washington, resulted from the New York hearing testimony by John P. Crane, president of the AFL Uniformed Firemen's Association.

He, too, faces income and perjury investigation.

Crane swore he gave $10,000 in cash to O'Dwyer and $55,000 to Moran, the former in a political campaign and the latter as goodwill offerings.

Say Money Not Taken

O'Dwyer and Moran both told the committee they never took money from Crane.

O'Dwyer said he made another denial of the money-taking charge before a Manhattan grand jury looking into Crane's record in regard to some $135,000 purportedly missing from the firemen's union funds.

After the O'Dwyer-Crane testimony before the senators about the purported $10,000 contribution, committee counsel Rudolph Halley commented "one man is lying."

Moran, appointed to the $15,-

Walsh Studies Gaffney Report

Albany, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—Governor Dewey's counsel began today a study of testimony before the Kefauver Senate Crime Investigating Committee by high state police officials concerning gambling at Saratoga Springs.

The counsel, Lawrence E. Walsh, received this morning a copy of testimony given a week ago by Superintendent John A. Gaffney and two state police inspectors.

Receipt of a transcript of the testimony — 162 pages — was announced by Governor Dewey's secretary, James C. Hagerty.

Lull Taken By Probers At Capital

Washington, March 23 (AP) — Federal law enforcement officials set to work today on evidence of perjury and suspicions of tax evasion provided them by the Senate Crime Committee's dramatic hearings into underworld operations.

The committee itself called a one-day lull after giving a balky Capone gang figure another chance to avoid contempt charges. It promised to produce shortly a pair of long-missing witnesses.

The group asked the Justice Department to study the record of its sensational New York hearings and determine whether anyone should be prosecuted for lying under oath. And a House committee asked federal officials to check on possible income tax frauds.

Freed Under Bond

Jacob (Greasy Thumb) Guzik, reputed payoff man for Scarface Al Capone's old gang, was freed by the Senate crime hunters under $10,000 bond. They ordered him to reappear March 30 after he refused to answer questions about the Chicago policy racket and other underworld activities.

Chairman Kefauver (D.-Tenn.) said that will be the last chance of the heavy-jowled Guzik to clear himself of contempt citations unanimously voted against him and three other gambling figures.

At the same time, Kefauver said, Guzik will be questioned further about the few answers he gave the committee yesterday when he figuratively thumbed his nose at the Senate inquiry.

Will Hear Farrell

The committee took a recess today. Tomorrow it will hear Louis Farrell, identified as a Des Moines, Iowa, liquor wholesaler, and Sidney Brodson of Milwaukee, listed as a reputed betting commissioner.

Kefauver said the group hopes to have Abner Zwillman of Newark, N. J., as a witness on Satur-

New Trouble Is Ahead on Prices With Anticipated Living Index

Pin-Point Shelling

Two and One-Half Point Increase Expected to Be Shown in Report

Washington, March 23 (AP)—The mobilization program, still buffeted by labor's blasts at its wage-stabilization section, headed into new storms today.

The government's latest cost-of-living index will be announced tonight. It is expected to show a two and one-half point rise between Jan. 15 and Feb. 15.

The price control office relaxed slightly its freeze on gasoline prices.

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston said last night "too much complacency" over inflation is undermining the mobilization effort.

And Chairman Maybank (D-S.C.) of a Senate-House "watchdog" committee ordered a broad investigation of the whole program with emphasis on wage-price controls and charges of favoritism.

The new living cost index appears certain to add fuel to labor's claims of unfair treatment.

On the basis of the index, one million employes of non-operating branches of the railroad industry would be in line for salary raises of five or six cents an hour. But because of the ten per cent ceiling in the wage stabilization formula they may have to content themselves with two and one-half cents.

The index is expected to be around 184 per cent of the 1935-39 average.

Under escalator clauses in labor contracts, thousands of railway workers other than the non-operating employes, will be able to claim raises of eight or nine cents. The non-operating group negotiated a 12½ cent raise March 1. Contracts for switchmen and yardmen, made prior to the wage freeze Jan. 25, are not affected by the 10 per cent raise ceiling.

The anticipated new index increase does not affect automobile industry workers. Their next cost-of-living adjustment is due June 1.

Allows Minimum Profit

The new gasoline price order permits the nation's 400,000 service stations to use the same profit margins they had during the base freeze period—Dec. 19 to Jan. 26—but allows a minimum profit of four cents a gallon.

Price Stabilization officials said the four-cent minimum was to help dealers who, because of price wars, were caught in the general freeze with lower-than-customary profit margins.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle said the order may result in "some limited price increase but no general price rise on petroleum products."

Economic Stabilizer Johnston issued his warning against inflation in a speech broadcast over the CAB network.

"Inflation is already sabotaging our defense just as surely as if it carried the Red flag of international communism," Johnston said.

He called for a halt to the "upward march of farm prices" and "the never-ending chase between higher prices and higher wages."

Increase 'Eaten Up'

GOP Chief Says Crane 'Inferred'

Dewey Takes Stand

Governor to Throw Out Appointees, if They Have Crime Links

Albany, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—The Republican leader of the state Senate wants New York city's District Attorney Frank S. Hogan to disclose whether he knows of any state legislators who accepted bribes from the city Uniformed Firemen's Association.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston said last night that testimony before the U. S. Senate Crime Investigating Committee had left "a possible inference" that $60,000 in association funds had been used to bribe legislators.

Meanwhile, a fellow Republican, Senator William F. Condon, said in Yonkers that the firemen's union gave him a television set three years ago. Condon said the gift was made to show that the union "had no animosity" toward him for the Condon-Wadlin law. The law forbids strikes by public employes.

Many Were Present

Condon told newsmen he received the gift before "175 to 200" guests at a luncheon in the Yonkers city clubhouse, May 4, 1948.

The gift and the luncheon, Condon said, were "just like a Joe DiMaggio Day." He added the New York State Police Conference gave him a watch at a testimonial dinner in 1940.

In another offshoot of the Kefauver crime probe, Governor Dewey declared he would throw out without delay any of his appointees, if he learned they had been linked with the underworld.

But, Dewey asserted in what was described as a statement of policy:

"I am happy to be able to say that I have never heard that any appointee of mine, in 20 years of public office as a prosecutor or governor, has ever been associated with the underworld."

No Prior Statement

This statement followed reporters' queries as to whether Dewey planned any action against New York city officials said to have connections with gamblers or gangsters. Such connections were reported at Kefauver Committee hearings in New York.

Dewey said he could not "properly answer" that question. It would be improper for him to comment in advance of hearing evidence, Dewey said, in event he did sit as a judge in a removal proceeding.

The Governor had been asked specifically whether he contemplated removal action against a member of the New York City Board of Elections or a surrogate. No names were mentioned.

Dewey's statements were given to reporters at the capitol by his secretary, James C. Hagerty.

Official Says Service Is 80 Per Cent on Trunk Lines

Paris, March 23 (AP)—Traffic increased today on the strike-bound French rail network and an official of the government-owned roads said that 80 per cent of the trunk line trains would run today.

Suburban service remained poor, however, and observers considered the official predictions too optimistic. The 48-hour walkout is due to end at midnight (6 p. m., EST).

The improvement followed liberal use by the authorities of both "the carrot and the stock."

An advisory report to the cabinet said the cost of living had risen 12 per cent since August. On this basis, the cabinet was expected to announce later today an increase of about 10 per cent in the national minimum wage—now 17,500 francs ($50) a month.

A threat in the form of 40,000 requisition—draft—orders went to a selection of railway workers to remain on the job throughout the country. Disobedience meant the risk of five years in jail—theoretically. Actually, some employes were refusing to reply, backed by their unions.

Strikes in Paris—buses, subways, gas and electricity—were still going on but were not seriously affecting the city's life. It was just a bother to get around town if you did not own a car, or could not afford a taxi.

Drop Takes Place North of Seoul; Ridgway Has Direct Hand

The paratroopers filled the sky with their brightly-hued parachutes like a massive Easter bouquet.

But the Communists rallied later and were fighting desperately to surround and wipe out the 3,300 outnumbered American jumpers.

Infantry Marches To Aid

Lines of infantrymen trudged up the road for miles behind, moving to the aid of the hard-fighting 'chutists.

A second column rolled through the road center of Uijongbu and fanned out to the east, north and west.

But the Reds won back a commanding peak four miles northwest of Uijongbu and late Friday were pouring heavy artillery and mortar fire into the allied positions.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway landed in a light plane only 29 minutes after the first paratrooper jumped. A field dispatch said he was in the thick of one firefight.

In central Korea, an American armored patrol pushed within two and one-quarter miles of Parallel 38 north of Chunchon without opposition.

The air assault was made behind 15,000 to 20,000 Communist troops, possibly the rear guard of a 60,000-man force reported earlier in the area.

South of Munsan

The paratroopers landed south of Munsan. The town is 21 miles northwest of Seoul and only nine miles south of the border.

Roosas Say Taxi Service Not Sold

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roosa, operators of Roosa Taxi Service, 309 Fair street, today told The Freeman their business "has not been sold."

It was reported that negotiations are underway for the sale, but Mr. and Mrs. Roosa offered no comment on progress of the alleged transaction beyond saying the business "has not been sold."

It is reported that the transfer, if effected, will take place without interruption of service and the name, Roosa's Taxi Service, will be retained.

Prospective purchasers, according to a reliable source, are Mrs. George Loughran, of 11 Cottage Row, and William Loughran, of East Strand. Legal aspects of the negotiations are being handled by Chris J. Flanagan and Robert Ortale, Ortale told The Freeman this afternoon.

Established 20 Years Ago

Roosa's Taxi Service was established 20 years ago as the city's first taxi company to carry two passengers anywhere in the city for 25 cents. Its founder and present owner, Charles Roosa, is a former detective sergeant for the New York Central Railroad.

The company, in its 20 years, has built up a record of safety and its drivers are proud of the fact that they are called upon frequently by parents to transport young children.

If the deal is consummated, those who are negotiating to purchase the business plan to continue the present drivers in their employ, according to a source close to the prospective purchasers, who are local persons. William Loughran, one of the principals, is a native of the Ponckhockie section of the city. He is a brother of Patrolman George Loughran of the Kingston Police Department.

Jeffers Assails

yet. It was dated March 16 and was mailed from Jeffers' home in Pasadena, Calif. Copies went to each member of the Senate.

No Retirement Comfort

March 16 was the day after the deadline for millions of Americans to shuck out billions of dollars in income taxes to Uncle Sam.

"A couple of years ago I retired, after working for 55 years and, of course, I expected to enjoy some comfort in retirement," Jeffers told Barkley.

"However, I find that about half of my pension is going for taxes and, mind you, this is just for federal taxes and does not include the numerous other taxes I am required to pay.

"So, instead of enjoying my retirement, I am confronted with a battle on my hands to get enough together to even make a living.

Earned It Hard Way

"If these taxes were necessary for the welfare of this country, I wouldn't begrudge a cent of it, but when I see my hard-earned money (and make no mistake about it, I earned it the hard way), and that of millions of good Americans being thrown down a hundred rat holes, then I rebel. It's time to stop!"

Jeffers said the welfare of the country "must be put ahead of politics" and added that Barkley and the Senate "are confronted with a decision in that regard right now." Then he said:

"The 1950 annual expenditures were around $40 billion. Now the President proposes to spend almost $92 billion in 1951 and almost $100 billion in 1952. Do you honestly think taxes can carry this load? Where is the tax money coming from? * * *

Why Should HST Worry

"Why should the President worry about his personal taxes when the rest of us taxpayers pay his living expenses, entertainment expenses, maintain his home and grounds, provide him with a fleet of automobiles and chauffeur for himself and his family, staff a private yacht and an airplane for his numerous vacation trips?

"Don't you think the time has arrived for you fellows who are elected by the taxpayers to take this matter in hand and really do something about it for the benefit of the country as a whole and for your own constituents?"

Jeffers told Barkley "You won't have any trouble finding plenty of men who are able and willing, when the showdown comes, to forget politics and get this country back on a level keel."

Final Fireside Meeting

The final informal fireside discussion period held nightly during the Lenten season at the Y.M.C.A. will take place tonight at 7:30 o'clock, Burt Tandy, secretary, has announced. Tonight's round-table discussion will center around the theme, "When Should We Be Willing to Make Sacrifices?" The fireside story hour for younger boys will be held Saturday at 11:15 a. m. The story of "The Sandals" will be told by Secretary Tandy. The usual custom of a quiet period at the Y was observed from noon until 3 o'clock today in observance of Good Friday.

Wicks Says Racing Probe Starts May 15

Albany, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—A $25,000 investigation of all phases of horse racing in New York state will get underway about May 15, Republican Leader Arthur H. Wicks of the state Senate said today.

Wicks, chairman of the joint legislative committee to conduct the probe, said the investigators first would consult with members of the State Racing Commission "for their views on the whole setup."

The investigation was authorized by the Legislature shortly before it adjourned last Friday.

Wicks said he was assembling a technical staff and soon would select a counsel for the official inquiry by the committee of four senators and three assemblymen.

Wicks sponsored the resolution authorizing the investigation. Sponsors of such resolutions usually head committees their measures create.

The resolution prescribed a study of all phases of running and harness racing, including "moral, economic and technical questions."

Lull Taken . . .

day. Zwillman, Prohibition era figure, has been linked to Murder, Inc., in testimony before the committee. In New York, Zwillman called that ridiculous.

The pudgy, balding Guzik met most inquiries of senators and counsel with the monotonous repetition:

"I refuse to answer because it might incriminate me or tend to incriminate me or lead in some devious way to incriminate me."

When Senator Wiley (R.-Wis.) asked Guzik if he had consulted a lawyer, the witness replied with one of his few direct answers: "No."

"Where did you get this phrase you have been using?" asked Wiley, a lawyer.

"I heard it on television," Guzik replied. Spectators jammed into the ornate, high-ceiling Senate caucus room roared with laughter.

Guzik even declined to say whether he had a brother Harry. Chicago sources familiar with the old Capone gang say Harry Guzik was known as "Greasy Thumb" and that Jacob Guzik inherited the nickname after his brother died in 1949. Both evidently got the name from their habit of licking a thumb while counting out money.

Kefauver told reporters he had been informed that Guzik was seen before he testified with George F. Callaghan of Chicago, who appeared as attorney for racketeer Tony Accardo when Accardo was questioned by the committee here Jan. 5.

New Trouble . . .

$4,500,000,000 tax increase already has been eaten up in the higher price the government must pay for weapons and military equipment.

Of the wage control dispute which has paralyzed the Wage Stabilization Board through the withdrawal of its three labor members, Johnston said:

"So long as there is any hope left, I intend to keep on meeting with management and labor in an effort to get a wage board back to work."

Senator Maybank said hearings will start about April 4 on the congressional investigation of the mobilization program. Officials of "at least 50" federal agencies involved in the defense program will be called as witnesses, Maybank added.

Senator Capehart (R-Ind.), a member of Maybank's Senate-House Committee on Defense Production, told newsmen the inquiry "will try to find out why they are not controlling prices, not controlling wages, not controlling anything."

Resume Relations

Panama, Panama, March 23 (AP)—Panama and Spain have resumed diplomatic relations, a spokesman for President Arnulfo Arias announced today. Panama broke relations with the government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco in 1945. Recognition at that time extended to the Spanish republican government in exile was withdrawn last year.

'Greasy Thumb' Won't Talk

Jacob "Greasy Thumb" Guzik (right), reputedly one of the key figures in the Capone crime empire, is turned over to the Senate Crime Investigating Committee in Washington by Senate Sergeant-at-arms Joseph C. Duke. Called to testify, Guzik refused to answer any questions and was held in $10,000 bail on contempt charges. (NEA Telephoto)

O'Dwyer Faces . . .

Study Is Asked

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D.-Tenn.), probe committee chairman, said he asked the Justice Department and U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol in New York to go over the entire record of the hearing in New York for possible perjury prosecutions against O'Dwyer, Moran and others.

A House subcommittee referred the alleged payments by Crane to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The New York State Tax Department is making a routine check of all crime hearing evidence.

A subcommittee member, Rep. King (D.-Calif.), said the tax evasion study by the bureau applies to O'Dwyer, Moran "and others in the New York area."

O'Dwyer, talking with newsmen yesterday, again insisted he told the truth when he denied taking any political contribution from Crane.

Denies Plan to Quit

O'Dwyer also denied he was planning to resign as ambassador, saying, "my superiors will be the judge of that."

There has been no comment from Washington.

Of Crane's testimony, O'Dwyer said: "I'm naturally shocked."

O'Dwyer also said he would appear again on Monday before the rackets-probing grand jury in Brooklyn and then enter a hospital for a physical checkup.

Moran was a deputy fire commissioner when he allegedly took money from Crane.

Crane Has Union Trouble

Crane is in hot water with top union officials. In Washington, John P. Redmond, president of the International Association of Firefighters, said yesterday he was giving Crane until noon today to resign as vice-president of the IAF.

Redmond said the union's constitution requires it to be nonpartisan in political campaigns, and also bars any action deemed detrimental to the union.

The repercussions of Crane's testimony during the final moments of the Senate crime group's eight-day hearing spread to New York state politics.

Sen. Arthur H. Wicks, majority leader of the state Senate, has asked Manhattan District Attorney Frank S. Hogan to reveal —if he knows—whether any funds from Crane's local union went to bribe legislators.

New Cast

James J. Carroll, St. Louis "betting commissioner," was the star as the Senate Crime Investigating Committee moved to Washington. He told the committee that Frank Erickson, New York gambler, was mistaken when he testified that the two did business with each other. (NEA Telephoto)

Wicks Asks Data

of the Firemen's Association, before the Kefauver Committee.

Crane testified Wednesday that $60,000 in association funds had been used in 1948 and 1949 to promote state legislation favorable to firemen. Crane did not make clear just how the money was spent, Wicks said.

"A possible inference from the testimony is that the money was used to bribe members of the legislature," Wicks wrote. "* * * I ask that you publicly state whether or not you have any evidence that any member of the legislature was bribed by Mr. Crane or his association or was the beneficiary of the fund referred to by Mr. Crane.

"If so, I ask that the recipient be identified. This matter should be clarified in the interest of the members of the Legislature, as well as the public."

In the early days in their discussion of television engineers referred to it as "distant electric vision."

Schwalbach Named Exalted Ruler by Kingston Elks

At Thursday night's meeting, members of Kingston Lodge, 550, B.P.O. Elks elected John J. Schwalbach exalted ruler for the ensuing year, and gave a vote of appreciation to Francis McDonough and his committees for their successful Irish Night program.

The panel of officers elected to serve under Exalted Ruler Schwalbach consists of:

Francis J. McCardle, esteemed leading knight; Robert M. Smith, esteemed loyal knight; John Machione, esteemed lecturing knight; Sydney Flisser, secretary; Paul J. Kaman, Jr., treasurer; Dr. Harry Meinhardt, tiler; Joseph S. Disch and Albert H. Kaufman, Jr., trustees for three years.

Disch and Flisser are both past exalted rulers of the lodge, and Flisser is now serving as district deputy.

James G. Connelly, retiring exalted ruler, was voted a life membership in the Elks by his fraternal brothers of Kingston lodge.

The Irish Night program arranged for March 17 by Chairman McDonough and his committees was reported as one of the most successful nationality nights ever held in the lodge hall.

Approximately 225 attended the dinner and dance, music for which was furnished by Harry Maisenhelder's orchestra.

Among guests of honor entertained by District Deputy Flisser at the event were members of Port Jervis Lodge, Philip Parker, past district deputy; David Knight, past district deputy; Kenneth Shields, past exalted ruler and John Monahan.

Esteemed Loyal Knight Smith favored the gathering with a series of Irish songs and the rest of the entertainment bill featured the the Cedar Rest Boys, Jack Carter, Joe Brophy, Jim Strubel and Johnny Fisher, formerly one of this area's leading song and dance men who came from Troy for the occasion.

The meal was prepared and served by Robert Boyle of City Hall Grill.

Rec Group Plans 'Bambi' Film for Special Showings

Five special showings of Walt Disney's popular movie, "Bambi" have been arranged by the recreation department next Tuesday at 97 Broadway as a special program for the youth of Kingston.

The initial showing of the technicolor picture will be at 10 a. m. Subsequent showings are slated for 1 p. m., 4 p. m., 7 p. m. and at 8:30 p. m. The 8:30 p. m. show will be restricted to adults and teen-agers.

The full-length cartoon film deals with Bambi and his woodland friends including Faline, his girl; Thumper, the irrepressible rabbit; Friend Owl, the woodland philosopher; Flower the Skunk, and a score of lesser players from the bird and animal kingdom.

Both children and adults have enjoyed seeing the film earlier which gives a different twist to normal stories. The villians of "Bambi" are man and his dogs who invade the woodland paradise inhabited by Bambi and his friends.

Both adults and children of the city are invited to attend the movie next Tuesday.

Deputies Go Free

Miami, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Five former Dade county deputy sheriffs accused of accepting bribes from gamblers went free in criminal court yesterday when a prosecutor called the state's own star witness a liar. George Patton, also a former deputy sheriff and the state's only witness, was testifying when Assistant County Prosecutor Herbert Shapiro walked to the bench and said: "I can't sit here any longer and listen to this witness lie to the jury. I must resign from the case." Judge Ben C. Willard then polled the jurors and each said he believed Patton was lying. The judge then instructed the jury to acquit B. F. Shields, J. P. Kersey, R. S. McLeroy, E. E. Sistrunk and P. M. Brannon.

Dangerous, Says Italy

Washington, March 23 (AP)—The Italian government reportedly has warned the West that rearmament of Russia's Balkan satellites has created a dangerous situation in the Mediterranean. Officials here told a reporter yesterday the warning was passed on to the governments of the United States, Britain, France and Yugoslavia. At the same time, it was learned, Italy indirectly appealed for revision of peace treaty restrictions to allow increases in her own armed forces.

53 Persons Missing

erations said the plane carried a Brigadier General Cullens. This report aroused belief that he was Brig. Gen. Paul T. Cullen, deputy commander at Barksdale Field, near Shreveport, La., who left there Wednesday for a European destination.

The missing plane took off from an intermediate stop at Gander, Newfoundland, at 4:20 p. m. (11:20 a. m., EST) yesterday and was due at Mildenhall at 5:20 a. m. (12:20 a. m.) today.

The first alert was sent out at 3:49 a. m. (10:49 p. m., EST, Thursday) after the craft failed to give further position reports.

No information was received from any of the weather ships along the route which the huge craft was supposed to follow.

The C-124, larger, more modern version of the C-74 troop and cargo plane, is capable of transporting more than 200 troops with full field equipment. When fully loaded, it can fly about 2,000 miles without refueling.

Janitor Exams Are Set for April 7th

The local Civil Service Commission announced today that examinations will be held April 7 at 7:30 p. m. in the high school for the positions of head janitor, janitor and janitress in local schools.

Applications will be received by the city clerk through March 31 which is the last day for filing.

The head janitor and janitress positions are to be filled at the high school and the janitor vacancies are at other schools.

The commission announced that Stanley Snow, of Washington street and Joseph B. Dunne, 363 South Wall street, had passed the dog warden examination held in February. Snow has been holding the position under temporary appointment for some time.

Memoriam

In sad and loving remembrance of our dear daughter, Marlene Rose Tiano, on this her 14th birthday.

"Happy Birthday" in heaven dear.
She was ours for such a little while,
But why should we complain,
God dropped a flower at our door,
and came for it again.

MR. & MRS. LOUIS TIANO
Loving Parents

Memoriam

In ever loving memory of our mother, Lucy Wolfersheim, who passed away March 23, 1950.

We watched that evening beside her bed,
Our hearts were sad and sore,
We did our duty to the end,
Till we could do no more.
Sleep on, dear mother, it is true,
You suffered long, and told but few,
Till one who knew you needed rest,
Was God above, and He knew best.

SONS and DAUGHTERS.

Memoriam

In loving memory of Grace Davis, who departed from this life one year ago, March 23, 1950.

You gave me this garden,
You gave me a heart
You've given me this beauty supreme.
When I stumble and crash,
And my world turns to ash,
I cling to your wonderful dream.

Roosas Say Taxi Service Not Sold

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roosa, operators of Roosa Taxi Service, 309 Fair street, today told The Freeman their business "has not been sold."

It was reported that negotiations are underway for the sale, but Mr. and Mrs. Roosa offered no comment on progress of the alleged transaction beyond saying the business "has not been sold."

It is reported that the transfer, if effected, will take place without interruption of service and the name, Roosa's Taxi Service, will be retained.

Prospective purchasers, according to a reliable source, are Mrs. George Loughran, of 11 Cottage Row, and William Loughran, of East Strand. Legal aspects of the negotiations are being handled by Chris J. Flanagan and Robert Ortale, Ortale told The Freeman this afternoon.

Established 20 Years Ago

Roosa's Taxi Service was established 20 years ago as the city's first taxi company to carry two passengers anywhere in the city for 25 cents. Its founder and present owner, Charles Roosa, is a former detective sergeant for the New York Central Railroad.

The company, in its 20 years, has built up a record of safety and its drivers are proud of the fact that they are called upon frequently by parents to transport young children.

If the deal is consummated, those who are negotiating to purchase the business plan to continue the present drivers in their employ, according to a source close to the prospective purchasers, who are local persons. William Loughran, one of the principals, is a native of the Ponckhockie section of the city. He is a brother of Patrolman George Loughran of the Kingston Police Department.

Jeffers Assails

yet. It was dated March 16 and was mailed from Jeffers' home in Pasadena, Calif. Copies went to each member of the Senate.

No Retirement Comfort

March 16 was the day after the deadline for millions of Americans to shuck out billions of dollars in income taxes to Uncle Sam.

"A couple of years ago I retired, after working for 55 years and, of course, I expected to enjoy some comfort in retirement," Jeffers told Barkley.

"However, I find that about half of my pension is going for taxes and, mind you, this is just for federal taxes and does not include the numerous other taxes I am required to pay.

"So, instead of enjoying my retirement, I am confronted with a battle on my hands to get enough together to even make a living.

Earned It Hard Way

"If these taxes were necessary for the welfare of this country, I wouldn't begrudge a cent of it, but when I see my hard-earned money (and make no mistake about it, I earned it the hard way), and that of millions of good Americans being thrown down a hundred rat holes, then I rebel. It's time to stop!"

Jeffers said the welfare of the country "must be put ahead of politics" and added that Barkley and the Senate "are confronted with a decision in that regard right now." Then he said:

"The 1950 annual expenditures were around $40 billion. Now the President proposes to spend almost $92 billion in 1951 and almost $100 billion in 1952. Do you honestly think taxes can carry this load? Where is the tax money coming from? * * *

Why Should HST Worry

"Why should the President worry about his personal taxes when the rest of us taxpayers pay his living expenses, entertainment expenses, maintain his home and grounds, provide him with a fleet of automobiles and chauffeur for himself and his family, staff a private yacht and an airplane for his numerous vacation trips?

"Don't you think the time has arrived for you fellows who are elected by the taxpayers to take this matter in hand and really do something about it for the benefit of the country as a whole and for your own constituents?"

Jeffers told Barkley "You won't have any trouble finding plenty of men who are able and willing, when the showdown comes, to forget politics and get this country back on a level keel."

Final Fireside Meeting

The final informal fireside discussion period held nightly during the Lenten season at the Y.M.C.A. will take place tonight at 7:30 o'clock, Burt Tandy, secretary, has announced. Tonight's round-table discussion will center around the theme, "When Should We Be Willing to Make Sacrifices?" The fireside story hour for younger boys will be held Saturday at 11:15 a. m. The story of "The Sandals" will be told by Secretary Tandy. The usual custom of a quiet period at the Y was observed from noon until 3 o'clock today in observance of Good Friday.

Wicks Says Racing Probe Starts May 15

Albany, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—A $25,000 investigation of all phases of horse racing in New York state will get underway about May 15, Republican Leader Arthur H. Wicks of the state Senate said today.

Wicks, chairman of the joint legislative committee to conduct the probe, said the investigators first would consult with members of the State Racing Commission "for their views on the whole setup."

The investigation was authorized by the Legislature shortly before it adjourned last Friday.

Wicks said he was assembling a technical staff and soon would select a counsel for the official inquiry by the committee of four senators and three assemblymen.

Wicks sponsored the resolution authorizing the investigation. Sponsors of such resolutions usually head committees their measures create.

The resolution prescribed a study of all phases of running and harness racing, including "moral, economic and technical questions."

Lull Taken . . .

day. Zwillman, Prohibition era figure, has been linked to Murder, Inc., in testimony before the committee. In New York, Zwillman called that ridiculous.

The pudgy, balding Guzik met most inquiries of senators and counsel with the monotonous repetition:

"I refuse to answer because it might incriminate me or tend to incriminate me or lead in some devious way to incriminate me."

When Senator Wiley (R.-Wis.) asked Guzik if he had consulted a lawyer, the witness replied with one of his few direct answers: "No."

"Where did you get this phrase you have been using?" asked Wiley, a lawyer.

"I heard it on television," Guzik replied. Spectators jammed into the ornate, high-ceiling Senate caucus room roared with laughter.

Guzik even declined to say whether he had a brother Harry. Chicago sources familiar with the old Capone gang say Harry Guzik was known as "Greasy Thumb" and that Jacob Guzik inherited the nickname after his brother died in 1949. Both evidently got the name from their habit of licking a thumb while counting out money.

Kefauver told reporters he had been informed that Guzik was seen before he testified with George F. Callaghan of Chicago, who appeared as attorney for racketeer Tony Accardo when Accardo was questioned by the committee here Jan. 5.

New Trouble . . .

$4,500,000,000 tax increase already has been eaten up in the higher price the government must pay for weapons and military equipment.

Of the wage control dispute which has paralyzed the Wage Stabilization Board through the withdrawal of its three labor members, Johnston said:

"So long as there is any hope left, I intend to keep on meeting with management and labor in an effort to get a wage board back to work."

Senator Maybank said hearings will start about April 4 on the congressional investigation of the mobilization program. Officials of "at least 50" federal agencies involved in the defense program will be called as witnesses, Maybank added.

Senator Capehart (R-Ind.), a member of Maybank's Senate-House Committee on Defense Production, told newsmen the inquiry "will try to find out why they are not controlling prices, not controlling wages, not controlling anything."

Resume Relations

Panama, Panama, March 23 (AP)—Panama and Spain have resumed diplomatic relations, a spokesman for President Arnulfo Arias announced today. Panama broke relations with the government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco in 1945. Recognition at that time extended to the Spanish republican government in exile was withdrawn last year.

'Greasy Thumb' Won't Talk

Jacob "Greasy Thumb" Guzik (right), reputedly one of the key figures in the Capone crime empire, is turned over to the Senate Crime Investigating Committee in Washington by Senate Sergeant-at-arms Joseph C. Duke. Called to testify, Guzik refused to answer any questions and was held in $10,000 bail on contempt charges. (NEA Telephoto)

O'Dwyer Faces . . .

Study Is Asked

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D.-Tenn.), probe committee chairman, said he asked the Justice Department and U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol in New York to go over the entire record of the hearing in New York for possible perjury prosecutions against O'Dwyer, Moran and others.

A House subcommittee referred the alleged payments by Crane to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The New York State Tax Department is making a routine check of all crime hearing evidence.

A subcommittee member, Rep. King (D.-Calif.), said the tax evasion study by the bureau applies to O'Dwyer, Moran "and others in the New York area."

O'Dwyer, talking with newsmen yesterday, again insisted he told the truth when he denied taking any political contribution from Crane.

Denies Plan to Quit

O'Dwyer also denied he was planning to resign as ambassador, saying, "my superiors will be the judge of that."

There has been no comment from Washington.

Of Crane's testimony, O'Dwyer said: "I'm naturally shocked."

O'Dwyer also said he would appear again on Monday before the rackets-probing grand jury in Brooklyn and then enter a hospital for a physical checkup.

Moran was a deputy fire commissioner when he allegedly took money from Crane.

Crane Has Union Trouble

Crane is in hot water with top union officials. In Washington, John P. Redmond, president of the International Association of Firefighters, said yesterday he was giving Crane until noon today to resign as vice-president of the IAF.

Redmond said the union's constitution requires it to be nonpartisan in political campaigns, and also bars any action deemed detrimental to the union.

The repercussions of Crane's testimony during the final moments of the Senate crime group's eight-day hearing spread to New York state politics.

Sen. Arthur H. Wicks, majority leader of the state Senate, has asked Manhattan District Attorney Frank S. Hogan to reveal —if he knows—whether any funds from Crane's local union went to bribe legislators.

New Cast

James J. Carroll, St. Louis "betting commissioner," was the star as the Senate Crime Investigating Committee moved to Washington. He told the committee that Frank Erickson, New York gambler, was mistaken when he testified that the two did business with each other. (NEA Telephoto)

Wicks Asks Data

of the Firemen's Association, before the Kefauver Committee.

Crane testified Wednesday that $60,000 in association funds had been used in 1948 and 1949 to promote state legislation favorable to firemen. Crane did not make clear just how the money was spent, Wicks said.

"A possible inference from the testimony is that the money was used to bribe members of the legislature," Wicks wrote. "* * * I ask that you publicly state whether or not you have any evidence that any member of the legislature was bribed by Mr. Crane or his association or was the beneficiary of the fund referred to by Mr. Crane.

"If so, I ask that the recipient be identified. This matter should be clarified in the interest of the members of the Legislature, as well as the public."

In the early days in their discussion of television engineers referred to it as "distant electric vision."

Schwalbach Named Exalted Ruler by Kingston Elks

At Thursday night's meeting, members of Kingston Lodge, 550, B.P.O. Elks elected John J. Schwalbach exalted ruler for the ensuing year, and gave a vote of appreciation to Francis McDonough and his committees for their successful Irish Night program.

The panel of officers elected to serve under Exalted Ruler Schwalbach consists of:

Francis J. McCardle, esteemed leading knight; Robert M. Smith, esteemed loyal knight; John Machione, esteemed lecturing knight; Sydney Flisser, secretary; Paul J. Kaman, Jr., treasurer; Dr. Harry Meinhardt, tiler; Joseph S. Disch and Albert H. Kaufman, Jr., trustees for three years.

Disch and Flisser are both past exalted rulers of the lodge, and Flisser is now serving as district deputy.

James G. Connelly, retiring exalted ruler, was voted a life membership in the Elks by his fraternal brothers of Kingston lodge.

The Irish Night program arranged for March 17 by Chairman McDonough and his committees was reported as one of the most successful nationality nights ever held in the lodge hall.

Approximately 225 attended the dinner and dance, music for which was furnished by Harry Maisenhelder's orchestra.

Among guests of honor entertained by District Deputy Flisser at the event were members of Port Jervis Lodge, Philip Parker, past district deputy; David Knight, past district deputy; Kenneth Shields, past exalted ruler and John Menahan.

Esteemed Loyal Knight Smith favored the gathering with a series of Irish songs and the rest of the entertainment bill featured the the Cedar Rest Boys, Jack Carter, Joe Brophy, Jim Strubel and Johnny Fisher, formerly one of this area's leading song and dance men who came from Troy for the occasion.

The meal was prepared and served by Robert Boyle of City Hall Grill.

Rec Group Plans 'Bambi' Film for Special Showings

Five special showings of Walt Disney's popular movie, "Bambi" have been arranged by the recreation department next Tuesday at 97 Broadway as a special program for the youth of Kingston.

The initial showing of the technicolor picture will be at 10 a. m. Subsequent showings are slated for 1 p. m., 4 p. m., 7 p. m. and at 8:30 p. m. The 8:30 p. m. show will be restricted to adults and teen-agers.

The full-length cartoon film deals with Bambi and his woodland friends including Faline, his girl; Thumper, the irrepressible rabbit; Friend Owl, the woodland philosopher; Flower the Skunk, and a score of lesser players from the bird and animal kingdom.

Both children and adults have enjoyed seeing the film earlier which gives a different twist to normal stories. The villians of "Bambi" are man and his dogs who invade the woodland paradise inhabited by Bambi and his friends.

Both adults and children of the city are invited to attend the movie next Tuesday.

Deputies Go Free

Miami, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Five former Dade county deputy sheriffs accused of accepting bribes from gamblers went free in criminal court yesterday when a prosecutor called the state's own star witness a liar. George Patton, also a former deputy sheriff and the state's only witness, was testifying when Assistant County Prosecutor Herbert Shapiro walked to the bench and said: "I can't sit here any longer and listen to this witness lie to the jury. I must resign from the case." Judge Ben C. Willard then polled the jurors and each said he believed Patton was lying. The judge then instructed the jury to acquit B. F. Shields, J. P. Kersey, R. S. McLeroy, E. E. Sistrunk and P. M. Brannon.

Dangerous, Says Italy

Washington, March 23 (AP)—The Italian government reportedly has warned the West that rearmament of Russia's Balkan satellites has created a dangerous situation in the Mediterranean. Officials here told a reporter yesterday the warning was passed on to the governments of the United States, Britain, France and Yugoslavia. At the same time, it was learned, Italy indirectly appealed for revision of peace treaty restrictions to allow increases in her own armed forces.

53 Persons Missing

erations said the plane carried a Brigadier General Cullens. This report aroused belief that he was Brig. Gen. Paul T. Cullen, deputy commander at Barksdale Field, near Shreveport, La., who left there Wednesday for a European destination.

The missing plane took off from an intermediate stop at Gander, Newfoundland, at 4:20 p. m. (11:20 a. m., EST) yesterday and was due at Mildenhall at 5:20 a. m. (12:20 a. m.) today.

The first alert was sent out at 3:49 a. m. (10:49 p. m., EST, Thursday) after the craft failed to give further position reports.

No information was received from any of the weather ships along the route which the huge craft was supposed to follow.

The C-124, larger, more modern version of the C-74 troop and cargo plane, is capable of transporting more than 200 troops with full field equipment. When fully loaded, it can fly about 2,000 miles without refuelling.

Janitor Exams Are Set for April 7th

The local Civil Service Commission announced today that examinations will be held April 7 at 7:30 p. m. in the high school for the positions of head janitor, janitor and janitress in local schools.

Applications will be received by the city clerk through March 31 which is the last day for filing.

The head janitor and janitress positions are to be filled at the high school and the janitor vacancies are at other schools.

The commission announced that Stanley Snow, of Washington street and Joseph B. Dunne, 363 South Wall street, had passed the dog warden examination held in February. Snow has been holding the position under temporary appointment for some time.

Memoriam

In sad and loving remembrance of our dear daughter, Marlene Rose Tiano, on this her 14th birthday.

"Happy Birthday" in heaven dear.
She was ours for such a little while,
But why should we complain,
God dropped a flower at our door,
and came for it again.

MR. & MRS. LOUIS TIANO
Loving Parents

Memoriam

In ever loving memory of our mother, Lucy Wolfersheim, who passed away March 23, 1950.

We watched that evening beside her bed,
Our hearts were sad and sore,
We did our duty to the end,
Till we could do no more.
Sleep on, dear mother, it is true,
You suffered long, and told but few,
Till one who knew you needed rest,

SONS and DAUGHTERS.

Memoriam

In loving memory of Grace Davis, who departed from this life one year ago, March 23, 1950.

You gave me this garden,
You gave me a heart
You've given me this beauty supreme.
When I stumble and crash,
And my world turns to ash,
I cling to your wonderful dream.

Roosas Say Taxi Service Not Sold

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roosa, operators of Roosa Taxi Service, 309 Fair street, today told The Freeman their business "has not been sold."

It was reported that negotiations are underway for the sale, but Mr. and Mrs. Roosa offered no comment on progress of the alleged transaction beyond saying the business "has not been sold."

It is reported that the transfer, if effected, will take place without interruption of service and the name, Roosa's Taxi Service, will be retained.

Prospective purchasers, according to a reliable source, are Mrs. George Loughran, of 11 Cottage Row, and William Loughran, of East Strand. Legal aspects of the negotiations are being handled by Chris J. Flanagan and Robert Ortale, Ortale told The Freeman this afternoon.

Established 20 Years Ago

Roosa's Taxi Service was established 20 years ago as the city's first taxi company to carry two passengers anywhere in the city for 25 cents. Its founder and present owner, Charles Roosa, is a former detective sergeant for the New York Central Railroad.

The company, in its 20 years, has built up a record of safety and its drivers are proud of the fact that they are called upon frequently by parents to transport young children.

If the deal is consummated, those who are negotiating to purchase the business plan to continue the present drivers in their employ, according to a source close to the prospective purchasers, who are local persons. William Loughran, one of the principals, is a native of the Ponckhockie section of the city. He is a brother of Patrolman George Loughran of the Kingston Police Department.

Jeffers Assails

yet. It was dated March 16 and was mailed from Jeffers' home in Pasadena, Calif. Copies went to each member of the Senate.

No Retirement Comfort

March 16 was the day after the deadline for millions of Americans to shuck out billions of dollars in income taxes to Uncle Sam.

"A couple of years ago I retired, after working for 55 years and, of course, I expected to enjoy some comfort in retirement," Jeffers told Barkley.

"However, I find that about half of my pension is going for taxes and, mind you, this is just for federal taxes and does not include the numerous other taxes I am required to pay.

"So, instead of enjoying my retirement, I am confronted with a battle on my hands to get enough together to even make a living.

Earned It Hard Way

"If these taxes were necessary for the welfare of this country, I wouldn't begrudge a cent of it, but when I see my hard-earned money (and make no mistake about it, I earned it the hard way), and that of millions of good Americans being thrown down a hundred rat holes, then I rebel. It's time to stop!"

Jeffers said the welfare of the country "must be put ahead of politics" and added that Barkley and the Senate "are confronted with a decision in that regard right now." Then he said:

"The 1950 annual expenditures were around $40 billion. Now the President proposes to spend almost $92 billion in 1951 and almost $100 billion in 1952. Do you honestly think taxes can carry this load? Where is the tax money coming from? * * *

Why Should HST Worry

"Why should the President worry about his personal taxes when the rest of us taxpayers pay his living expenses, entertainment expenses, maintain his home and grounds, provide him with a fleet of automobiles and chauffeur for himself and his family, staff a private yacht and an airplane for his numerous vacation trips?

"Don't you think the time has arrived for you fellows who are elected by the taxpayers to take this matter in hand and really do something about it for the benefit of the country as a whole and for your own constituents?"

Jeffers told Barkley "You won't have any trouble finding plenty of men who are able and willing, when the showdown comes, to forget politics and get this country back on a level keel."

Wicks Says Racing Probe Starts May 15

Albany, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—A $25,000 investigation of all phases of horse racing in New York state will get underway about May 15, Republican Leader Arthur H. Wicks of the state Senate said today.

Wicks, chairman of the joint legislative committee to conduct the probe, said the investigators first would consult with members of the State Racing Commission "for their views on the whole setup."

The investigation was authorized by the Legislature shortly before it adjourned last Friday.

Wicks said he was assembling a technical staff and soon would select a counsel for the official inquiry by the committee of four senators and three assemblymen.

Wicks sponsored the resolution authorizing the investigation. Sponsors of such resolutions usually head committees their measures create.

The resolution prescribed a study of all phases of running and harness racing, including "moral, economic and technical questions."

Lull Taken . . .

day. Zwillman, Prohibition era figure, has been linked to Murder, Inc., in testimony before the committee. In New York, Zwillman called that ridiculous.

The pudgy, balding Guzik met most inquiries of senators and counsel with the monotonous repetition:

"I refuse to answer because it might incriminate me or tend to incriminate me or lead in some devious way to incriminate me."

When Senator Wiley (R.-Wis.) asked Guzik if he had consulted a lawyer, the witness replied with one of his few direct answers: "No."

"Where did you get this phrase you have been using?" asked Wiley, a lawyer.

"I heard it on television," Guzik replied. Spectators jammed into the ornate, high-ceiling Senate caucus room roared with laughter.

Guzik even declined to say whether he had a brother Harry. Chicago sources familiar with the old Capone gang say Harry Guzik was known as "Greasy Thumb" and that Jacob Guzik inherited the nickname after his brother died in 1949. Both evidently got the name from their habit of licking a thumb while counting out money.

Kefauver told reporters he had been informed that Guzik was seen before he testified with George F. Callaghan of Chicago, who appeared as attorney for racketeer Tony Accardo when Accardo was questioned by the committee here Jan. 5.

$4,500,000,000 tax increase already has been eaten up in the higher price the government must pay for weapons and military equipment.

Of the wage control dispute which has paralyzed the Wage Stabilization Board through the withdrawal of its three labor members, Johnston said:

"So long as there is any hope left, I intend to keep on meeting with management and labor in an effort to get a wage board back to work."

Senator Maybank said hearings will start about April 4 on the congressional investigation of the mobilization program. Officials of "at least 50" federal agencies involved in the defense program will be called as witnesses, Maybank added.

Senator Capehart (R-Ind.), a member of Maybank's Senate-House Committee on Defense Production, told newsmen the inquiry "will try to find out why they are not controlling prices, not controlling wages, not controlling anything."

'Greasy Thumb' Won't Talk

O'Dwyer Faces . . .

Study Is Asked

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D.-Tenn.), probe committee chairman, said he asked the Justice Department and U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol in New York to go over the entire record of the hearing in New York for possible perjury prosecutions against O'Dwyer, Moran and others.

A House subcommittee referred the alleged payments by Crane to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The New York State Tax Department is making a routine check of all crime hearing evidence.

A subcommittee member, Rep. King (D.-Calif.), said the tax evasion study by the bureau applies to O'Dwyer, Moran "and others in the New York area."

O'Dwyer, talking with newsmen yesterday, again insisted he told the truth when he denied taking any political contribution from Crane.

Denies Plan to Quit

O'Dwyer also denied he was planning to resign as ambassador, saying, "my superiors will be the judge of that."

There has been no comment from Washington.

Of Crane's testimony, O'Dwyer said: "I'm naturally shocked."

O'Dwyer also said he would appear again on Monday before the rackets-probing grand jury in Brooklyn and then enter a hospital for a physical checkup.

Moran was a deputy fire commissioner when he allegedly took money from Crane.

Crane Has Union Trouble

Crane is in hot water with top union officials. In Washington, John P. Redmond, president of the International Association of Firefighters, said yesterday he was giving Crane until noon today to resign as vice-president of the IAF.

Redmond said the union's constitution requires it to be nonpartisan in political campaigns, and also bars any action deemed detrimental to the union.

The repercussions of Crane's testimony during the final moments of the Senate crime group's eight-day hearing spread to New York state politics.

Sen. Arthur H. Wicks, majority leader of the state Senate, has asked Manhattan District Attorney Frank S. Hogan to reveal —if he knows—whether any funds from Crane's local union went to bribe legislators.

Wicks Asks Data

of the Firemen's Association, before the Kefauver Committee.

Crane testified Wednesday that $60,000 in association funds had been used in 1948 and 1949 to promote state legislation favorable to firemen. Crane did not make clear just how the money was spent, Wicks said.

"A possible inference from the testimony is that the money was used to bribe members of the legislature," Wicks wrote. "* * * I ask that you publicly state whether or not you have any evidence that any member of the legislature was bribed by Mr. Crane or his association or was the beneficiary of the fund referred to by Mr. Crane.

"If so, I ask that the recipient be identified. This matter should be clarified in the interest of the members of the Legislature, as well as the public."

In the early days in their discussion of television engineers referred to it as "distant electric vision."

SchwalbachNamed Exalted Ruler by Kingston Elks

At Thursday night's meeting, members of Kingston Lodge, 550, B.P.O. Elks elected John J. Schwalbach exalted ruler for the ensuing year, and gave a vote of appreciation to Francis McDonough and his committees for their successful Irish Night program.

The panel of officers elected to serve under Exalted Ruler Schwalbach consists of:

Francis J. McCardle, esteemed leading knight; Robert M. Smith, esteemed loyal knight; John Machione, esteemed lecturing knight; Sydney Flisser, secretary; Paul J. Kaman, Jr., treasurer; Dr. Harry Meinhardt, tiler; Joseph S. Disch and Albert H. Kaufman, Jr., trustees for three years.

Disch and Flisser are both past exalted rulers of the lodge, and Flisser is now serving as district deputy.

James G. Connelly, retiring exalted ruler, was voted a life membership in the Elks by his fraternal brothers of Kingston lodge.

The Irish Night program arranged for March 17 by Chairman McDonough and his committees was reported as one of the most successful nationality nights ever held in the lodge hall.

Approximately 225 attended the dinner and dance, music for which was furnished by Harry Maisenhelder's orchestra.

Among guests of honor entertained by District Deputy Flisser at the event were members of Port Jervis Lodge, Philip Parker, past district deputy; David Knight, past district deputy; Kenneth Shields, past exalted ruler and John Monahan.

Esteemed Loyal Knight Smith favored the gathering with a series of Irish songs and the rest of the entertainment bill featured the the Cedar Rest Boys, Jack Carter, Joe Brophy, Jim Strubel and Johnny Fisher, formerly one of this area's leading song and dance men who came from Troy for the occasion.

The meal was prepared and served by Robert Boyle of City Hall Grill.

Rec Group Plans 'Bambi' Film for Special Showings

Five special showings of Walt Disney's popular movie, "Bambi" have been arranged by the recreation department next Tuesday at 97 Broadway as a special program for the youth of Kingston.

The initial showing of the technicolor picture will be at 10 a. m. Subsequent showings are slated for 1 p. m., 3 p. m., 7 p. m. and at 8:30 p. m. The 8:30 p. m. show will be restricted to adults and teen-agers.

The full-length cartoon film deals with Bambi and his woodland friends including Faline, his girl; Thumper, the irrepressible rabbit; Friend Owl, the woodland philosopher; Flower the Skunk, and a score of lesser players from the bird and animal kingdom.

Both children and adults have enjoyed seeing the film earlier which gives a different twist to normal stories. The villians of "Bambi" are man and his dogs who invade the woodland paradise inhabited by Bambi and his friends.

Both adults and children of the city are invited to attend the movie next Tuesday.

Deputies Go Free

Miami, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Five former Dade county deputy sheriffs accused of accepting bribes from gamblers went free in criminal court yesterday when a prosecutor called the state's own star witness a liar. George Patton, also a former deputy sheriff and the state's only witness, was testifying when Assistant County Prosecutor Herbert Shapiro walked to the bench and said: "I can't sit here any longer and listen to this witness lie to the jury. I must resign from the case." Judge Ben C. Willard then polled the jurors and each said he believed Patton was lying. The judge then instructed the jury to acquit B. F. Shields, J. P. Kersey, R. S. McLeroy, E. E. Sistrunk and P. M. Brannon.

Dangerous, Says Italy

Washington, March 23 (AP)—The Italian government reportedly has warned the West that rearmament of Russia's Balkan satellites has created a dangerous situation in the Mediterranean. Officials here told a reporter yesterday the warning was passed on to the governments of the United States, Britain, France and Yugoslavia. At the same time, it was learned, Italy indirectly appealed for revision of peace treaty restrictions to allow increases in her own armed forces.

53 Persons Missing

erations said the plane carried a Brigadier General Cullens. This report aroused belief that he was Brig. Gen. Paul T. Cullen, deputy commander at Barksdale Field, near Shreveport, La., who left there Wednesday for a European destination.

The missing plane took off from an intermediate stop at Gander, Newfoundland, at 4:20 p. m. (11:20 a. m., EST) yesterday and was due at Mildenhall at 5:20 a. m. (12:20 a. m.) today.

The first alert was sent out at 3:49 a. m. (10:49 p. m., EST, Thursday) after the craft failed to give further position reports.

No information was received from any of the weather ships along the route which the huge craft was supposed to follow.

The C-124, larger, more modern version of the C-74 troop and cargo plane, is capable of transporting more than 200 troops with full field equipment. When fully loaded, it can fly about 2,000 miles without refuelling.

So then, after the Lord had spoken unto them, he was received up into heaven, and sat on the right hand of God.

So they ran both together: and the other disciple did outrun Peter, and came first to the sepulchre.—St. John, 20:4

And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, Jesus met them, saying, All hail. And they came and held him by the feet, and worshipped him.—St. Matthews, 28:9

The Other Miracle

(A STORY FOR THE EASTER SEASON)

By John B. McGuire

Joel had followed the crowd of the curious mulling about the porch of the high priest's palace. Inside, the Nazarene prophet, who had created such a stir in the land, was face to face with his inquisitors. Joel had known it was only a question of time before it would come to this. Having lived for some years in Jerusalem, his ears had become attuned to the currents of thought and opinion that swirled through the Holy City. He had tried to tell Miriam she was a silly girl to permit herself to become so captivated by one whose words and deeds had aroused the suspicion and hostility of the authorities. There was no doubt that this Jesus was courting death. There had been that occasion, for instance, when he had been so recklessly audacious as personally to drive the money changers from the precincts of the Temple, by way of demonstrating his disgust and indignation over what he regarded as gross commercialization of the House of God. Bravery of a sort, Joel grudgingly had admitted, but folly, too.

This trumped-up trial in the high priest's house represented the outcome of the unequal contest.

Miriam, with a woman's obstinacy, had refused to be convinced by Joels' pleadings. Yes, Joel had to admit the Galilean stranger had come between him and the girl he loved. Joel felt she still cared for him, but her devotion to the teachings of Jesus had raised a barrier between them. When she spoke of "The Master," his work and his teachings, her large, dark eyes grew radiant with an earnestness that served only to exasperate the practical-minded young merchant, who could not tolerate the notion of divided loyalties in the heart of the beautiful creature whom, until recently, he had hoped to make his wife. It was when he told her something to this effect that the bitter words were exchanged that resulted in their parting. He had not seen her since.

No reason existed for Joel to feel any sympathy toward the man on trial. Nor did he. Yet, as he paced to and fro to keep warm in the nippy night air, he couldn't help wondering. He had seen the face of Jesus as the accused prophet was led inside the palace, and there was something arrestingly appealing in the pale but serene countenance the young business man beheld. During that moment or two that his eyes rested on the Nazarene's face, he felt a strange stirring deep inside. For no more than an instant he responded to the urgency of an indescribable compulsion. It was as though strong magnetic influences were drawing him close to the heart of things he comprehended not, but with which he felt a strong spiritual kinship. Then the prisoner and his guards had passed inside the palace and the spectator's mood vanished, swiftly as it had come.

The sound of voices aroused Joel from his thoughts. A woman was making the shrill accusation: "This fellow also was with Jesus of Nazareth." A man's gruff voice rose in denial. It sounded familiar to Joel and he turned to identify it. The girl he didn't know, but the man's face he had seen before. He noticed that the hulking figure was clad in the rustic attire of a Galilean fisherman —and he remembered! Once, when he was in the company of Miriam, this man had passed in the street and she had proudly mentioned that he was Simon Peter, chief of Jesus' disciples.

Joel almost disbelieved his ears. Why, Peter was denying his Master! Perhaps Joel had not heard aright. But any doubts that lingered in his mind were swept away as others on the porch crowded around, reiterating the girl's accusation. With an angry oath, Peter repeated: "I know not the man," and stalked off into the darkness, as a crowing cock hearlded the approach of dawn.

A great contempt welled up in Joel. Now, more than ever, he knew that poor Miriam had been tragically fooled. She had become the follower of one whose closest friends deserted and denied him in an hour of danger. Probably most of his followers were weaklings of the same sort as Peter, ardent enough in their enthusiasm when the leader's popularity was high, but slinking away in fear when he most needed their help. Jesus himself might possess courage, but it was the courage of the misguided fanatic who creates trouble and unrest in the community. Joel had no further interest in what happened to the man on trial. Turning on his heel he, too, left the porch.

The young man pleasantly surveyed the surroundings of his well furnished home. Business was good. Despite the religious controversy that perpetually seemed to beset the city, he had no cause to complain. He had refrained from becoming involved in these disputes and had devoted his efforts toward the more practical challenge of making a living — and he could tell himself he was succeeding nicely. As an up-an-coming merchant, however, Joel did resent the activities of the new sect that continued to seek converts to the cause of the crucified Nazarene. They seemed bent on interfering with the properly constituted order of things. He couldn't understand how they managed to gain followers, in view of their leader's ignominious death, but attributed their success to the preposterous story they had cleverly spread about their Master's having risen from the dead. Although he had dismissed the tale with a scornful laugh, Joel well realized that others had not. He was thankful that he wasn't interested in mysteries and magic, and could keep his eye on the main chance.

Yet, Joel wasn't fully satisfied. There was Miriam. He had lost her because of the appearance of a Galilean adventurer, and what was especially galling was the thought that he had lost her to a failure, who had died a criminal's death, deserted, betrayed and denied. Whenever Joel was tempted to wonder whether this crucified Jesus was anything other than an ill-advised prophet whose bold denunciation of the rich and mighty had brought him to an untimely end, there came to mind the words he had heard on the porch of the high priest's house, and the picture of Peter stumbling hurriedly off into the darkness. This recollection made it easy for Joel to convince himself that those who called themselves followers of Jesus were at heart timid, fearful and superstitious folk.

The subject probably never would have bothered Joel at all if it weren't for Miriam. He was deeply in love with her, and she had given him every reason to believe that it was reciprocated. It was not easy for him to forget the dulcet tones of her voice, the luminous beauty of her eyes, the compelling charm of her smile.

A crowd had gathered near the Gate Called Beautiful. Only yesterday it had happened, and one who claimed actually to have witnessed the miracle was making the most of the opportunity to command an attentive audience.

"With my own eyes I saw the lame man healed," he was saying. "All of you recall the cripple who lay here daily, begging alms. Yesterday his family brought him to the accustomed spot. Soon afterward two men approached. He should have known from their humble attire they'd have no money to give, but he stretched forth his arms and asked an alms.

"Then," the speaker continued, his voice rising in his own excitement, "a strange thing happened — a strange thing, I tell you. The pair he had supplicated halted and looked on him compassionately. One of them took the beggar by the right hand and said to him: 'Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have I freely give; in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk.' And the cripple rose and walked with them into the Temple to give thanks."

"And where is the wonder worker now?" There was a hint of sarcasm in Joel's question. Joel had been attracted to the scene by the crowd and had listened to the recital. Ever since that Nazarene had been crucified, strange tales were being told. Now and then a miraculous cure by one of his followers was reported in the town, but miracles were for the credulous. Joel hadn't seen one, didn't expect to see one.

"He and his companion have been taken by the Sadducees," was the reply, "and today they go before the high priest for trial!"

A murmur ran through the crowd.

"Is it a crime against our law to heal the sick?" queried an indignant bystander.

"These disciples of Jesus act without authority from the Temple," retorted another.

"What authority need one have to do good?" interrogated a third.

"It is near time for the trial," said the original narrator, "let us make haste and hear what manner of charges are brought and what defense is made."

His audience moved, as one man, toward the appointed place .

A throng moved restlessly about in the spacious chamber, while others sought to elbow their way in from outside. At the far end of the hall, removed a decent distance from the rabble, and regally occupying a dais, sat the High Priest Annas, surrounded by his kindred and the Scribes and the Elders. The stern, grim faces of Annas and his associates stilled the hubbub in the hall. All sensed that here were men with a purpose, who would deal ruthlessly with what they regarded as any attempt to impinge on their prestige and authority. The thoughts of many spectators turned to another miracle worker, who had won a following among the people and had, not so long ago been crucified for his lack of discretion in speech and deed. What punishment awaited those now to be brought before the Temple magistrates? It was not difficult to conjecture what the scowling Annas would like to do. He gave a signal to bring in the prisoners.

Flanked as they were by their guards, Joel, standing off to one side, couldn't see the faces of the accused as they entered the judgment room. Taken before the seat of the high priest, their backs were turned to the majority of the spectators, and the crowd of priests and elders nearly hid the prisoners from view.

Solemnly, formal accusation was delivered by an official functionary. These men were preaching, in the name of the discredited Jesus of Nazareth, doctrines that challenged the established religion. The radical nature of such teachings threatened to undermine the established authority. They were exercising a subversive influence among the people. Why, only yesterday they had been wildly acclaimed for the alleged healing of a cripple at the Temple's very gates, and had proceeded to harangue the populace with talk of their Jesus and his resurrection from the dead.

Annas leaned toward the prisoners, his dark face contorted with anger. "By what power," he demanded, "do you work these miracles?"

Mildly interested up to this point in the human drama being enacted before his eyes, Joel scarcely was prepared for what followed. One of the prisoners, a powerful, heavy-set man, pushed suddenly out from among the group that surrounded him and stood in clear view of both the judges and the spectators. Joel gasped in astonishment. It was none other than that craven coward, Simon Peter!

Well, thought Joel, now we'll hear an abject denial, an apology, a promise to act more circumspectly in the future. To his mind there flashed the picture of Peter fleeing from the porch of the high priest's house before the accusing words of a mere girl who had charged him with being a friend of Jesus.

But Peter looked anything but the coward now. Calmly, he surveyed the arrogant priests and elders. He seemed a man sure of himself, confident. His gaze was leveled directly at Annas himself.

"You ask by what power and in whose name we have done this thing? Be it known to you all, and to all people, that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom you crucified" — Peter's eyes remained fixed on the high priest, and his voice rang with unmistakable meaning — "whom you crucified without cause, and whom God raised from the dead, by Him does this man stand before you whole."

As he finished speaking, Peter waved his right arm in the direction of an individual who had just entered from a side portal. An unrestrained cheer went up from the crowd, for the man walking directly toward Peter was no stranger. He was the cripple of yesterday and of many yesterdays, long a familiar object of pity as he lay in his helplessness, begging alms before the Gate Called Beautiful. Now he stood as upright as any man, and walked with firm, sure tread.

Annas and his cohorts obviously were nonplussed and the crowd just as obviously enjoyed their discomfiture. Suddenly, Annas spoke: "The council will confer on this matter," and the chamber was ordered cleared.

Joel's mind was a confused jumble of conflicting thoughts as he reached the street. It was not the spectacle of the cripple healed that most impressed him. It was quite conceivable that the power of suggestion might in certain cases work a sudden and dramatic cure. What bewildered him was the change in Peter himself. What power had transformed fear to fearlessness, cowardice to courage.

The doors were thrown open. The council had reached its decision. It hadn't taken long. Peter's bold defense, the unanswerable testimony of the presence of the man rescued from a living death, the clear evidence of where the people's sympathies lay — all these factors had tempered the verdict, although feeding the fires of the judges' wrath.

The prisoners were to be freed, with a warning. They were not to speak or teach in the name of their Jesus again.

The reaction to this ominous command was as swift as it was startling to Annas and his henchmen. Peter and his companion — it was reported in the crowd that his name was John — refused point blank to obey!

Standing defiantly before the high priest, Simon Peter stepped into the role of questioner of the man who sought to pass judgment upon him.

"Believe you," inquired Peter, "that in God's sight it would be right for us to harken to you more than to Him?"

The gasp of astonishment at the cool effrontery of the man was checked by Peters' answer to his own question:

"We cannot do otherwise than speak the things which we have seen and heard."

Simple words they were, simply stated, but to Joel, listening in rapt admiration, they were more eloquent than any utterance he ever had heard fall from the lips of man.

Well nigh speechless with rage, the high priest hissed: "Get out, get you out of here."

Peter and John moved noiselessly into the cheering crowd and were lost to sight.

Joel stood transfixed as the people gradually drifted away, talking among themselves. His inner being vibrated with the joy of a great discovery. His soul welled with pride that a world he had felt was full of cruelty and meanness could produce men of the sublime moral courage of Simon Peter. His mind was illumined by the clear light of understanding that he had been listening to a man who had been regenerated and made spiritually strong by the all-sustaining power of an unfaltering faith and a love that wrapped its tendrils about the heart of God and blossomed for all humanity.

A tug at his sleeves brought him from his reverie. He turned to find Miriam standing beside him, more rapturously beautiful than ever.

"Did you hear him, Joel?" she questioned, eagerly, her voice like a soft caress.

"Miriam," he replied, "I, too, have beheld a miracle."

The smile in her eyes mirrored the happiness in her heart.

And it came to pass, as he sat at meat with them, he took bread, and blessed it, and broke, and gave to them.—St. Luke, 24:30

So then, after the Lord had spoken unto them, he was received up into heaven, and sat on the right hand of God.
—St. Mark, 16:19

So they ran both together: and the other disciple did outrun Peter, and came first to the sepulchre.—St. John, 20:4

The Other Miracle

By John B. McGuire

Joel had followed the crowd of the curious milling about the porch of the high priest's palace. Inside, the Nazarene prophet, who had created such a stir in the land, was face to face with his inquisitors. Joel had known it was only a question of time before it would come to this. Having lived for some years in Jerusalem, his ears had become attuned to the currents of thought and opinion that swirled through the Holy City. He had tried to tell Miriam she was a silly girl to permit herself to become so captivated by one whose words and deeds had aroused the suspicion and hostility of the authorities. There was no doubt that this Jesus was courting death. There had been that occasion, for instance, when he had been so recklessly audacious as personally to drive the money changers from the precincts of the Temple, by way of demonstrating his disgust and indignation over what he regarded as gross commercialization of the House of God. Bravery of a sort, Joel grudgingly had admitted, but folly, too.

This trumped-up trial in the high priest's house represented the outcome of the unequal contest.

Miriam, with a woman's obstinacy, had refused to be convinced by Joels' pleadings. Yes, Joel had to admit the Galilean stranger had come between him and the girl he loved. Joel felt she still cared for him, but her devotion to the teachings of Jesus had raised a barrier between them. When she spoke of "The Master," his work and his teachings, her large, dark eyes grew radiant with an earnestness that served only to exasperate the practical-minded young merchant, who could not tolerate the notion of divided loyalties in the heart of the beautiful creature whom, until recently, he had hoped to make his wife. It was when he told her something to this effect that the bitter words were exchanged that resulted in their parting. He had not seen her since.

No reason existed for Joel to feel any sympathy toward the man on trial. Nor did he. Yet, as he paced to and fro to keep warm in the nippy night air, he couldn't help wondering. He had seen the face of Jesus as the accused prophet was led inside the palace, and there was something arrestingly appealing in the pale but serene countenance the young business man beheld. During that moment or two that his eyes rested on the Nazarene's face, he felt a strange stirring deep inside. For no more than an instant he responded to the urgency of an indescribable compulsion. It was as though strong magnetic influences were drawing him close to the heart of things he comprehended not, but with which he felt a strong spiritual kinship. Then the prisoner and his guards had passed inside the palace and the spectator's mood vanished, swiftly as it had come.

The sound of voices aroused Joel from his thoughts. A woman was making the shrill accusation: "This fellow also was with Jesus of Nazareth." A man's gruff voice rose in denial. It sounded familiar to Joel and he turned to identify it. The girl he didn't know, but the man's face he had seen before. He noticed that the hulking figure was clad in the rustic attire of a Galilean fisherman —and he remembered! Once, when he was in the company of Miriam, this man had passed in the street and she had proudly mentioned that he was Simon Peter, chief of Jesus' disciples.

Joel almost disbelieved his ears. Why, Peter was denying his Master! Perhaps Joel had not heard aright. But any doubts that lingered in his mind were swept away as others on the porch crowded around, reiterating the girl's accusation. With an angry oath, Peter repeated: "I know not the man," and stalked off into the darkness, as a crowing cock heralded the approach of dawn.

A great contempt welled up in Joel. Now, more than ever, he knew that poor Miriam had been tragically fooled. She had become the follower of one whose closest friends deserted and denied him in an hour of danger. Probably most of his followers were weaklings of the same sort as Peter, ardent enough in their enthusiasm when the leader's popularity was high, but slinking away in fear when he most needed their help. Jesus himself might possess courage, but it was the courage of the misguided fanatic who creates trouble and unrest in the community. Joel had no further interest in what happened to the man on trial. Turning on his heel he, too, left the porch.

The young man pleasantly surveyed the surroundings of his well furnished home. Business was good. Despite the religious controversy that perpetually seemed to beset the city, he had no cause to complain. He had refrained from becoming involved in these disputes and had devoted his efforts toward the more practical challenge of making a living — and he could tell himself he was succeeding nicely. As an up-an-coming merchant, however, Joel did resent the activities of the new sect that continued to seek converts to the cause of the crucified Nazarene. They seemed bent on interfering with the properly constituted order of things. He couldn't understand how they managed to gain followers, in view of their leader's ignominious death, but attributed their success to the preposterous story they had cleverly spread about their Master's having risen from the dead. Although he had dismissed the tale with a scornful laugh, Joel well realized that others had not. The stern, grim faces of Annas and his associates stilled the hubbub in the hall. All sensed that here were men with a purpose, who would deal ruthlessly with what they regarded as any attempt to impinge on their prestige and authority. The thoughts of many spectators turned to another miracle worker, who had won a following among the people and had, not so long ago been crucified for his lack of discretion in speech and deed. What punishment awaited those now to be brought before the Temple magistrates? It was not difficult to conjecture what the scowling Annas would like to do. He gave a signal to bring in the prisoners.

Flanked as they were by their guards, Joel, standing off to one side, couldn't see the faces of the accused as they entered the judgment room. Taken before the seat of the high priest, their backs were turned to the majority of the spectators, and the crowd of priests and elders nearly hid the prisoners from view.

Solemnly, formal accusation was delivered by an official functionary. These men were preaching, in the name of the discredited Jesus of Nazareth, doctrines that challenged the established religion. The radical nature of such teachings threatened to undermine the established authority. They were exercising a subversive influence among the people. Why, only yesterday they had been wildly acclaimed for the alleged healing of a cripple at the Temple's very gates, and had proceeded to harangue the populace with talk of their Jesus and his resurrection from the dead.

Annas leaned toward the prisoners, his dark face contorted with anger. "By what power," he demanded, "do you work these miracles?"

Mildly interested up to this point in the human drama being enacted before his eyes, Joel scarcely was prepared for what followed. One of the prisoners, a powerful, heavy-set man, pushed suddenly out from among the group that surrounded him and stood in clear view of both the judges and the spectators. Joel gasped in astonishment. It was none other than that craven coward, Simon Peter!

Well, thought Joel, now we'll hear an abject denial, an apology, a promise to act more circumspectly in the future. To his mind there flashed the picture of Peter fleeing from the porch of the high priest's house before the accusing words of a mere girl who had charged him with being a friend of Jesus.

But Peter looked anything but the coward now. Calmly, he surveyed the arrogant priests and elders. He seemed a man sure of himself, confident. His gaze was leveled directly at Annas himself.

"You ask by what power and in whose name we have done this thing? Be it known to you all, and to all people, that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom you crucified" — Peter's eyes remained fixed on the high priest, and his voice rang with unmistakable meaning — "whom you crucified without cause, and whom God raised from the dead, by Him does this man stand before you whole."

As he finished speaking, Peter waved his right arm in the direction of an individual who had just entered from a side portal. An unrestrained cheer went up from the crowd, for the man walking directly toward Peter was no stranger. He was the cripple of yesterday and of many yesterdays, long a familiar object of pity as he lay in his helplessness, begging alms before the Gate Called Beautiful. Now he stood as upright as any man, and walked with firm, sure tread.

Annas and his cohorts obviously were nonplussed and the crowd just as obviously enjoyed their discomfiture. Suddenly, Annas spoke: "The council will confer on this matter," and the chamber was ordered cleared.

Joel's mind was a confused jumble of conflicting thoughts as he reached the street. It was not the spectacle of the cripple healed that most impressed him. It was quite conceivable that the power of suggestion might in certain cases work a sudden and dramatic cure. What bewildered him was the change in Peter himself. What power had transformed fear to fearlessness, cowardice to courage.

The doors were thrown open. The council had reached its decision. It hadn't taken long. Peter's bold defense, the unanswerable testimony of the presence of the man rescued from a living death, the clear evidence of where the people's sympathies lay — all these factors had tempered the verdict, although feeding the fires of the judges' wrath.

The prisoners were to be freed, with a warning. They were not to speak or teach in the name of their Jesus again.

The reaction to this ominous command was as swift as it was startling to Annas and his henchmen. Peter and his companion — it was reported in the crowd that his name was John — refused point blank to obey!

Standing defiantly before the high priest, Simon Peter stepped into the role of questioner of the man who sought to pass judgment upon him.

"Believe you," inquired Peter, "that in God's sight it would be right for us to harken to you more than to Him?"

The gasp of astonishment at the cool effrontery of the man was checked by Peters' answer to his own question:

"We cannot do otherwise than speak the things which we have seen and heard."

Simple words they were, simply stated, but to Joel, listening in rapt admiration, they were more eloquent than any utterance he ever had heard fall from the lips of man.

Peter and John moved noiselessly into the cheering crowd and were lost to sight.

Joel stood transfixed as the people gradually drifted away, talking among themselves. His inner being vibrated with the joy of a great discovery. His soul welled with pride that a world he had felt was full of cruelty and meanness could produce men of the sublime moral courage of Simon Peter. His mind was illumined by the clear light of understanding that he had been listening to a man who had been regenerated and made spiritually strong by the all-sustaining power of an unfaltering faith and a love that wrapped its tendrils about the heart of God and blossomed for all humanity.

A tug at his sleeves brought him from his reverie. He turned to find Miriam standing beside him, more rapturously beautiful than ever.

"Did you hear him, Joel?" she questioned, eagerly, her voice like a soft caress.

"Miriam," he replied, "I, too, have beheld a miracle."

OUR ENEMY IS THE KREMLIN

When Hitler invaded Russia in 1941, he made many mistakes both military and political. None was more senseless than the brutal treatment his soldiers dealt to the people of the broad Ukraine in western Russia.

Evidence continues to grow that in the beginning the Ukrainians greeted Hitler's troops joyfully as liberators, and would have gone over to the German side whole-souled if they had been accepted as friends.

But the brutalities of the Nazis swiftly quenched this uprising of spirit and drove the Ukrainians back to the support of the Russian Communist regime as the lesser of two evils.

The lesson in this event for us is that we must not make the same error. We must not assume that all Russians are bad because the Kremlin is bad. Most of the experts who really know Russia well insist that they are among the friendliest and most warmhearted folk in the world.

The war permitted many Russians to escape permanently to the West. Almost without exception they showed that they were like the Russians of former days, and that they had not been taken in by Red propaganda.

One Russian engineer refugee, writing of his experiences in a personal document, goes so far as to declare that the Kremlin knows its propaganda takes no real hold on the people. The question then arises: "Why do they pump it out?" He says the propaganda fills what otherwise would be a vast vacuum, that it keeps the people somewhat confused and disconcerted and prevents the crystallizing of opposition ideas which, if allowed to develop, might form the nucleus of real revolt.

A veteran U. S. reporter who covered Moscow for many years declares that at thirty-five virtually every ordinary Russian is thoroughly disillusioned at the Red regime. He says these citizens are either cynical, resigned or gripped by intense inner rebellion.

It is wrong for us to assume, furthermore, that the average Russian does not appreciate as well as we do that the Communist dream of a "workers' paradise" has not come true. Everything indicates that the Russian realizes better than anyone the gap between reality and Communist promises.

His real wages are probably lower than the Russian worker enjoyed in 1928, when the first Communist five-year plan began. His housing is much worse than in the 1920's. Indeed, it is no exaggeration to describe Russia's towns and cities as one great slum. He's driven by his government, his employer and his union to work to the absolute limit of his energies.

He's tied to his job like a slave (15,000,000 are slaves in the most exact sense). Yet he can be sent anywhere in the Soviet Union, regardless of his wishes and his family's. If he falters under the crushing weight of this relentless pressure, is it eased to give him respite? Certainly not. The Kremlin's reply to failure is to apply more and more coercion.

All of this the Russian citizen knows as we can never know. He can't rebel because he lacks the instruments of revolt. But potentially he is our ally, our friend. No one knows when the free nations may be able to help him. But if the time comes, he is likely to respond as vigorously as did any oppressed man who ever threw off the tyrant's yoke. We must not think of him as an enemy.

Our enemy sits in the Kremlin.

SCHUMAN PLAN PROGRESS

Life seems to be stirring again in the Schuman Plan for a pool of the coal and steel of western Europe. Although it has seemed to be hopelessly blocked on half a dozen occasions, quiet work to resolve the differences has continued. Now it is reported that France, West Germany and the United States have reached substantial agreement on a compromise plan. The British are still cool

It is important to note that this much progress has been made by persistent work, away from the spotlights and fanfare, and by real yielding of points on all sides. That is the way knotty difficulties are most often untangled.

Inflation or no, a person can always count on getting his money's worth when settling up old bills.

THE STATE OF FORMOSA

In the United States, we continue to debate whether we are to support Chiang Kai-shek's government in Formosa, or whether we shall bypass him and deal with the agents of guerrilla generals on the mainland or whether we shall recognize the Communst Mao Tze-tung.

The British have solved this problem to their disadvantage by prematurely recognizing the Chinese Communists, who, however, do not recognize the British. This might be amusing were it no so tragic in view of General Douglas MacArthur's stalemate in Korea, which is largely a result of this faulty British policy.

It is interesting, therefore, to have a look at the state of Formosa, an island which, by the treaty of Shimonoseki in 1895, was ceded to Japan along with the Pescadores. The Japanese called the island Taiwan, a name which the Russians continue to use.

The defeat of Japan in 1945 left Formosa without government, and Nationalist China took over, housing large bodies of troops there. In their hunt for pro-Japanese natives, the Chinese behaved badly. When Chiang Kai-shek took over in 1949, he had the problem to face of establishing a government not only for the natives but for the enormous influx of refugee Chinese.

Meanwhile, the status of his government internationally became increasingly confused. According to the Cairo Declaration (November 26, 1943), Formosa was to be returned to China by the peace treaty with Japan. But there is no peace treaty with Japan. Also, while the United States and other countries and the United Nations recognize the Nationalist regime as the government of China, Great Britain and some other countries recognize the Soviet regime of Mao Tze-tung.

This question of legitimacy is very important in Asia. In the matter of Korea, for instance, the Americans are embarrassed, perhaps disastrously, by the fact that Great Britain recognized that Chinese regime which is fighting us, while Great Britain is embarrassed by the obvious political necessity of voting in the United Nations with the United States and against Soviet China. General MacArthur emphasized this confusion in his "stalemate" statement.

Two cases have arisen in the British courts over this curious situation. In the matter of "Civil Air Transport, Inc. vs. Chennault and others," decided in the Supreme Court of Hongkong, the legitimacy of government was involved. The British court decided that as there is no peace treaty with Japan, Formosa is still part of the Japanese empire. This is, of course, a retreat into pure legalism, unrelated to the facts of the situation. Furthermore, it makes the British position illogical, for if there is no legitimacy to the Nationalist government in Formosa, what possible legitimacy can there be to the Communist regime in Peking?

In the case of "U.S.A. vs. Yang Soon Ee" in the Singapore court, the chief justice said:

"It is clear that the Central Peoples government and the Peoples Republic in China is recognized both de facto and de jure as the only government in China. The ship is registered in Formosa which is legally part of the Japanese empire and not apparently de facto under the control of the Communist government in China."

If this is true, why is not Korea a part of the Japanese empire?

G. W. Keeton, dean of the faculty of law in the University of London, says of this:

". . . It is an attitude which is quite inconsistent with that adopted in respect of Korea, which was also Japanese in 1943, but is now treated as an independent state. Moreover, if Formosa was to be regarded as still formally Japanese territory, then administration of it pending the peace treaty is ultimately the responsibility of the allied powers, whose agent for defense is General MacArthur. Hence it would follow that any attack on it would be an attack upon the allied military administration, and as such, a matter of immediate concern to this country as much as to the United States. Yet Great Britain has committed herself to the position that she is not primarily concerned with a Communist attack upon Formosa!"

Both Communist and Nationalist China reject the British position. Both regard Formosa as Chinese territoy. The official American view is that Formosa is Chinese territory. The British were premature in their recognition of Soviet China and that got them all tangled up in difficulties.

That Body of Yours

CANCER OF THE STOMACH

It often surprises us to learn that a person we have been seeing every day is in the hospital with cancer of the stomach and, despite operation, is likely to live but a short time.

The reason that this individual reached the hospital too late to save his life is, in most cases, due to not reporting his "little attacks of indigestion" to his physician. By the time he finally consults his physician, and stomach and X-ray tests are made, the cancer has extended to nearby or distant glands and what is called secondary infection—metastasis—is present.

What we must all remember is that cancer anywhere in the body is curable if treated in its early stages. Unfortunately, in its early stages cancer of the stomach may not cause pain, just a slight distress or heaviness in the region of the stomach.

In Archives of Surgery, Drs. John S. LaDue, Paul J. Murison, Gordon McNeer and George T. Pack (Memorial Hospital, New York city) report their study of 1,117 patients with stomach cancer to decide whether the length of time the patient had stomach symptoms and the chances of operation being successful were related. These surgeons found, unfortunately, that the length of time the symptoms were present, with signs of stomach disturbance present, was about the same whether or not the condition was found suitable for operation except that dysphagia (difficulty in swallowing) was twice as common in those who could not undergo operation. In order of frequency, the signs and symptoms present were: loss of weight (83.5 per cent); vomiting; bowel disturbances; loss of appetite; dysphagia; nausea; weakness; expelling gas by mouth; bleeding from bowel. Weight loss over 41 pounds was usually present in inoperable cancer. The more rapid the weight loss, the more striking were the other disturbances of the various functions and organs of the body. Pain was the first symptom in 41 per cent, dysphagia in about 12 per cent and loss of appetite in 8 per cent.

Strange to say, stomach cancer may be too far advanced for operation before the patient has any symptoms and may be curable by operation even after symptoms, presumably due to cancer, have been present for two years.

The lesson is that if symptoms of indigestion remain present in one at the cancer age, the family physician should be consulted and an X-ray examination made.

'Round and 'Round

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Paris—It is now more than two years since the foreign ministers of 12 nations met in solemn conclave in Washington and, accompanied by klieg lights and overseas broadcasts, signed the North Atlantic Pact.

The purpose of that pact was to protect the liberty-loving democracies from Soviet aggression. In the two years that have passed, however, not one single division has been raised to block that aggression, and there has been no agreement on pooling of raw materials, no schedule for production, no program for propaganda and political warfare, and no coordination of intelligence reports—in brief, all that the North Atlantic Pact countries have after two years of talking is a piece of paper plus an array of cumbersome committees which got in each other's way.

It was this emaciated skeleton of a defense organization that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower took over less than three months ago. Actually, he didn't exactly take it over, for Eisenhower, as supreme commander, reports back to "the standing group" in Washington, where Gen. Omar Bradley is his boss, and the standing group, in turn, takes orders from NATO, or the North Atlantic Pact Organization, in London.

Out of this tangled skein of red tape, however, Eisenhower has emerged as a contagious and forceful catalyst. Already his influence is being felt; already he has made European preparedness a partial reality. He doesn't talk in terms of so many troops here or so many troops there but in terms of goals, teamwork and cooperation.

The biggest thing Eisenhower has done, however, is to inspire confidence. There is a sort of contagious, almost spiritual, driving force about Eisenhower when he talks with his allied colleagues. His job is partly one of public relations between governments, to get them to stop bickering over who will manufacture a three-inch fuse and how much they will be paid for it or who will make a 90-millimeter gun and what price they will charge for it. This is what NATOS has been haggling over for two years, and what Ike is trying to make them see is that having a certain command is not a question of prestige but an obligation and a responsibility.

Another thing Ike has done is to insist that every member of his international organization function as a team. If a Dane starts talking like a Dane, not as part of the team, he is through as far as Eisenhower is concerned.

Morale Boost Soon

The first big boost to North Atlantic Pact morale will come early in April when America's first division of troops under NATO will dock at Havre, march up the Champs Elysees and then entrain for Germany.

This is going to be the biggest lift to European defense psychology since June, 1944, when Eisenhower landed other U. S. troops on the Normandy beachhead. However what has been diplomatically suggested to France and England is that they make this psychological impact even greater by adding one devision each to the North Atlantic Pact organization on the same day the American division lands.

Thus, as U. S. troops land at Havre, a British division would land at Cherbourg, with a French division joining them in Paris, and all three then entraining for the area where the Red Army, if it strikes, would strike first—Germany.

Note—At present Eisenhower has only eight divisions to defend a 500-mile line from the Baltic to Switzerland if the Red Army moves. On the other immediate side of this line the Russians have about 30 German divisions plus around 70 divisions in the Russian standing army. To meet this, France has promised 10 divisions this year and England five for Europe and five for other parts of the British Empire.

Ike's on Diet

One of the first things Ike did to speed work at his allied headquarters in the Astoria Hotel in Parish was to abolish the typical two - to - three - hour Parisienne lunch. He did this by setting up a dining room at his headquarters and then putting an Englishman in charge of English foods so bad that the allied officers spend only 30 minutes lunching.

Ike himself is dieting and gets a large plate of carrot salad put in front of him at lunch. Several months ago his doctor made Ike cut out smoking which meant that he began putting on weight, so now the doctor has not only put him on a diet but curtailed Ike to one evening cocktail per day.

Ike's chief personal problem, however, is not dieting but Mrs. Eisenhower's reluctance to return to Europe. During the long war years and during the period before them, when Ike was in the Phillippines, the Eisenhower family never had a home of their own.

Finally, at Columbia, Mrs. Eisenhower revamped the president's mansion and had just got comfortably settled when her husband was yanked off to Europe. Naturally, Mrs. Ike wasn't enthusiastic although now she realizes the tremendous challenge facing him and she is almost beginning to like their poorly heated Paris apartment.

Step Toward Unifying Europe

Some significant trans-Atlantic haggling is taking place regarding what could be one of the most important by-products to emerge from European rearmament—namely, an educational program for allied troops on why we oppose communism. If properly put across, this could be the first real step toward unifying Europe.

Some of Eisenhower's staff, realizing that several thousand troops would be on their hands in Germany with relatively nothing to do, proposed a troop indoctrination program similar to the historic "Why We Fight" films produced by Hollywood's Frank Capra during the war. They also proposed radio talks by Eisenhower to his troops on the reasons why they are in Europe, together with the goals and ideals of democracy as against communism.

However, because this verges on things political, the State Department and the British got scared. State Department officials didn't like the army barging into their field, while the British held up their hands in horror at any American propaganda going to their troops.

Trans-Atlantic wire-pulling is still continuing over what could be the most important phase of the entire rearmament program.

Television's Airing of Crime Investigation Sad Commentary on Local Governments

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 23—What the Kefauver Committee hearings are to the public is just a show—gamblers and politicians squirming under severe questioning—but what the millions who are watching the affair on television probably don't realize is that they themselves are primarily responsible for the very conditions now being exposed.

Also what the millions of voters who have been observing the proceedings probably don't realize either is that the federal government has no constitutional jurisdiction over gambling or political corruption which arises within any state or city and that the responsibility rests only with state, county and city governments to exercise police power over such matters.

There are some interstate phases of gambling and crime which might be reached through federal law but, for the most part, the problem is local. It is a sad commentary on local government that it took a Senate investigating committee to bring into the open what has been going on in many cities under the noses of the voters. In some instances, the newspapers in local areas have published the sensational facts but the people or their legislatures have not seen fit to become aroused over them. Some repercussions may occur now, but it is still a reflection on local government that these belated inquiries are prompted by a Congressional expose.

It is an open question, too, whether all the television excitement means much more than morbid curiosity. The gangsters of prohibition days attracted attention, as do criminals always. If a notorious Dillinger or a Capone were to be exhibited to public view at a movie theatre or the Yankee Stadium, that probably would pack the House, too.

The public likes a show and television furnishes a spectacle, but it remains to be seen whether the show has not really endangered to some extent the opportunity of a Congressional committee to cite witnesses who may have committed perjury or who refuse to answer questions.

Two of the important witnesses before the Kefauver committee have already refused to testify before the television cameras. Judging by the way the courts split hairs nowadays on the matter of constitutional rights, it could happen that what gave the people a good show this week also may have lost for the same people an opportunity to prosecute persons accused of wrongdoing.

Thus the American Bar Association in 1937 adopted as one of the canons of judicial ethics the following:

"Proceedings in court should be conducted with fitting dignity and decorum. The taking of photographs in the courtroom, during sessions or recess between sessions, and the broadcasting of court proceedings are calculated to detract from the essential dignity of the proceedings, degrade the court and create misconceptions with respect thereto in the mind of the public and should not be permitted."

If the above, which refers to still camera pictures, is accepted generally by the courts—and most judges have accepted it—it could mean that television broadcasts could be ruled to be a violation of constitutional rights when witnesses enter an objection thereto.

In one sense a congressional committee hearing is not a court proceeding, but a witness might claim undue interference with constitutional rights and be upheld by a court if our judicial system happens to frown on the practice of interfering with the processes of thought of a witness at a trial or committee hearing.

The O'Dwyer-Costello episode has been given wide publicity by the press, the radio and television and the primary object of the Kefauver committee was to call public attention to abuses. Hence the main purpose has been attained. But once the congressional hearings are over, the gamblers and the politicians can go back and do it all over again unless, of course, an awakened public opinion begins to inquire into how state, city and county governments are beset with evil influences and undertakes to set in motion investigating machinery on a local basis to find out what state laws have been violated and why local enforcement officers have failed to do their duty.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The only reason why the citizen is obliged to give testimony before committees and subcommittees of the Senate and the House of Representatives is that our national legislature has a right to information for guidance in performing its legislative function. The precedents go way back. One of them, which was cited by the Committee on Un-American Activities when Parnell Thomas was chairman, was subject to suspicion. In that case, the committee wanted to get evidence for a scandalous expose as well as information to prove deficiency in a certain law which required remedial legislation.

If you are called to testify before a committee, you should remember that information is all that the inquiry has a right to. You do not have to expose yourself to moving picture cameras or, for that matter, even to press cameras. Our courts don't tolerate such clowning and you are within your rights in refusing to testify until all photographers are driven from the room. Those guys will hate me, but they are not my clients. You are.

Before taking the oath you should ask the chairman in clear, unmistakable words and tones whether a voice-recording is being made. If you object to such a recording, and if you are wise you will object, you are clearly within your rights in refusing to utter a chirp until the chairman gives you a solemn promise in the name of the Senate or House, as the case may be, that no such recording will be taken.

It is a good idea to get such a stipulation into the written record because some of our statesmen are crooks and not above trapping a vocal record with concealed devices. They can take movies, with voice, by the same clandestine methods so your objections should cover that possibility, too. Keep in mind the fact that the committee, in fact the Congress of the United States itself, has no right to your pictures and no power to make you submit to photography or to give a permanent record of your voice.

If the chairman yells or sneers at you, say something for the written record that will establish the fact that he was giving you the business, otherwise the words on paper may not indicate that he was acting up. Remember always that information is all that the committee can demand of you. Remember, too, that you are not a defendant but a citizen giving information for the guidance of Congress. You can demand a closed hearing—that is, without an audience—because the only purpose is to get information for Congress.

Committeemen often flagrantly abuse their congressional right to information to make campaign publicity for themselves or respective parties. It is not always possible to frustrate such characters, but you can minimize the abuse by standing on your rights. If you are good at such business and have presence of mind, you can yell right back and trade sneer for sneer with those who are baiting you, but a better way is to take it easy and let them make fools of themselves. They may be shameless mountebanks and most of them are glib at forensics.

You have a constitutional right to refuse to give information that will degrade or incriminate you in any future trial before a court. Stand on that right and take a chance that the court will uphold you. You actually have no right to refuse to say whether you are or ever were a member

When Hitler invaded Russia in 1941, he made many mistakes both military and political. None was more senseless than the brutal treatment his soldiers dealt to the people of the broad Ukraine in western Russia.

Evidence continues to grow that in the beginning the Ukrainians greeted Hitler's troops joyfully as liberators, and would have gone over to the German side whole-souled if they had been accepted as friends.

But the brutalities of the Nazis swiftly quenched this uprising of spirit and drove the Ukrainians back to the support of the Russian Communist regime as the lesser of two evils.

The lesson in this event for us is that we must not make the same error. We must not assume that all Russians are bad because the Kremlin is bad. Most of the experts who really know Russia well insist that they are among the friendliest and most warmhearted folk in the world.

The war permitted many Russians to escape permanently to the West. Almost without exception they showed that they were like the Russians of former days, and that they had not been taken in by Red propaganda.

One Russian engineer refugee, writing of his experiences in a personal document, goes so far as to declare that the Kremlin knows its propaganda takes no real hold on the people. The question then arises: "Why do they pump it out?" He says the propaganda fills what otherwise would be a vast vacuum, that it keeps the people somewhat confused and disconcerted and prevents the crystallizing of opposition ideas which, if allowed to develop, might form the nucleus of real revolt.

A veteran U. S. reporter who covered Moscow for many years declares that at thirty-five virtually every ordinary Russian is thoroughly disillusioned at the Red regime. He says these citizens are either cynical, resigned or gripped by intense inner rebellion.

It is wrong for us to assume, furthermore, that the average Russian does not appreciate as well as we do that the Communist dream of a "workers' paradise" has not come true. Everything indicates that the Russian realizes better than anyone the gap between reality and Communist promises.

His real wages are probably lower than the Russian worker enjoyed in 1928, when the first Communist five-year plan began. His housing is much worse than in the 1920's. Indeed, it is no exaggeration to describe Russia's towns and cities as one great slum. He's driven by his government, his employer and his union to work to the absolute limit of his energies.

He's tied to his job like a slave (15,000,000 are slaves in the most exact sense). Yet he can be sent anywhere in the Soviet Union, regardless of his wishes and his family's. If he falters under the crushing weight of this relentless pressure, is it eased to give him respite? Certainly not. The Kremlin's reply to failure is to apply more and more coercion.

All of this the Russian citizen knows as we can never know. He can't rebel because he lacks the instruments of revolt. But potentially he is our ally, our friend. No one knows when the free nations may be able to help him. But if the time comes, he is likely to respond as vigorously as did any oppressed man who ever threw off the tyrant's yoke. We must not think of him as an enemy.

Our enemy sits in the Kremlin.

SCHUMAN PLAN PROGRESS

Life seems to be stirring again in the Schuman Plan for a pool of the coal and steel of western Europe. Although it has seemed to be hopelessly blocked on half a dozen occasions, quiet work to resolve the differences has continued. Now it is reported that France, West Germany and the United States have reached substantial agreement on a compromise plan. The British are still cool

It is important to note that this much progress has been made by persistent work, away from the spotlights and fanfare, and by real yielding of points on all sides. That is the way knotty difficulties are most often untangled.

Inflation or no, a person can always count on getting his money's worth when settling up old bills.

THE STATE OF FORMOSA

In the United States, we continue to debate whether we are to support Chiang Kai-shek's government in Formosa, or whether we shall bypass him and deal with the agents of guerrilla generals on the mainland or whether we shall recognize the Communst Mao Tze-tung.

The British have solved this problem to their disadvantage by prematurely recognizing the Chinese Communists, who, however, do not recognize the British. This might be amusing were it no so tragic in view of General Dougles MacArthur's stalemate in Korea, which is largely a result of this faulty British policy.

It is interesting, therefore, to have a look at the state of Formosa, an island which, by the treaty of Shimonoseki in 1895, was ceded to Japan along with the Pescadores. The Japanese called the island Taiwan, a name which the Russians continue to use.

The defeat of Japan in 1945 left Formosa without government, and Nationalist China took over, housing large bodies of troops there. In their hunt for pro-Japanese natives, the Chinese behaved badly. When Chiang Kai-shek took over in 1949, he had the problem to face of establishing a government not only for the natives but for the enormous influx of refugee Chinese.

Meanwhile, the status of his government internationally became increasingly confused. According to the Cairo Declaration (November 26, 1943), Formosa was to be returned to China by the peace treaty with Japan. But there is no peace treaty with Japan. Also, while the United States and other countries and the United Nations recognize the Nationalist regime as the government of China, Great Britain and some other countries recognize the Soviet regime of Mao Tze-tung.

This question of legitimacy is very important in Asia. In the matter of Korea, for instance, the Americans are embarrassed, perhaps disastrously, by the fact that Great Britain recognized that Chinese regime which is fighting us, while Great Britain is embarrassed by the obvious political necessity of voting in the United Nations with the United States and against Soviet China. General MacArthur emphasized this confusion in his "stalemate" statement.

Two cases have arisen in the British courts over this curious situation. In the matter of "Civil Air Transport, Inc. vs. Chennault and others," decided in the Supreme Court of Hongkong, the legitimacy of government was involved. The British court decided that as there is no peace treaty with Japan, Formosa is still part of the Japanese empire. This is, of course, a retreat into pure legalism, unrelated to the facts of the situation. Furthermore, it makes the British position illogical, for if there is no legitimacy to the Nationalist government in Formosa, what possible legitimacy can there be to the Communist regime in Peking?

In the case of "U.S.A. vs. Yang Soon Ee" in the Singapore court, the chief justice said:

"It is clear that the Central Peoples government and the Peoples Republic in China is recognized both de facto and de jure as the only government in China. The ship is registered in Formosa which is legally part of the Japanese empire and not apparently de facto under the control of the Communist government in China."

If this is true, why is not Korea a part of the Japanese empire?

G. W. Keeton, dean of the faculty of law in the University of London, says of this:

". . . It is an attitude which is quite inconsistent with that adopted in respect of Korea, which was also Japanese in 1943, but is now treated as an independent state. Moreover, if Formosa was to be regarded as still formally Japanese territory, then administration of it pending the peace treaty is ultimately the responsibility of the allied powers, whose agent for defense is General MacArthur. Hence it would follow that any attack on it would be an attack upon the allied military administration, and as such, a matter of immediate concern to this country as much as to the United States. Yet Great Britain has committed herself to the position that she is not primarily concerned with a Communist attack upon Formosa!"

Both Communist and Nationalist China reject the British position. Both regard Formosa as Chinese territoy. The official American view is that Formosa is Chinese territory. The British were premature in their recognition of Soviet China and that got them all tangled up in difficulties.

That Body of Yours

CANCER OF THE STOMACH

It often surprises us to learn that a person we have been seeing every day is in the hospital with cancer of the stomach and, despite operation, is likely to live but a short time.

The reason that this individual reached the hospital too late to save his life is, in most cases, due to not reporting his "little attacks of indigestion" to his physician. By the time he finally consults his physician, and stomach and X-ray tests are made, the cancer has extended to nearby or distant glands and what is called secondary infection—metastasis—is present.

What we must all remember is that cancer anywhere in the body is curable if treated in its early stages. Unfortunately, in its early stages cancer of the stomach may not cause pain, just a slight distress or heaviness in the region of the stomach.

In Archives of Surgery, Drs. John S. LaDue, Paul J. Murison, Gordon McNeer and George T. Pack (Memorial Hospital, New York city) report their study of 1,117 patients with stomach cancer to decide whether the length of time the patient had stomach symptoms and the chances of operation being successful were related. These surgeons found, unfortunately, that the length of time the symptoms were present, with signs of stomach disturbance present, was about the same whether or not the condition was found suitable for operation except that dysphagia (difficulty in swallowing) was twice as common in those who could not undergo operation. In order of frequency, the signs and symptoms present were: loss of weight (83.5 per cent); vomiting; bowel disturbances; loss of appetite; dysphagia; nausea; weakness; expelling gas by mouth; bleeding from bowel. Weight loss over 41 pounds was usually present in inoperable cancer. The more rapid the weight loss, the more striking were the other disturbances of the various functions and organs of the body. Pain was the first symptom in 41 per cent, dysphagia in about 12 per cent and loss of appetite in 8 per cent.

Strange to say, stomach cancer may be too far advanced for operation before the patient has any symptoms and may be curable by operation even after symptoms, presumably due to cancer, have been present for two years.

The lesson is that if symptoms of indigestion remain present in one at the cancer age, the family physician should be consulted and an X-ray examination made.

'Round and 'Round

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Paris—It is now more than two years since the foreign ministers of 12 nations met in solemn conclave in Washington and, accompanied by klieg lights and overseas broadcasts, signed the North Atlantic Pact.

The purpose of that pact was to protect the liberty-loving democracies from Soviet aggression. In the two years that have passed, however, not one single division has been raised to block that aggression, and there has been no agreement on pooling of raw materials, no schedule for production, no program for propaganda and political warfare, and no coordination of intelligence reports—in brief, all that the North Atlantic Pact countries have after two years of talking is a piece of paper plus an array of cumbersome committees which got in each other's way.

It was this emaciated skeleton of a defense organization that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower took over less than three months ago. Actually, he didn't exactly take it over, for Eisenhower, as supreme commander, reports back to "the standing group" in Washington, where Gen. Omar Bradley is his boss, and the standing group, in turn, takes orders from NATO, or the North Atlantic Paot Organization, in London.

Out of this tangled skein of red tape, however, Eisenhower has emerged as a contagious and forceful catalyst. Already his influence is being felt; already he has made European preparedness a partial reality. He doesn't talk in terms of so many troops here or so many troops there but in terms of goals, teamwork and cooperation.

The biggest thing Eisenhower has done, however, is to inspire confidence. There is a sort of contagious, almost spiritual, driving force about Eisenhower when he talks with his allied colleagues. His job is partly one of public relations between governments, to get them to stop bickering over who will manufacture a three-inch fuse and how much they will be paid for it or who will make a 90-millimeter gun and what price they will charge for it. This is what NATOS has been haggling over for two years, and what Ike is trying to make them see is that having a certain command is not a question of prestige but an obligation and a responsibility.

Another thing Ike has done is to insist that every member of his international organization function as a team. If a Dane starts talking like a Dane, not as part of the team, he is through as far as Eisenhower is concerned.

Morale Boost Soon

The first big boost to North Atlantic Pact morale will come early in April when America's first division of troops under NATO will dock at Havre, march up the Champs Elysees and then entrain for Germany.

This is going to be the biggest lift to European defense psychology since June, 1944, when Eisenhower landed other U. S. troops on the Normandy beachhead. However what has been diplomatically suggested to France and England is that they make this psychological impact even greater by adding one devision each to the North Atlantic Pact organization on the same day the American division lands.

Thus, as U. S. troops land at Havre, a British division would land at Cherbourg, with a French division joining them in Paris, and all three then entraining for the area where the Red Army, if it strikes, would strike first—Germany.

Note—At present Eisenhower has only eight divisions to defend a 500-mile line from the Baltic to Switzerland if the Red Army moves. On the other immediate side of this line the Russians have about 30 German divisions plus around 70 divisions in the Russian standing army. To meet this, France has promised 10 divisions this year and England five for Europe and five for other parts of the British Empire.

Ike's on Diet

One of the first things Ike did to speed work at his allied headquarters in the Astoria Hotel in Parish was to abolish the typical two - to - three - hour Parisienne lunch. He did this by setting up a dining room at his headquarters and then putting an Englishman in charge of English foods so bad that the allied officers spend only 30 minutes lunching.

Ike himself is dieting and gets a large plate of carrot salad put in front of him at lunch. Several months ago his doctor made Ike cut out smoking which meant that he began putting on weight, so now the doctor has not only put him on a diet but curtailed Ike to one evening cocktail per day.

Ike's chief personal problem, however, is not dieting but Mrs. Eisenhower's reluctance to return to Europe. During the long war years and during the period before them, when Ike was in the Phillippines, the Eisenhower family never had a home of their own.

Finally, at Columbia, Mrs. Eisenhower revamped the president's mansion and had just got comfortably settled when her husband was yanked off to Europe. Naturally, Mrs. Ike wasn't enthusiastic although now she realizes the tremendous challenge facing him and she is almost beginning to like their poorly heated Paris apartment.

Step Toward Unifying Europe

Some significant trans-Atlantic haggling is taking place regarding what could be one of the most important by-products to emerge from European rearmament—namely, an educational program for allied troops on why we oppose communism. If properly put across, this could be the first real step toward unifying Europe.

Some of Eisenhower's staff, realizing that several thousand troops would be on their hands in Germany with relatively nothing to do, proposed a troop indoctrination program similar to the historic "Why We Fight" films produced by Hollywood's Frank Capra during the war. They also proposed radio talks by Eisenhower to his troops on the reasons why they are in Europe, together with the goals and ideals of democracy as against communism.

However, because this verges on things political, the State Department and the British got scared. State Department officials didn't like the army barging into their field, while the British held up their hands in horror at any American propaganda going to their troops.

Trans-Atlantic wire-pulling is still continuing over what could be the most important phase of the entire rearmament program.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 23—What the Kefauver Committee hearings are to the public is just a show—gamblers and politicians squirming under severe questioning—but what the millions who are watching the affair on television probably don't realize is that they themselves are primarily responsible for the very conditions now being exposed.

Also what the millions of voters who have been observing the proceedings probably don't realize either is that the federal government has no constitutional jurisdiction over gambling or political corruption which arises within any state or city and that the responsibility rests only with state, county and city governments to exercise police power over such matters.

There are some interstate phases of gambling and crime which might be reached through federal law but, for the most part, the problem is local. It is a sad commentary on local government that it took a Senate investigating committee to bring into the open what has been going on in many cities under the noses of the voters. In some instances, the newspapers in local areas have published the sensational facts but the people or their legislatures have not seen fit to become aroused over them. Some repercussions may occur now, but it is still a reflection on local government that these belated inquiries are prompted by a Congressional expose.

It is an open question, too, whether all the television excitement means much more than morbid curiosity. The gangsters of prohibition days attracted attention, as do criminals always. If a notorious Dillinger or a Capone were to be exhibited to public view at a movie theatre or the Yankee Stadium, that probably would pack the House, too.

The public likes a show and television furnishes a spectacle, but it remains to be seen whether the show has not really endangered to some extent the opportunity of a Congressional committee to cite witnesses who may have committed perjury or who refuse to answer questions.

Two of the important witnesses before the Kefauver committee have already refused to testify before the television cameras. Judging by the way the courts split hairs nowadays on the matter of constitutional rights, it could happen that what gave the people a good show this week also may have lost for the same people an opportunity to prosecute persons accused of wrongdoing.

Thus the American Bar Association in 1937 adopted as one of the canons of judicial ethics the following:

"Proceedings in court should be conducted with fitting dignity and decorum. The taking of photographs in the courtroom, during sessions or recess between sessions, and the broadcasting of court proceedings are calculated to detract from the essential dignity of the proceedings, degrade the court and create misconceptions with respect thereto in the mind of the public and should not be permitted."

If the above, which refers to still camera pictures, is accepted generally by the courts—and most judges have accepted it—it could mean that television broadcasts could be ruled to be a violation of constitutional rights when witnesses enter an objection thereto.

In one sense a congressional committee hearing is not a court proceeding, but a witness might claim undue interference with constitutional rights and be upheld by a court if our judicial system happens to frown on the practice of interfering with the processes of thought of a witness at a trial or committee hearing.

The O'Dwyer-Costello episode has been given wide publicity by the press, the radio and television and the primary object of the Kefauver committee was to call public attention to abuses. Hence the main purpose has been attained. But once the congressional hearings are over, the gamblers and the politicians can go back and do it all over again unless, of course, an awakened public opinion begins to inquire into how state, city and county governments are beset with evil influences and undertakes to set in motion investigating machinery on a local basis to find out what state laws have been violated and why local enforcement officers have failed to do their duty.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The only reason why the citizen is obliged to give testimony before committees and subcommittees of the Senate and the House of Representatives is that our national legislature has a right to information for guidance in performing its legislative function. The precedents go way back. One of them, which was cited by the Committee on Un-American Activities when Parnell Thomas was chairman, was subject to suspicion. In that case, the committee wanted to get evidence for a scandalous expose as well as information to prove deficiency in a certain law which required remedial legislation.

If you are called to testify before a committee, you should remember that information is all that the inquiry has a right to. You do not have to expose yourself to moving picture cameras or, for that matter, even to press cameras. Our courts don't tolerate such clowning and you are within your rights in refusing to testify until all photographers are driven from the room. Those guys will hate me, but they are not my clients. You are.

Before taking the oath you should ask the chairman in clear, unmistakable words and tones whether a voice-recording is being made. If you object to such a recording, and if you are wise you will object, you are clearly within your rights in refusing to utter a chirp until the chairman gives you a solemn promise in the name of the Senate or House, as the case may be, that no such recording will be taken.

It is a good idea to get such a stipulation into the written record because some of our statesmen are crooks and not above trapping a vocal record with concealed devices. They can take movies, with voice, by the same clandestine methods so your objections should cover that possibility, too. Keep in mind the fact that the committee, in fact the Congress of the United States itself, has no right to your pictures and no power to make you submit to photography or to give a permanent record of your voice.

If the chairman yells or sneers at you, say something for the written record that will establish the fact that he was giving you the business, otherwise the words on paper may not indicate that he was acting up. Remember always that information is all that the committee can demand of you. Remember, too, that you are not a defendant but a citizen giving information for the guidance of Congress. You can demand a closed hearing—that is, without an audience—because the only purpose is to get information for Congress.

Committeemen often flagrantly abuse their congressional right to information to make campaign publicity for themselves or respective parties. It is not always possible to frustrate such characters, but you can minimize the abuse by standing on your rights. If you are good at such business and have presence of mind, you can yell right back and trade sneer for sneer with those who are baiting you, but a better way is to take it easy and let them make fools of themselves. They may be shameless mountebanks and most of them are glib at forensics.

You have a constitutional right to refuse to give information that will degrade or incriminate you in any future trial before a court. Stand on that right and take a chance that the court will uphold you. You actually have no right to refuse to say whether you are or ever were a member

This might be amusing were it no so tragic in view of General Dougles MacArthur's stalemate in Korea, which is largely a result of this faulty British policy.

It is interesting, therefore, to have a look at the state of Formosa, an island which, by the treaty of Shimonoseki in 1895, was ceded to Japan along with the Pescadores. The Japanese called the island Taiwan, a name which the Russians continue to use.

The defeat of Japan in 1945 left Formosa without government, and Nationalist China took over, housing large bodies of troops there. In their hunt for pro-Japanese natives, the Chinese behaved badly. When Chiang Kai-shek took over in 1949, he had the problem to face of establishing a government not only for the natives but for the enormous influx of refugee Chinese.

Meanwhile, the status of his government internationally became increasingly confused. According to the Cairo Declaration (November 26, 1943), Formosa was to be returned to China by the peace treaty with Japan. But there is no peace treaty with Japan. Also, while the United States and other countries and the United Nations recognize the Nationalist regime as the government of China, Great Britain and some other countries recognize the Soviet regime of Mao Tze-tung.

This question of legitimacy is very important in Asia. In the matter of Korea, for instance, the Americans are embarrassed, perhaps disastrously, by the fact that Great Britain recognized that Chinese regime which is fighting us, while Great Britain is embarrassed by the obvious political necessity of voting in the United Nations with the United States and against Soviet China. General MacArthur emphasized this confusion in his "stalemate" statement.

Two cases have arisen in the British courts over this curious situation. In the matter of "Civil Air Transport, Inc. vs. Chennault and others," decided in the Supreme Court of Hongkong, the legitimacy of government was involved. The British court decided that as there is no peace treaty with Japan, Formosa is still part of the Japanese empire. This is, of course, a retreat into pure legalism, unrelated to the facts of the situation. Furthermore, it makes the British position illogical, for if there is no legitimacy to the Nationalist government in Formosa, what possible legitimacy can there be to the Communist regime in Peking?

In the case of "U.S.A. vs. Yang Soon Ee" in the Singapore court, the chief justice said:

"It is clear that the Central Peoples government and the Peoples Republic in China is recognized both de facto and de jure as the only government in China. The ship is registered in Formosa which is legally part of the Japanese empire and not apparently de facto under the control of the Communist government in China."

If this is true, why is not Korea a part of the Japanese empire?

G. W. Keeton, dean of the faculty of law in the University of London, says of this:

". . . It is an attitude which is quite inconsistent with that adopted in respect of Korea, which was also Japanese in 1943, but is now treated as an independent state. Moreover, if Formosa was to be regarded as still formally Japanese territory, then administration of it pending the peace treaty is ultimately the responsibility of the allied powers, whose agent for defense is General MacArthur. Hence it would follow that any attack on it would be an attack upon the allied military administration, and as such, a matter of immediate concern to this country as much as to the United States. Yet Great Britain has committed herself to the position that she is not primarily concerned with a Communist attack upon Formosa!"

Both Communist and Nationalist China reject the British position. Both regard Formosa as Chinese territoy. The official American view is that Formosa is Chinese territory. The British were premature in their recognition of Soviet China and that got them all tangled up in difficulties.

That Body of Yours

CANCER OF THE STOMACH

It often surprises us to learn that a person we have been seeing every day is in the hospital with cancer of the stomach and, despite operation, is likely to live but a short time.

The reason that this individual reached the hospital too late to save his life is, in most cases, due to not reporting his "little attacks of indigestion" to his physician. By the time he finally consults his physician, and stomach and X-ray tests are made, the cancer has extended to nearby or distant glands and what is called secondary infection—metastasis—is present.

What we must all remember is that cancer anywhere in the body is curable if treated in its early stages. Unfortunately, in its early stages cancer of the stomach may not cause pain, just a slight distress or heaviness in the region of the stomach.

In Archives of Surgery, Drs. John S. LaDue, Paul J. Murison, Gordon McNeer and George T. Pack (Memorial Hospital, New York city) report their study of 1,117 patients with stomach cancer to decide whether the length of time the patient had stomach symptoms and the chances of operation being successful were related. These surgeons found, unfortunately, that the length of time the symptoms were present, with signs of stomach disturbance present, was about the same whether or not the condition was found suitable for operation except that dysphagia (difficulty in swallowing) was twice as common in those who could not undergo operation. In order of frequency, the signs and symptoms present were: loss of weight (83.5 per cent); vomiting; bowel disturbances; loss of appetite; dysphagia; nausea; weakness; expelling gas by mouth; bleeding from bowel. Weight loss over 41 pounds was usually present in inoperable cancer. The more rapid the weight loss, the more striking were the other disturbances of the various functions and organs of the body. Pain was the first symptom in 41 per cent, dysphagia in about 12 per cent and loss of appetite in 8 per cent.

Strange to say, stomach cancer may be too far advanced for operation before the patient has any symptoms and may be curable by operation even after symptoms, presumably due to cancer, have been present for two years.

The lesson is that if symptoms of indigestion remain present in one at the cancer age, the family physician should be consulted and an X-ray examination made.

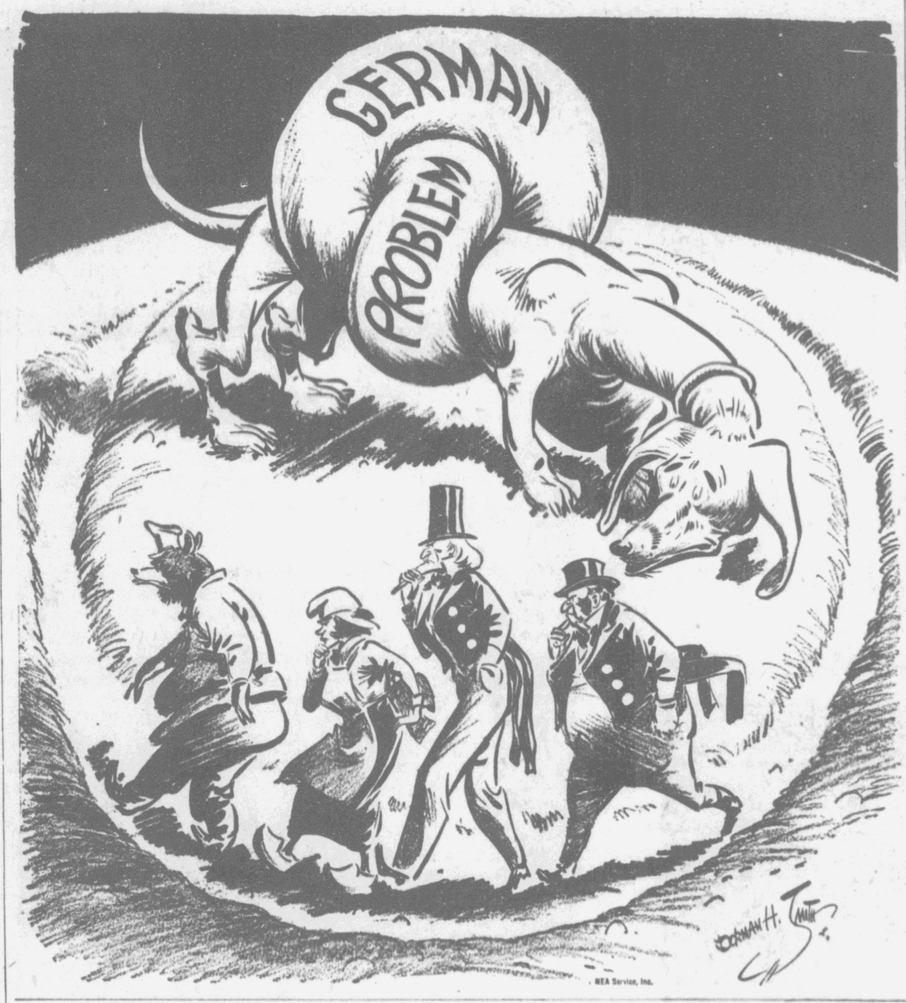
'Round and 'Round



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Paris—It is now more than two years since the foreign ministers of 12 nations met in solemn conclave in Washington and, accompanied by klieg lights and overseas broadcasts, signed the North Atlantic Pact.

The purpose of that pact was to protect the liberty-loving democracies from Soviet aggression. In the two years that have passed, however, not one single division has been raised to block that aggression, and there has been no agreement on pooling of raw materials, no schedule for production, no program for propaganda and political warfare, and no coordination of intelligence reports—in brief, all that the North Atlantic Pact countries have after two years of talking is a piece of paper plus an array of cumbersome committees which got in each other's way.

It was this emaciated skeleton of a defense organization that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower took over less than three months ago. Actually, he didn't exactly take it over, for Eisenhower, as supreme commander, reports back to "the standing group" in Washington, where Gen. Omar Bradley is his boss, and the standing group, in turn, takes orders from NATO, or the North Atlantic Paot Organization, in London.

Out of this tangled skein of red tape, however, Eisenhower has emerged as a contagious and forceful catalyst. Already his influence is being felt; already he has made European preparedness a partial reality. He doesn't talk in terms of so many troops here or so many troops there but in terms of goals, teamwork and cooperation.

The biggest thing Eisenhower has done, however, is to inspire confidence. There is a sort of contagious, almost spiritual, driving force about Eisenhower when he talks with his allied colleagues. His job is partly one of public relations between governments, to get them to stop bickering over who will manufacture a three-inch fuse and how much they will be paid for it or who will make a 90-millimeter gun and what price they will charge for it. This is what NATOS has been haggling over for two years, and what Ike is trying to make them see is that having a certain command is not a question of prestige but an obligation and a responsibility.

Another thing Ike has done is to insist that every member of his international organization function as a team. If a Dane starts talking like a Dane, not as part of the team, he is through as far as Eisenhower is concerned.

Morale Boost Soon

The first big boost to North Atlantic Pact morale will come early in April when America's first division of troops under NATO will dock at Havre, march up the Champs Elysees and then entrain for Germany.

This is going to be the biggest lift to European defense psychology since June, 1944, when Eisenhower landed other U. S. troops on the Normandy beachhead. However what has been diplomatically suggested to France and England is that they make this psychological impact even greater by adding one devision each to the North Atlantic Pact organization on the same day the American division lands.

Thus, as U. S. troops land at Havre, a British division would land at Cherbourg, with a French division joining them in Paris, and all three then entraining for the area where the Red Army, if it strikes, would strike first—Germany.

Note—At present Eisenhower has only eight divisions to defend a 500-mile line from the Baltic to Switzerland if the Red Army moves. On the other immediate side of this line the Russians have about 30 German divisions plus around 70 divisions in the Russian standing army. To meet this, France has promised 10 divisions this year and England five for Europe and five for other parts of the British Empire.

Ike's on Diet

One of the first things Ike did to speed work at his allied headquarters in the Astoria Hotel in Parish was to abolish the typical two - to - three - hour Parisienne lunch. He did this by setting up a dining room at his headquarters and then putting an Englishman in charge of English foods so bad that the allied officers spend only 30 minutes lunching.

Ike himself is dieting and gets a large plate of carrot salad put in front of him at lunch. Several months ago his doctor made Ike cut out smoking which meant that he began putting on weight, so now the doctor has not only put him on a diet but curtailed Ike to one evening cocktail per day.

Ike's chief personal problem, however, is not dieting but Mrs. Eisenhower's reluctance to return to Europe. During the long war years and during the period before them, when Ike was in the Phillippines, the Eisenhower family never had a home of their own.

Finally, at Columbia, Mrs. Eisenhower revamped the president's mansion and had just got comfortably settled when her husband was yanked off to Europe. Naturally, Mrs. Ike wasn't enthusiastic although now she realizes the tremendous challenge facing him and she is almost beginning to like their poorly heated Paris apartment.

Step Toward Unifying Europe

Some significant trans-Atlantic haggling is taking place regarding what could be one of the most important by-products to emerge from European rearmament—namely, an educational program for allied troops on why we oppose communism. If properly put across, this could be the first real step toward unifying Europe.

Some of Eisenhower's staff, realizing that several thousand troops would be on their hands in Germany with relatively nothing to do, proposed a troop indoctrination program similar to the historic "Why We Fight" films produced by Hollywood's Frank Capra during the war. They also proposed radio talks by Eisenhower to his troops on the reasons why they are in Europe, together with the goals and ideals of democracy as against communism.

However, because this verges on things political, the State Department and the British got scared. State Department officials didn't like the army barging into their field, while the British held up their hands in horror at any American propaganda going to their troops.

Trans-Atlantic wire-pulling is still continuing over what could be the most important phase of the entire rearmament program.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 23—What the Kefauver Committee hearings are to the public is just a show—gamblers and politicians squirming under severe questioning—but what the millions who are watching the affair on television probably don't realize is that they themselves are primarily responsible for the very conditions now being exposed.

Also what the millions of voters who have been observing the proceedings probably don't realize either is that the federal government has no constitutional jurisdiction over gambling or political corruption which arises within any state or city and that the responsibility rests only with state, county and city governments to exercise police power over such matters.

There are some interstate phases of gambling and crime which might be reached through federal law but, for the most part, the problem is local. It is a sad commentary on local government that it took a Senate investigating committee to bring into the open what has been going on in many cities under the noses of the voters. In some instances, the newspapers in local areas have published the sensational facts but the people or their legislatures have not seen fit to become aroused over them. Some repercussions may occur now, but it is still a reflection on local government that these belated inquiries are prompted by a Congressional expose.

It is an open question, too, whether all the television excitement means much more than morbid curiosity. The gangsters of prohibition days attracted attention, as do criminals always. If a notorious Dillinger or a Capone were to be exhibited to public view at a movie theatre or the Yankee Stadium, that probably would pack the House, too.

The public likes a show and television furnishes a spectacle, but it remains to be seen whether the show has not really endangered to some extent the opportunity of a Congressional committee to cite witnesses who may have committed perjury or who refuse to answer questions.

Two of the important witnesses before the Kefauver committee have already refused to testify before the television cameras. Judging by the way the courts split hairs nowadays on the matter of constitutional rights, it could happen that what gave the people a good show this week also may have lost for the same people an opportunity to prosecute persons accused of wrongdoing.

Thus the American Bar Association in 1937 adopted as one of the canons of judicial ethics the following:

"Proceedings in court should be conducted with fitting dignity and decorum. The taking of photographs in the courtroom, during sessions or recess between sessions, and the broadcasting of court proceedings are calculated to detract from the essential dignity of the proceedings, degrade the court and create misconceptions with respect thereto in the mind of the public and should not be permitted."

If the above, which refers to still camera pictures, is accepted generally by the courts—and most judges have accepted it—it could mean that television broadcasts could be ruled to be a violation of constitutional rights when witnesses enter an objection thereto.

In one sense a congressional committee hearing is not a court proceeding, but a witness might claim undue interference with constitutional rights and be upheld by a court if our judicial system happens to frown on the practice of interfering with the processes of thought of a witness at a trial or committee hearing.

The O'Dwyer-Costello episode has been given wide publicity by the press, the radio and television and the primary object of the Kefauver committee was to call public attention to abuses. Hence the main purpose has been attained. But once the congressional hearings are over, the gamblers and the politicians can go back and do it all over again unless, of course, an awakened public opinion begins to inquire into how state, city and county governments are beset with evil influences and undertakes to set in motion investigating machinery on a local basis to find out what state laws have been violated and why local enforcement officers have failed to do their duty.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The only reason why the citizen is obliged to give testimony before committees and subcommittees of the Senate and the House of Representatives is that our national legislature has a right to information for guidance in performing its legislative function. The precedents go way back. One of them, which was cited by the Committee on Un-American Activities when Parnell Thomas was chairman, was subject to suspicion. In that case, the committee wanted to get evidence for a scandalous expose as well as information to prove deficiency in a certain law which required remedial legislation.

If you are called to testify before a committee, you should remember that information is all that the inquiry has a right to. You do not have to expose yourself to moving picture cameras or, for that matter, even to press cameras. Our courts don't tolerate such clowning and you are within your rights in refusing to testify until all photographers are driven from the room. Those guys will hate me, but they are not my clients. You are.

Before taking the oath you should ask the chairman in clear, unmistakable words and tones whether a voice-recording is being made. If you object to such a recording, and if you are wise you will object, you are clearly within your rights in refusing to utter a chirp until the chairman gives you a solemn promise in the name of the Senate or House, as the case may be, that no such recording will be taken.

It is a good idea to get such a stipulation into the written record because some of our statesmen are crooks and not above trapping a vocal record with concealed devices. They can take movies, with voice, by the same clandestine methods so your objections should cover that possibility, too. Keep in mind the fact that the committee, in fact the Congress of the United States itself, has no right to your pictures and no power to make you submit to photography or to give a permanent record of your voice.

If the chairman yells or sneers at you, say something for the written record that will establish the fact that he was giving you the business, otherwise the words on paper may not indicate that he was acting up. Remember always that information is all that the committee can demand of you. Remember, too, that you are not a defendant but a citizen giving information for the guidance of Congress. You can demand a closed hearing—that is, without an audience—because the only purpose is to get information for Congress.

Committeemen often flagrantly abuse their congressional right to information to make campaign publicity for themselves or respective parties. It is not always possible to frustrate such characters, but you can minimize the abuse by standing on your rights. If you are good at such business and have presence of mind, you can yell right back and trade sneer for sneer with those who are baiting you, but a better way is to take it easy and let them make fools of themselves. They may be shameless mountebanks and most of them are glib at forensics.

You have a constitutional right to refuse to give information that will degrade or incriminate you in any future trial before a court. Stand on that right and take a chance that the court will uphold you. You actually have no right to refuse to say whether you are or ever were a member

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

New York (AP)—Somewhere in Korea weeks ago an American soldier picked up an enemy propaganda leaflet.

Ever since then the questions it raised have haunted him and members of his infantry squad.

The faded leaflet—it is on my desk now—is a greeting from "the Chinese People's Army Volunteer Forces" to the American troops. It wished them a Merry Christmas and a peaceful New Year and asked:

"Why are you here slaughtering the Korean people and burning their homes down—freezing and dying 5,000 miles from home where you belong with your families? Why aren't you enjoying a turkey dinner like the Wall Street financiers who sent you here to fight for their profits?

'Do Not Want to Fight'

"We do not want to fight you, and we bear you no ill-will, knowing that you, like us, are ordinary laboring people and that you have been duped by American warmongers and their Wall Street bosses.

"We only want you to go home, so that we Korean and Chinese people can build the lives we want and live in peace."

Somewhere in Korea Sgt. Donald Caine of the Eighth Cavalry Regiment sat down and wrote a letter in pencil. He put the leaflet in the envelope and mailed it to me.

"We realize that enemy propaganda is one of their greatest weapons," he wrote. "But in our position how can we help but believe parts of this? So we'd like for you to help us get an answer to some of these questions."

I don't feel I'm the one to give the answers. But here is my reply to Sergeant Caine and the boys in the Fourth Squad of the First Platoon of the First Battalion of the Eight Regiment of the First U. S. Cavalry, fighting somewhere in Korea since last July:

"That leaflet would trouble any honest man if it were true. But it isn't true. And it isn't simply an earnest plea for peace, written by one soldier to a soldier on the other side.

Work of Skilled Man

"It is the effort of a skilled propagandist. He wants to confuse you, to make you homesick, to make you doubt your cause and feel your sacrifices are useless and unnecessary.

"If he should succeed in making a majority of American soldiers feel this way, we will have to pull out of Korea entirely. And, in time, I think that means we will have to fight a third world war in our own homeland—and our own families will become the refugees.

"You aren't fighting for the profits of Wall Street financiers—or just to save Seoul or Taegu. You're fighting for a chance to keep war forever away from your own town—Main street, U.S.A.

"Of course, it is true the average Chinese soldier doesn't in his heart bear you any real ill-will. You probably don't bear him individually any ill-will either. Soldiers in any war rarely hate each other on a personal basis.

May Sound Ponderous

"I know the word freedom may sound ponderous and hollow in ears filled with the noise of crunching mortars. But it is a basic word—basic as hunger and fear. And freedom is your goal. Eventual freedom in the world from war and fear and hunger.

"You came into Korea under a blue and white flag of the United Nations, pledged to bring unity and freedom to that country. Why is the Chinese so-called "Volunteer" there? He came under the Red flag of real slaughter—the slaughter of the long dream of Korean independence.

"And if he wins there it won't be just Korean independence that will disappear. Step by step the Red armies of China and Russia will march across other countries unable to defend themselves alone—and swallow the world piecemeal.

"That would be quite all right, too, if it meant a better life finally for us all. But communism hasn't been able to do that anywhere. Freedom has always brought more happiness than has slavery. And it is better to fight for a free world than a slave one.

"It is a lie that the Korean people want you to go home. They want you to stay and help them win a real peace. They dread the Chinese, and you know it.

"The truth is you are a military pioneer, fighting for the first time on a barricade defending all mankind's yearning for a final world peace. It's always lonely on a barricade, but no soldiers ever fought to hold a higher wall of hope.

"And if you hold it, the race of man will honor you forever."

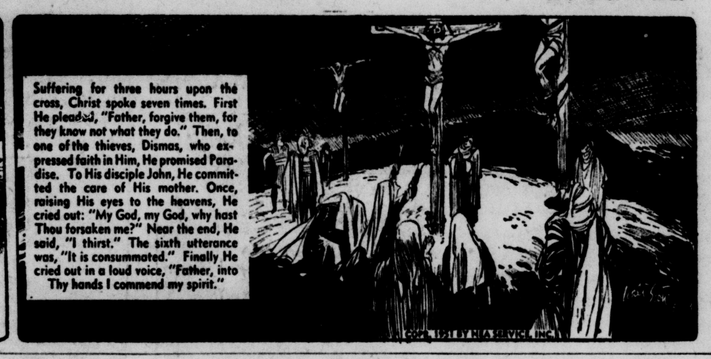
THE WAY TO CALVARY

On the cross above the head of Jesus was nailed an inscription written by Pilate: "Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews." Caiaphas demanded it be changed to: "He said I am king," but Pilate stubbornly refused.

His Last Words



Suffering for three hours upon the cross, Christ spoke seven times. First He pleaded, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." Then, to one of the thieves, Dismas, who expressed faith in Him, He promised Paradise. To His disciple John, He committed the care of His mother. Once, raising His eyes to the heavens, He cried out: "My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me?" Near the end, He said, "I thirst." The sixth utterance was, "It is consummated." Finally He cried out in a loud voice, "Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit."

The Holy Week

Palm Sunday

As Jesus left His mother dear,
Whose heart was filled with love and fear,
His travels started with palms and cheers
From people crying "Hosanna!

Monday

Now when the multitude was gone
Our Master was once more alone.
He wandered here, He wandered there
Seems no one had a resting place to spare.
Oh! blessed, happy thought to know
Dear Jesus found an open door
To rest Himself, and sit at meat
With Mary, Martha and Lazarus, indeed.

Tuesday

Now in the starry twilight morn
Our Saviour to the city returned
He taught, He prophesied, and healed,
He prayed, He fasted,
To God for strength He appealed.

Wednesday

Oh Jesus dear, do tell me pray
What happened to you
On that very next day?
"Betrayed by Judas, and then sold
Oh woe, deep woe, I loved Him so."

Thursday

Our Lord and Saviour, with the twelve
Went up to Jerusalem, for the day to dwell
The large guest chamber, the upper room
Was ready for the disciples, and Christ—their Groom.
Here Jesus gave to everybody
The Wine—His blood, the bread—His Body
Oh holy sacrament of love
That makes us one, with Christ above.

Friday

Now Christ was led to meet His death
He climbed the hill, He carried His Cross
The wicked jeered, His followers feared
All stayed with Him, the good, the bad
They heard His words, the good were sad.

Saturday

Yea! After death our Saviour dear
Was in the hands of friends right near
They took His body from the cross
Wrapped it in spice and linen cloths
And laid it in a new hewn tomb
In Joseph's garden, where the lilies bloomed.

Sunday

Easter Morn, a new dawn
Christ is risen, heaven born
Now we know, when Christ said
To the sinner, at His left,
"Yet today you will be, with me in eternity."
Well I know, so do you
What Christ's Crib and Cross can do
Believe in Him, trust in Him,
Through Heaven's Gate
We'll walk with him.

Governor Signs Bill to Continue Rents Commission

Albany, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—The temporary state commission on rents will exist for another year, until July 1, 1952, under terms of a bill signed by Governor Dewey.

The 15-member commission, created in 1948, studies rents and rental conditions and recommends rent control measures to the Legislature.

The state's present residential rent control law was drafted by the commission.

Dewey also approved bills to:

1—Grant pay raises ranging from 7.5 to 12.5 per cent for full time employes of the Legislature and flat 10 per cent boosts to those employed just during the legislative session.

2—Continue for another year, until July 1, 1952, authority for local welfare commissioners to order able-bodied home relief recipients to work on special work relief projects.

3—Authorize one year's hospital care for children or relatives whose maintenance is provided under the welfare category of aid-to-dependent-children, and permit the state to pass on to localities new federal aid for this purpose beyond a former six-month limit. State aid will continue to be limited to six months, however.

Dewey vetoed measures which would have:

1—Given local welfare commissioners full discretionary authority to distribute home relief in the form of checks payable to specific merchants, rather than in cash.

2—Required the use of chock blocks by trucks and buses when parked on a grade.

Terrorists Take Heavy Toll

Kuala Lumper (AP)—Communist terrorists destroyed or damaged $1,800,000 worth of property in the Federation of Malaya in December, 1950. Of this total, $1,300,000 represented damage to buildings, bungalows, laborers' lines, rubber stores and engines.

Adventists to Hold Service on Sunday

A special service will be held in the Seven-day Adventist Church Sunday beginning at 7:30 p. m. Elder J. A. Toop, missionary secretary of the Greater New York Conference of Seven-day Adventists, will be the guest speaker.

During the service two films will be shown, entitled Mid-Century Pageant of Missions and Adventure in Evangelism.

This service is open to the public and all are welcome.

Members of the church will join in a nation-wide campaign March 24 to extend the use of television for Christian evangelism.

In cooperation with other Adventist congregations, the church will make a special financial contribution to expand coverage of the denominations' network TV program, "Faith for Today."

The program is telecast on Channel 7 every Sunday at 12:30 p. m.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

New York (AP)—Somewhere in Korea weeks ago an American soldier picked up an enemy propaganda leaflet.

Ever since then the questions it raised have haunted him and members of his infantry squad.

The faded leaflet—it is on my desk now—is a greeting from "the Chinese People's Army Volunteer Forces" to the American troops. It wished them a Merry Christmas and a peaceful New Year and asked:

"Why are you here slaughtering the Korean people and burning their homes down—freezing and dying 5,000 miles from home where you belong with your families? Why aren't you enjoying a turkey dinner like the Wall Street financiers who sent you here to fight for their profits?

'Do Not Want to Fight'

"We do not want to fight you, and we bear you no ill-will, knowing that you, like us, are ordinary laboring people and that you have been duped by American warmongers and their Wall Street bosses.

"We only want you to go home, so that we Korean and Chinese people can build the lives we want and live in peace."

Somewhere in Korea Sgt. Donald Caine of the Eighth Cavalry Regiment sat down and wrote a letter in pencil. He put the leaflet in the envelope and mailed it to me.

"We realize that enemy propaganda is one of their greatest weapons," he wrote. "But in our position how can we help but believe parts of this? So we'd like for you to help us get an answer to some of these questions."

I don't feel I'm the one to give the answers. But here is my reply to Sergeant Caine and the boys in the Fourth Squad of the First Platoon of the First Battalion of the Eight Regiment of the First U. S. Cavalry, fighting somewhere in Korea since last July:

"That leaflet would trouble any honest man if it were true. But it isn't true. And it isn't simply an earnest plea for peace, written by one soldier to a soldier on the other side.

Work of Skilled Man

"It is the effort of a skilled propagandist. He wants to confuse you, to make you homesick, to make you doubt your cause and feel your sacrifices are useless and unnecessary.

"If he should succeed in making a majority of American soldiers feel this way, we will have to pull out of Korea entirely. And, in time, I think that means we will have to fight a third world war in our own homeland—and our own families will become the refugees.

"You aren't fighting for the profits of Wall Street financiers—or just to save Seoul or Taegu. You're fighting for a chance to keep war forever away from your own town—Main street, U.S.A.

"Of course, it is true the average Chinese soldier doesn't in his heart bear you any real ill-will. You probably don't bear him individually any ill-will either. Soldiers in any war rarely hate each other on a personal basis.

May Sound Ponderous

"I know the word freedom may sound ponderous and hollow in ears filled with the noise of crunching mortars. But it is a basic word—basic as hunger and fear. And freedom is your goal. Eventual freedom in the world from war and fear and hunger.

"You came into Korea under a blue and white flag of the United Nations, pledged to bring unity and freedom to that country. Why is the Chinese so-called "Volunteer" there? He came under the Red flag of real slaughter—the slaughter of the long dream of Korean independence.

"And if he wins there it won't be just Korean independence that will disappear. Step by step the Red armies of China and Russia will march across other countries unable to defend themselves alone—and swallow the world piecemeal.

"That would be quite all right, too, if it meant a better life finally for us all. But communism hasn't been able to do that anywhere. Freedom has always brought more happiness than has slavery. And it is better to fight for a free world than a slave one.

"It is a lie that the Korean people want you to go home. They want you to stay and help them win a real peace. They dread the Chinese, and you know it.

"The truth is you are a military pioneer, fighting for the first time on a barricade defending all mankind's yearning for a final world peace. It's always lonely on a barricade, but no soldiers ever fought to hold a higher wall of hope.

"And if you hold it, the race of man will honor you forever."

TUMS FOR THE TUMMY

THE WAY TO CALVARY

On the cross above the head of Jesus was nailed an inscription written by Pilate: "Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews." Caiophas demanded it be changed to: "He said I am king," but Pilate stubbornly refused.

His Last Words

Suffering for three hours upon the cross, Christ spoke seven times. First He pleaded, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." Then, to one of the thieves, Dismas, who expressed faith in Him, He promised Paradise. To His disciple John, He committed the care of His mother. Once, raising His eyes to the heavens, He cried out: "My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me?" Near the end, He said, "I thirst." The sixth utterance was, "It is consummated." Finally He cried out in a loud voice, "Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit."

The Holy Week

Palm Sunday

As Jesus left His mother dear,
Whose heart was filled with love and fear,
His travels started with palms and cheers
From people crying "Hosanna!

Monday

Now when the multitude was gone
Our Master was once more alone.
He wandered here, He wandered there
Seems no one had a resting place to spare.
Oh! blessed, happy thought to know
Dear Jesus found an open door
To rest Himself, and sit at meat
With Mary, Martha and Lazarus, indeed.

Tuesday

Now in the starry twilight morn
Our Saviour to the city returned
He taught, He prophesied, and healed,
He prayed, He fasted,
To God for strength He appealed.

Wednesday

Oh Jesus dear, do tell me pray
What happened to you
On that very next day?
"Betrayed by Judas, and then sold
Oh woe, deep woe, I loved Him so."

Thursday

Our Lord and Saviour, with the twelve
Went up to Jerusalem, for the day to dwell
The large guest chamber, the upper room
Was ready for the disciples, and Christ —their Groom.
Here Jesus gave to everybody
The Wine—His blood, the bread—His Body
Oh holy sacrament of love
That makes us one, with Christ above.

Friday

Now Christ was led to meet His death
He climbed the hill, He carried His Cross
The wicked jeered, His followers feared
All stayed with Him, the good, the bad
They heard His words, the good were sad.

Saturday

Yea! After death our Saviour dear
Was in the hands of friends right near
They took His body from the cross
Wrapped it in spice and linen cloths
And laid it in a new hewn tomb
In Joseph's garden, where the lilies bloomed.

Sunday

Easter Morn, a new dawn
Christ is risen, heaven born
Now we know, when Christ said
To the sinner, at His left,
"Yet today you will be, with me in eternity."
Well I know, so do you
What Christ's Crib and Cross can do
Believe in Him, trust in Him,
Through Heaven's Gate
We'll walk with him.

Governor Signs Bill to Continue Rents Commission

Albany, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—The temporary state commission on rents will exist for another year, until July 1, 1952, under terms of a bill signed by Governor Dewey.

The 15-member commission, created in 1948, studies rents and rental conditions and recommends rent control measures to the Legislature.

The state's present residential rent control law was drafted by the commission.

Dewey also approved bills to:

1—Grant pay raises ranging from 7.5 to 12.5 per cent for full time employes of the Legislature and flat 10 per cent boosts to those employed just during the legislative session.

2—Continue for another year, until July 1, 1952, authority for local welfare commissioners to order able-bodied home relief recipients to work on special work relief projects.

3—Authorize one year's hospital care for children or relatives whose maintenance is provided under the welfare category of aid-to-dependent-children, and permit the state to pass on to localities new federal aid for this purpose beyond a former six-month limit. State aid will continue to be limited to six months, however.

Dewey vetoed measures which would have:

1—Given local welfare commissioners full discretionary authority to distribute home relief in the form of checks payable to specific merchants, rather than in cash.

2—Required the use of chock blocks by trucks and buses when parked on a grade.

Plans for Couples

Pittsburgh, (AP) — Pittsburgh-Xenia Theological Seminary has launched a new building program which will include a dormitory for its married couples and for girls taking courses in Christian education. The seminary, one of the oldest in the country, says latest statistics show nearly half of its 122 students are married.

Terrorists Take Heavy Toll

Kuala Lumper (AP)—Communist terrorists destroyed or damaged $1,800,000 worth of property in the Federation of Malaya in December, 1950. Of this total, $1,300,000 represented damage to buildings, bungalows, laborers' lines, rubber stores and engines.

Adventists to Hold Service on Sunday

A special service will be held in the Seven-day Adventist Church Sunday beginning at 7:30 p. m. Elder J. A. Toop, missionary secretary of the Greater New York Conference of Seven-day Adventists, will be the guest speaker.

During the service two films will be shown, entitled Mid-Century Pageant of Missions and Adventure in Evangelism.

This service is open to the public and all are welcome.

Members of the church will join in a nation-wide campaign March 24 to extend the use of television for Christian evangelism.

In cooperation with other Adventist congregations, the church will make a special financial contribution to expand coverage of the denominations' network TV program, "Faith for Today."

The program is telecast on Channel 7 every Sunday at 12:30 p. m.

Lunch Hour: The daily hour with more than 60 minutes.

Ferdinand—Everytime you open your posketbook a few moths fly out.

Constance—That's better than letting out a few eagles.

The fellow announced to a group of friends that he had been made manager of the First National bank. One friend looked skeptical.

Friend—You couldn't hold a job like that. What have you ever managed before?

Young Man — I managed to marry th president's daughter.

When a man carries an umbrella so that she's protected, he's courting her. When he carries an umbrella so that HE's protected, he's caught her!

The rural mind cannot conceive or comprehend an advantage gained by less work or restricted production. Such a doctrine is nothing short of heresy to the man who sows and reaps. And this old-fashined doctrine is supported by economists who declare that production regulates our standard of living.

When mother at Atlantic City asked father what he thought of one of the bathing girls on the beach, he replied: "Well she certainly knows how to pack her trunks.

Alfred—That last drink made me dizzy.

Anne—Then you'd better let me keep your money for you.

Alfred—It didn't make me that dizzy.

Reporter—Do you think the senator put enough fire in his speech?

Congressman—In my opinion, the senator didn't put enough of his speech in the fire.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Fla., March 23—Closer cooperation between business and education may save our private institutions of higher learning and, at the same time, bring about increased profits for business. Education and business, working hand in hand, can also make themselves of greater value to the country in this national emergency.

One of the soundest ways to preserve private enterprise is to give financial aid to young and needy potential business executives studying in colleges which are especially appreciative of American business and sympathetic to its problems. Most professional colleges of business have this point of view. Young men therein educated are of especial value to business. They not only learn specialized techniques: but they also acquire a sound philosophy of American business. Business needs such young men.

Business also needs the brains and research facilities of the colleges. Many small and middle-sized companies cannot hope, by themselves, to keep pace with the research of big business; but by pooling their efforts with the colleges, their usefulness and profits can be increased. Business provides the funds: the colleges provide the research laboratories.

College Needs Business

In these times of partial mobilization and declining enrollments, the college needs the help of business. Education is the bulwark of democracy. If America is to win the battle of ideologies, it will be by brains — not by brawn. The survival of private enterprise is, therefore, closely tied to the survival of our educational institutions. To survive, our colleges greatly need the financial support of business, which should feel obligated to help keep our system of higher education strong.

Colleges today are in a precarious position. They are victims of a war-time economy. With decreased income from tuitions and inflated costs of operation, plus being buildings-and-land poor, with income from endownments inadequate, colleges are having rough going. Some are already operating in the red. Many more will lose money next year. A cooperative venture between business and education is, therefore, an intelligent solution to many of the problems of both groups.

Ways of Cooperation

Many colleges are already doing a vast amount of techincal research for government and business: Boston University in optics; Georgia Tech in Aeronautical Engineering; University of California in goods; University of Wisconsin in Naval Research; Stanford in radio; Michigan State in fuel; Massachusetts Institute of Technology in manufacturing; Babson Institute in marketing,—to mention a very few.

Other possible areas of cooperation are workshop seminars for top management. These are custom built courses of short duration to meet specific industry and company problems in consumer research, marketing, advertising, product development, taxes, etc. Refresher group conferences for foremen, sales managers, bankers, and accountants can do much to keep both business and education on their toes.

Financial Engineering

Yale University has pointed the way in research in labor relations with its Labor-Management Center. Whole new areas are practically unexplored,—such as atomic warfare, business decentralization and traffic problems. Other areas are job evaluation, job satisfaction, corporation conduct, public relations, organizational communication, corporate finance and statistics.

The subject of taxes alone offers rich possibilities for business-collegiate cooperation. Taxes have become far greater than a legal question. We have in the U.S.A. one of the strongest potential working teams any country has ever known: the research facilities of education and the wealth facilities of business. In harness together they can become invaluable helpmates. Now is the time to build our team and keep our country strong.

As Pegler Sees It

of the Communist party. Communists always insist that an affirmative would be self-incriminating, and some of our pro-Communist federal judges, including many discredited and repudiated congressional lame-ducks of the Roosevelt-Truman corruption, have upheld them. The fact remains that it is no crime to be a Communist or a member of the party or any of its hundreds of transient fronts. Nor was it ever. To be sure, you do expose yourself to impairment of some of your privileges, such as the privilege of obtaining the kind of jobs that Alger Hiss and Leon Pressman had, but that is not a right. You might even suffer the cancellation of your naturalization, on the precedent of the Harry Bridges case, but that is not punishment for a crime. These are inconveniences, but you can't be sent to jail for being or having been a Communist.

You can be sent to jail for perjury in having sworn

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Fla., March 23—Closer cooperation between business and education may save our private institutions of higher learning and, at the same time, bring about increased profits for business. Education and business, working hand in hand, can also make themselves of greater value to the country in this national emergency.

One of the soundest ways to preserve private enterprise is to give financial aid to young and needy potential business executives studying in colleges which are especially appreciative of American business and sympathetic to its problems. Most professional colleges of business have this point of view. Young men therein educated are of especial value to business. They not only learn specialized techniques: but they also acquire

Babson Park, Fla., March 23—Closer cooperation between business and education may save our private institutions of higher learning and, at the same time, bring about increased profits for business. Education and business, working hand in hand, can also make themselves of greater value to the country in this national emergency.

One of the soundest ways to preserve private enterprise is to give financial aid to young and needy potential business executives studying in colleges which are especially appreciative of American business and sympathetic to its problems. Most professional colleges of business have this point of view. Young men therein educated are of especial value to business. They not only learn specialized techniques: but they also acquire a sound philosophy of American business. Business needs such young men.

Business also needs the brains and research facilities of the colleges. Many small and middle-sized companies cannot hope, by themselves, to keep pace with the research of big business; but by pooling their efforts with the colleges, their usefulness and profits can be increased. Business provides the funds: the colleges provide the research laboratories.

College Needs Business

In these times of partial mobilization and declining enrollments, the college needs the help of business. Education is the bulwark of democracy. If America is to win the battle of ideologies, it will be by brains — not by brawn. The survival of private enterprise is, therefore, closely tied to the survival of our educational institutions. To survive, our colleges greatly need the financial support of business, which should feel obligated to help keep our system of higher education strong.

Colleges today are in a precarious position. They are victims of a war-time economy. With decreased income from tuitions and inflated costs of operation, plus being buildings-and-land poor, with income from endowments inadequate, colleges are having rough going. Some are already operating in the red. Many more will lose money next year. A cooperative venture between business and education is, therefore, an intelligent solution to many of the problems of both groups.

Ways of Cooperation

Many colleges are already doing a vast amount of techincal research for government and business: Boston University in optics; Georgia Tech in Aeronautical Engineering; University of California in goods; University of Wisconsin in Naval Research; Stanford in radio; Michigan State in fuel; Massachusetts Institute of Technology in manufacturing; Babson Institute in marketing,—to mention a very few.

Other possible areas of cooperation are workshop seminars for top management. These are custom built courses of short duration to meet specific industry and company problems in consumer research, marketing, advertising, product development, taxes, etc. Refresher group conferences for foremen, sales managers, bankers, and accountants can do much to keep both business and education on their toes.

Financial Engineering

Yale University has pointed the way in research in labor relations with its Labor-Management Center. Whole new areas are practically unexplored,—such as atomic warfare, business decentralization and traffic problems. Other areas are job evaluation, job satisfaction, corporation conduct, public relations, organizational communication, corporate finance and statistics.

The subject of taxes alone offers rich possibilities for business-collegiate cooperation. Taxes have become far greater than a legal question. We have in the U.S.A. one of the strongest potential working teams any country has ever known: the research facilities of education and the wealth facilities of business. In harness together they can become invaluable helpmates. Now is the time to build our team and keep our country strong.

April 1 Date Set For Jewish Center's Membership Drive

Plans for a Jewish Community Center membership drive, to be held Sunday, April 1, were laid at a meeting of the membership committee last night under the chairmanship of Dr. David Kline. It was announced that the city will be divided into five zones for the drive, and a house to house canvas of Jewish families will be conducted. The drive will be preceded by a workers' breakfast at 9:30 a. m. in the B'nai B'rith building when the group will be addressed by a speaker from the Jewish Welfare Board.

Sunday evening, April 1, all new members will be entertained at an open house in the B'nai B'rith building. There will be a guest speaker followed by dancing, entertainment, and refreshments.

The membership committee, as announced last night by Dr. Kline, includes the following co-chairmen: Milton Dubin, Dr. Murray Fletcher, Morris Friedman, Herbert Gertner, Leon Greenberg, Sidney Halpern, Harold Kantrowitz, Manuel Lipton, Herman Lurie, Melvin Navy, Dr. Harold Newman, Dr. Victor Randel, Harry Simon, Walter Suskind, and Seymour Werbalowsky.

Mrs. Jack Epstein, and Mrs. Irving Levine will head the women's division, while Miss Sadye Lutzin and Mrs. Murray Fletcher are in charge of publicity. Mrs. David Mendel is secretary for the group.

Novelist's Daughter, Hannele Robinson, To Be Wed in June

Woodstock, March 23—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morton Robinson of 2 Beekman Place, New York, and this village, announce the engagement of their daughter, Hannele Merrill, to David Bruce Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Francklyn Lawrence Jr. of Washington, D. C. A June wedding has been planned.

Miss Robinson was graduated from the Knox School, Cooperstown, and Smith College, Northampton, Mass., class of '50. She is now associated with Today's Woman magazine, New York. Miss Robinson is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morton Robinson of Boston. Her father is the author of The Cardinal, as well as The Great Snow, and others.

Mr. Lawrence is a graduate of the Groton School, Groton, Mass., and is a member of the class of '51 at Yale University, New Haven, Conn., where he is associated with the Fence Club. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence of New York and Charleston, S. C., and Mrs. Richard Hurd of New York and the late Mr. Hurd.

C.Y.O. Hobby Show Judges Announced

Judges for the Catholic Youth Organization's art, craft and hobby show, to be held March 30 and 31 in St. Joseph's School, were announced today.

Judges for the art exhibit, secured by Mr. and Mrs. Tomas Penning, chairmen, will be two well known Woodstock artists, John Pike, and Marianne Appel, (Mrs. Austin Mecklem). Judges for the craft exhibit will be Mrs. Richard Crane, and Mrs. John Napoleon.

Mrs. John Valentine, chairman of the crafts exhibit, has announced that there will be continuous craft demonstrations both days of the show, when visitors will be able to watch how stencils, block prints, and metallic bird ornaments are made, as well as seeing basket weaving and crepe paper craft.

Boys and girls planning to enter the exhibit are reminded that the deadline for filing entry blanks is today.

The show will be open from 7 to 9 p. m. Friday, and from 1 to 5 p. m. Saturday.

Easter Radio Play Planned

The Rev. Daniel L. Haynes of St. Mark's A.M.E. Church will star in the Kingston Footlighters' production of "If the Light Be Darkness," it was announced today. The special hour long program, dealing with a minister's efforts to help a young veteran face the realities of modern Christianity, will be broadcast Easter Sunday at 10 p. m., over WKNY.

Today's Women

(A.P. Women's Editor)

It's about time to debunk some of the "ten-best-this-or-that" lists that beset the public just before Easter every year.

Just this week we have had the annual list of best-dressed women issued by the Fashion Academy, a fashion school in New York; the ten best-dressed men in America as named by the Custom Tailors Guild, and the "ten best chapeaued women of America," named by ten millinery designers and issued by a New York publicity office.

At other periods recently we have been greeted by list of the "ten best-dressed," the "ten most charming women in America," the "ten most eligible bachelors," the "ten most interesting faces" (named by an organization of artists), the "ten most interesting features" (featuring such items as Jimmy Durante's nose) and even at one point, the "ten best undressed women" — the latter chosen for their effectiveness in bathing suits.

All Over America

The truth of the matter is, there are superbly dressed women all over America who never make the "best-dressed" lists simply because they are not familiar figures on the avenues of publicity.

Close scanning of the lists usually reveals names of persons who employ publicity representatives or names culled from current news, calculated to rate headlines.

So sweeping has the fad become that practically anybody, including Joe Doaks, the corner haberdasher, can draw up his own list of the "ten best necktie wearers" or the "the men who look best in sport shirts" with the hope of seeing his selections in print.

The original list of the "world's ten best-dressed women" was started in Paris after World War 1 by the French couture, each famous dressmaker naming his or her most distinguished customers. This list attained considerable standing because it included the names of international figures in the world of fashion.

List Was Revived

During the eclipse of Paris in World War 2, the list was revived by the New York Dress Institute, which initiated an annual poll of designers and fashion editors of newspapers and magazines throughout the United States to name the "ten best-dressed women." The Institute poll is as authentic as such things can be, and is chosen by vote of people who make a business of fashion.

But even this list is of necessity made up of names well-known to the fashion world—famous social or theatrical figures or women much photographed in cafe society backgrounds.

So don't take any of the lists too seriously. Remember that Mrs. Average Citizen of your home town may be better dressed than any of the famous figures whose names you see so frequently in print.

All Booked Solid

Preparations are normal for Fifth avenue's usual Easter parade, with all leading restaurants booked solid for the fashionable "Easter brunch."

Here, at such popular spots as the Stork Club, the Pierre, Sherry's, the Madison and other fashionable hotels, Mrs. John Q. Public can show off her Easter bonnet and watch the parade outside or perhaps even a special hat show inside, put on by a big-name milliner.

Advance notices say the Duchess of Windsor definitely will be on hand for the big parade, wearing a modish Easter hat; one woman will appear in the parade escorted by a six-foot rabbit; another will wear a hat trimmed in a fortune in diamonds and other precious gems. The television cameras will be on hand and the big show should play to a packed house.

Port Ewen Couple Hold Housewarming

A housewarming was held for Mr. and Mrs. W. Roger Elmendorf Saturday night at their new home on Clay road, Port Ewen. Hostesses were Mrs. William Peters, and Mrs Charles Benton, Jr.

Attending the housewarming were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lemister, Mr. and Mrs. William Windram, William Peters, Charles Benton, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hornbeck, Miss Barbara Webster, Miss Janis Fowler, John Benton, and Philip Darling.

Planning for Jewish Community Center

Committee members working for a Jewish Community Center here gathered at the B'nai B'rith building last night to discuss plans for their membership drive which will open April 1. Miss Mary E. Ferra Wed in St. Joseph's To William T. Bahr

Miss Mary Elizabeth Ferra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ferra of Albany avenue extension, and William T. Bahr, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Bahr of Hamden, Conn., were married Saturday in St. Joseph's Church, this city. The Rev. John D. Simmons, assistant pastor of that parish, officiated at the 11 o'clock service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional floor-length ivory slipper satin gown, with long sleeves, and a scalloped neckline. Her fingertip illusion veil fell from a duchess cap, and she carried a cascade bouquet of orchids and camellias, with apple blossom streamers.

Mrs. John Walther, Jr. of Troy, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, Mrs. Walther was dressed in a coral colored gown with a matching hat. She carried a cascade bouquet of green chrysanthemums and daisies.

Raymond F. Bahr, Jr. of 41 Greenway street, Hamden, Conn., was best man for his brother.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at Judie's for the immediate families, while later, a second reception was held at the bride's home for friends.

On their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Bahr will tour the south. The bride's traveling ensemble included a rust suit, tweed coat, and black accessories. On their return, the couple will make their home in Waterbury, Conn.

Mrs. Bahr is a graduate of the Troy schools. The groom is a graduate of the New Haven schools, and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, where is was fraternally associated with Phi Epsilon Phi.

Scholarship Presentation

Quick-Carlson Nuptials Held

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Carlson of Yarmouth street announce the marriage of their daughter, Janet, to Charles Quick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Quick of 37 Klingburg avenue. The marriage was solemnized March 4 at 2 p. m. in the First Baptist Church, Albany avenue, with the Rev. Donald E. Brown officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a navy blue suit, with white accessories, and a white rose corsage. Miss Shirley Carlson was her sister's only attendant. Miss Carlson was dressed in a tan suit, with a yellow rose corsage. Oscar Carlson Jr., brother of the bride, was best man.

Following the marriage service, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Quick are now making their home in West Hurley.

B. & P. Club Meeting Observes Holy Week

Following supper Wednesday night at the Business and Professional Girls Club meeting a Holy Week service was held, conducted by various club members. After the opening hymn had been sung, Mrs. Helen Moore gave a brief outline of the history of religion in the United States and this city.

Miss Bertha Waterman then read the late Edna St. Vincent Millay's prize winning poem, Renascence, and a duet, The Lord Is My Shepherd, was sung by the Misses Ethel Oesterling and Mary Polhemus. The service closed with members singing the triumphant Easter hymn, Christ the Lord Is Risen Today.

During the secular portion of the program members were given three or four articles and told to concoct a hat. Results showed many clever chapeaux, with prizes going to the best. The group closed its program after decorating Easter eggs under the supervision of Miss Lucy Berryann. The eggs will be distributed to locally hospitalized children Easter morning.

Next week's program, it was announced, will be a spring dance revue by Lucille's dance studio. Members are urged to attend, and bring friends. Reservations may be made by calling the Y.W.C.A. by Monday evening. Supper will begin at 6:10 p. m.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell E. Scherer, 40 West O'Reilly street, announce the birth of a daughter, Michele, on March 21 at the Benedictine Hospital. Mrs. Scherer, who prior to her marriage was a public health nurse attached to the Ulster County Health Department, is the former Marge Fitzgerald.

Ernest Grafe of Bloomington flew to Peoria, Ill., yesterday on business for the Spence Engineering Corp. of Walden.

George Sagar of Creek Locks is the guest this week of Mrs. Lucille Mayo at Clearwater Beach, Fla.

Miss Joan Jablonski has returned from Potsdam where she attended a concert given by her sister, Lorraine, Monday evening at St. Lawrence University.

Miss Violet Schmitz of Washington, D. C., is spending Easter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schmitz, Sr., of St. Remy.

POSITION OF FORKS

One who seems to be a follower of a quaint "American" custom asks: "Is it ever proper to use the fork with the prongs pointing downward?"

Whenever the knife and fork are held in cutting position (fork left hand, knife right) naturally the prongs are pointing downward and food is correctly lifted to the mouth in this position by the left hand. It is only when the fork is held in the right hand that the tines usually turn upward.

Prefers to Return Gifts

Dear Mrs. Post: Well-meaning friends insist that I keep the wedding presents even though my marriage was called off at the last minute. What can I say so as not to hurt their feelings? I really don't want to keep these things as they are reminders of an unhappy episode which I'd like to forget.

Answer: Your frankness will hardly be rude if you explain what you appreciate their kindness but would rather they put whatever it is to use where it would not be a reminder of unhappiness.

Writing Names in Guest Book

Dear Mrs. Post: How should a guest book in a private house be signed? In a house let's say where the hosts are young and call the guests Mr. and Mrs. or Aunt and Uncle?

Answer: "Aunt Mary and Uncle Jim Brown" would be proper of course. But under ordinary circumstances, they sign their regular signatures. That is, the wife signs Eleanor Brown and the husband signs James Brown. They do not prefix their names with Mr. or Mrs. ever as they would in a public register.

Divorcee Has Name Problem

Dear Mrs. Post: Please explain what a divorcee can do about her name when neither her own maiden family name nor her mother's go well with her ex-husband's given name. I can't possibly call myself Mrs. Greene Meadows or Mrs. Black Meadows. What choice is there besides Mrs. Ruth Meadows?

Answer: Go back through your family history until you find a name that can be used with Meadows.

April 1 Date Set For Jewish Center's Membership Drive

Plans for a Jewish Community Center membership drive, to be held Sunday, April 1, were laid at a meeting of the membership committee last night under the chairmanship of Dr. David Kline. It was announced that the city will be divided into five zones for the drive, and a house to house canvas of Jewish families will be conducted. The drive will be preceeded by a workers' breakfast at 9:30 a. m. in the B'nai B'rith building when the group will be addressed by a speaker from the Jewish Welfare Board.

Sunday evening, April 1, all new members will be entertained at an open house in the B'nai B'rith building. There will be a guest speaker followed by dancing, entertainment, and refreshments.

The membership committee, as announced last night by Dr. Kline, includes the following co-chairmen: Milton Dubin, Dr. Murray Fletcher, Morris Friedman, Herbert Gertner, Leon Greenberg, Sidney Halpern, Harold Kantrowitz, Manuel Lipton, Herman Lurie, Melvin Navy, Dr. Harold Newman, Dr. Victor Randel, Harry Simon, Walter Suskind, and Seymour Werbalowsky.

Mrs. Jack Epstein, and Mrs. Irving Levine will head the women's division, while Miss Sadye Lutzin and Mrs. Murray Fletcher are in charge of publicity. Mrs. David Mendel is secretary for the group.

Novelist's Daughter, Hannele Robinson, To Be Wed in June

Woodstock, March 23—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morton Robinson of 2 Beekman Place, New York, and this village, announce the engagement of their daughter, Hannele Merrill, to David Bruce Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Francklyn Lawrence Jr. of Washington, D. C. A June wedding has been planned.

Miss Robinson was graduated from the Knox School, Cooperstown, and Smith College, Northampton; Mass., class of '50. She is now associated with Today's Woman magazine, New York. Miss Robinson is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morton Robinson of Boston. Her father is the author of The Cardinal, as well as The Great Snow, and others.

Mr. Lawrence is a graduate of the Groton School, Groton, Mass., and is a member of the class of '51 at Yale University, New Haven, Conn., where he is associated with the Fence Club. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence of New York and Charleston, S. C., and Mrs. Richard Hurd of New York and the late Mr. Hurd.

C.Y.O. Hobby Show Judges Announced

Judges for the Catholic Youth Organization's art, craft and hobby show, to be held March 30 and 31 in St. Joseph's School, were announced today.

Judges for the art exhibit, secured by Mr. and Mrs. Tomas Penning, chairmen, will be two well known Woodstock artists, John Pike, and Marianne Appel, (Mrs. Austin Mecklem). Judges for the craft exhibit will be Mrs. Richard Crane, and Mrs. John Napoleon.

Mrs. John Valentine, chairman of the crafts exhibit, has announced that there will be continuous craft demonstrations both days of the show, when visitors will be able to watch how stencils, block prints, and metallic bird ornaments are made, as well as seeing basket weaving and crepe paper craft.

Boys and girls planning to enter the exhibit are reminded that the deadline for filing entry blanks is today.

The show will be open from 7 to 9 p. m. Friday, and from 1 to 5 p. m. Saturday.

Easter Radio Play Planned

The Rev. Daniel L. Haynes of St. Mark's A.M.E. Church will star in the Kingston Footlighters' production of "If the Light Be Darkness," it was announced today. The special hour long program, dealing with a minister's efforts to help a young veteran face the realities of modern Christianity, will be broadcast Easter Sunday at 10 p. m., over WKNY.

Today's Women

(A.P. Women's Editor)

It's about time to debunk some of the "ten-best-this-or-that" lists that beset the public just before Easter every year.

Just this week we have had the annual list of best-dressed women issued by the Fashion Academy, a fashion school in New York; the ten best-dressed men in America as named by the Custom Tailors Guild, and the "ten best chapeaued women of America," named by ten millinery designers and issued by a New York publicity office.

At other periods recently we have been greeted by list of the "ten best-dressed," the "ten most charming women in America," the "ten most eligible bachelors," the "ten most interesting faces" (named by an organization of artists), the "ten most interesting features" (featuring such items as Jimmy Durante's nose) and even at one point, the "ten best undressed women" — the latter chosen for their effectiveness in bathing suits.

All Over America

The truth of the matter is, there are superbly dressed women all over America who never make the "best-dressed" lists simply because they are not familiar figures on the avenues of publicity.

Close scanning of the lists usually reveals names of persons who employ publicity representatives or names culled from current news, calculated to rate headlines.

So sweeping has the fad become that practically anybody, including Joe Doaks, the corner haberdasher, can draw up his own list of the "ten best necktie wearers" or the "the men who look best in sport shirts" with the hope of seeing his selections in print.

The original list of the "world's ten best-dressed women" was started in Paris after World War 1 by the French couture, each famous dressmaker naming his or her most distinguished customers. This list attained considerable standing because it included the names of international figures in the world of fashion.

List Was Revived

During the eclipse of Paris in World War 2, the list was revived by the New York Dress Institute, which initiated an annual poll of designers and fashion editors of newspapers and magazines throughout the United States to name the "ten best-dressed women." The Institute poll is as authentic as such things can be, and is chosen by vote of people who make a business of fashion.

But even this list is of necessity made up of names well-known to the fashion world—famous social or theatrical figures or women much photographed in cafe society backgrounds.

So don't take any of the lists too seriously. Remember that Mrs. Average Citizen of your home town may be better dressed than any of the famous figures whose names you see so frequently in print.

All Booked Solid

Preparations are normal for Fifth avenue's usual Easter parade, with all leading restaurants booked solid for the fashionable "Easter brunch."

Here, at such popular spots as the Stork Club, the Pierre, Sherry's, the Madison and other fashionable hotels, Mrs. John Q. Public can show off her Easter bonnet and watch the parade outside or perhaps even a special hat show inside, put on by a big-name milliner.

Advance notices say the Duchess of Windsor definitely will be on hand for the big parade, wearing a modish Easter hat; one woman will appear in the parade escorted by a six-foot rabbit; another will wear a hat trimmed in a fortune in diamonds and other precious gems. The television cameras will be on hand and the big show should play to a packed house.

Port Ewen Couple Hold Housewarming

A housewarming was held for Mr. and Mrs. W. Roger Elmendorf Saturday night at their new home on Clay road, Port Ewen. Hostesses were Mrs. William Peters, and Mrs Charles Benton, Jr.

Miss Mary E. Ferra Wed in St. Joseph's To William T. Bahr

Miss Mary Elizabeth Ferra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ferra of Albany avenue extension, and William T. Bahr, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Bahr of Hamden, Conn., were married Saturday in St. Joseph's Church, this city. The Rev. John D. Simmons, assistant pastor of that parish, officiated at the 11 o'clock service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional floor-length ivory slipper satin gown, with long sleeves, and a scalloped neckline. Her fingertip illusion veil fell from a duchess cap, and she carried a cascade bouquet of orchids and camellias, with apple blossom streamers.

Mrs. John Walther, Jr. of Troy, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, Mrs. Walther was dressed in a coral colored gown with a matching hat. She carried a cascade bouquet of green chrysanthemums and daisies.

Raymond F. Bahr, Jr. of 41 Greenway street, Hamden, Conn., was best man for his brother.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at Judie's for the immediate families, while later, a second reception was held at the bride's home for friends.

On their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Bahr will tour the south. The bride's traveling ensemble included a rust suit, tweed coat, and black accessories. On their return, the couple will make their home in Waterbury, Conn.

Mrs. Bahr is a graduate of the Troy schools. The groom is a graduate of the New Haven schools, and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, where is was fraternally associated with Phi Epsilon Phi.

Scholarship Presentation

Quick-Carlson Nuptials Held

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Carlson of Yarmouth street announce the marriage of their daughter, Janet, to Charles Quick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Quick of 37 Klingburg avenue. The marriage was solemnized March 4 at 2 p. m. in the First Baptist Church, Albany avenue, with the Rev. Donald E. Brown officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a navy blue suit, with white accessories, and a white rose corsage. Miss Shirley Carlson was her sister's only attendant. Miss Carlson was dressed in a tan suit, with a yellow rose corsage. Oscar Carlson Jr., brother of the bride, was best man.

Following the marriage service, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Quick are now making their home in West Hurley.

B. & P. Club Meeting Observes Holy Week

Following supper Wednesday night at the Business and Professional Girls Club meeting a Holy Week service was held, conducted by various club members. After the opening hymn had been sung, Mrs. Helen Moore gave a brief outline of the history of religion in the United States and this city.

Miss Bertha Waterman then read the late Edna St. Vincent Millay's prize winning poem, Renascence, and a duet, The Lord Is My Shepherd, was sung by the Misses Ethel Oesterling and Mary Polhemus. The service closed with members singing the triumphant Easter hymn, Christ the Lord Is Risen Today.

During the secular portion of the program members were given three or four articles and told to concoct a hat. Results showed many clever chapeaux, with prizes going to the best. The group closed its program after decorating Easter eggs under the supervision of Miss Lucy Berryann. The eggs will be distributed to locally hospitalized children Easter morning.

Next week's program, it was announced, will be a spring dance revue by Lucille's dance studio. Members are urged to attend, and bring friends. Reservations may be made by calling the Y.W.C.A. by Monday evening. Supper will begin at 6:10 p. m.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell E. Scherer, 40 West O'Reilly street, announce the birth of a daughter, Michele, on March 21 at the Benedictine Hospital. Mrs. Scherer, who prior to her marriage was a public health nurse attached to the Ulster County Health Department, is the former Marge Fitzgerald.

Ernest Grafe of Bloomington flew to Peoria, Ill., yesterday on business for the Spence Engineering Corp. of Walden.

George Sagar of Creek Locks is the guest this week of Mrs. Lucille Mayo at Clearwater Beach, Fla.

Miss Joan Jablonski has returned from Potsdam where she attended a concert given by her sister, Lorraine, Monday evening at St. Lawrence University.

Miss Violet Schmitz of Washington, D. C., is spending Easter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schmitz, Sr., of St. Remy.

Good Taste Today

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

POSITION OF FORKS

One who seems to be a follower of a quaint "American" custom asks: "Is it ever proper to use the fork with the prongs pointing downward?"

Whenever the knife and fork are held in cutting position (fork left hand, knife right) naturally the prongs are pointing downward and food is correctly lifted to the mouth in this position by the left hand. It is only when the fork is held in the right hand that the tines usually turn upward.

Prefers to Return Gifts

Dear Mrs. Post: Well-meaning friends insist that I keep the wedding presents even though my marriage was called off at the last minute. What can I say so as not to hurt their feelings? I really don't want to keep these things as they are reminders of an unhappy episode which I'd like to forget.

Answer: Your frankness will hardly be rude if you explain that you appreciate their kindness but would rather they put whatever it is to use where it would not be a reminder of unhappiness.

Writing Names in Guest Book

Dear Mrs. Post: How should a guest book in a private house be signed? In a house let's say where the hosts are young and call the guests Mr. and Mrs. or Aunt and Uncle?

Answer: "Aunt Mary and Uncle Jim Brown" would be proper of course. But under ordinary circumstances, they sign their regular signatures. That is, the wife signs Eleanor Brown and the husband signs James Brown. They do not prefix their names with Mr. or Mrs. ever as they would in a public register.

Divorcee Has Name Problem

Dear Mrs. Post: Please explain what a divorcee can do about her name when neither her own maiden family name nor her mother's go well with her ex-husband's given name. I can't possibly call myself Mrs. Greene Meadows or Mrs. Black Meadows. What choice is there besides Mrs. Ruth Meadows?

Answer: Go back through your family history until you find a name that can be used with Meadows.

Why not give yourself an etiquette test? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. She has prepared a leaflet, E-18, which includes questions and answers helpful to everyone. B. & P. Club Meeting Observes Holy Week

Following supper Wednesday night at the Business and Professional Girls Club meeting a Holy Week service was held, conducted by various club members. After the opening hymn had been sung, Mrs. Helen Moore gave a brief outline of the history of religion in the United States and this city.

Miss Bertha Waterman then read the late Edna St. Vincent Millay's prize winning poem, Renascence, and a duet, The Lord Is My Shepherd, was sung by the Misses Ethel Oesterling and Mary Polhemus. The service closed with members singing the triumphant Easter hymn, Christ the Lord Is Risen Today.

During the secular portion of the program members were given three or four articles and told to concoct a hat. Results showed many clever chapeaux, with prizes going to the best. The group closed its program after decorating Easter eggs under the supervision of Miss Lucy Berryann. The eggs will be distributed to locally hospitalized children Easter morning.

Next week's program, it was announced, will be a spring dance revue by Lucille's dance studio. Members are urged to attend, and bring friends. Reservations may be made by calling the Y.W.C.A. by Monday evening. Supper will begin at 6:10 p. m.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell E. Scherer, 40 West O'Reilly street, announce the birth of a daughter, Michele, on March 21 at the Benedictine Hospital. Mrs. Scherer, who prior to her marriage was a public health nurse attached to the Ulster County Health Department, is the former Marge Fitzgerald.

Ernest Grafe of Bloomington flew to Peoria, Ill., yesterday on business for the Spence Engineering Corp. of Walden.

George Sagar of Creek Locks is the guest this week of Mrs. Lucille Mayo at Clearwater Beach, Fla.

Miss Joan Jablonski has returned from Potsdam where she attended a concert given by her sister, Lorraine, Monday evening at St. Lawrence University.

Miss Violet Schmitz of Washington, D. C., is spending Easter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schmitz, Sr., of St. Remy.

POSITION OF FORKS

One who seems to be a follower of a quaint "American" custom asks: "Is it ever proper to use the fork with the prongs pointing downward?"

Whenever the knife and fork are held in cutting position (fork left hand, knife right) naturally the prongs are pointing downward and food is correctly lifted to the mouth in this position by the left hand. It is only when the fork is held in the right hand that the tines usually turn upward.

Prefers to Return Gifts

Dear Mrs. Post: Well-meaning friends insist that I keep the wedding presents even though my marriage was called off at the last minute. What can I say so as not to hurt their feelings? I really don't want to keep these things as they are reminders of an unhappy episode which I'd like to forget.

Answer: Your frankness will hardly be rude if you explain that you appreciate their kindness but would rather they put whatever it is to use where it would not be a reminder of unhappiness.

Writing Names in Guest Book

Dear Mrs. Post: How should a guest book in a private house be signed? In a house let's say where the hosts are young and call the guests Mr. and Mrs. or Aunt and Uncle?

Answer: "Aunt Mary and Uncle Jim Brown" would be proper of course. But under ordinary circumstances, they sign their regular signatures. That is, the wife signs Eleanor Brown and the husband signs James Brown. They do not prefix their names with Mr. or Mrs. ever as they would in a public register.

Divorcee Has Name Problem

Dear Mrs. Post: Please explain what a divorcee can do about her name when neither her own maiden family name nor her mother's go well with her ex-husband's given name. I can't possibly call myself Mrs. Greene Meadows or Mrs. Black Meadows. What choice is there besides Mrs. Ruth Meadows?

Answer: Go back through your family history until you find a name that can be used with Meadows.

Scholarship Presentation

Mrs. Laidlaw Tells Sorosis of Poetic History and Forms

"The Magic of Poetry," a paper prepared and presented by Mrs. Arthur J. Laidlaw, highlighted the last Sorosis meeting Monday, when the group gathered at the home of Mrs. Willard Burke, with Mrs. William J. McVey, president, in the chair. Mrs. Laidlaw's paper reviewed the subject from the days of the Indians' chanting rhythms, with their drum-log accompaniment, to the irregular meters of 20th century free verse.

Although nearly antithetical, the speaker noted, each is a song in words, and each needs to be read with the ear, as well as the eye. When the poet describes what he has heard or seen, she felt, he uses a musical pattern of words. Mrs. Laidlaw also answered the query: "What tools does the poet use to make his pattern?" These she felt were rhyme, meter and form. The speaker then recited familiar poetic excerpts from Shakespeare, Milton and Frost illustrating iambic pentameter, each highly individual, although using the same basic and popular form.

Forms Summarized

The speaker next summarized the basic poetic forms as couplets, Spencerian stanzas, ballads and rondeaux and sonnets.

By treating the poet as a singer, the speaker explained, it becomes evident the lyricists can sing only one tune, while with "one voice" the epic poet can sing several tunes, and the dramatic poet, who has "many tongues" can sing all tunes. Mrs. Laidlaw also called attention to the various figures of speech which enrich poetic expression of thought as similes, metaphors, alliteration, and onomatopoeia.

Modern Poets

Mrs. Laidlaw then discussed briefly the modern school of poets, known as the realistic or imagistic school. "One has to train one's ear," she said, "to enjoy modern verse." Meanwhile, the chief difference between prose, and a poetic outlook, the speaker felt, is that poetry, with its comfort, beauty and inspiration can make the world appear as a different, and shining one. Poems from the Persian, Hebrew, French, German, English, and contemporary writers were also read by Mrs. Laidlaw, who concluded with Shelley's "A Cloud," read to the accompaniment of Debussy's Clouds, and Keat's I Stood Tiptoe Upon a Hill, read to DeBussy's Afternoon of a Faun.

Must Post Bond

Charles St. Cyr, 33, of R.D. 1, New Paltz, was ordered to the county jail by Justice of the Peace I. C. Barnes pending St. Cyr's posting of a surety bond to keep the peace, following his arrest Thursday afternoon on complaint of his wife, Dorothy, who charged him with threatened assault. Arrest was made by Constable Nick Kuerstine of New Paltz. Amount of the peace bond is to be set by the county judge, according to Justice Barnes.

Children of Moose To Sing Cantata On Radio Sunday

It was announced today by Governor Charles J. Turck of Kingston Lodge, 970, that the Moose would observe Easter with a special broadcast Sunday at 9:30 a. m. over WOR, featuring the 125-voice child choir from Mooseheart, Ind.

The program there will emanate from the House of God erected by the Moose so that children in the fraternal home might worship in the faiths of their fathers whether it be Protestant or Catholic.

At Mooseheart, sons and daughters of deceased members of the order are reared and educated and receive religious training from the chaplains who teach them that God and democracy make America a great nation.

During the broadcast Sunday, the children will sing the Easter cantata, Christ the Victor by Charles Francis Lane, and Governor Turck urges that all tune in to hear them, especially members of the Moose.

At the House of God there are two chapels one for Protestants and the other for Catholics. In the Catholic chapel there are seven stained glass windows, each depicting one of the seven sacraments. The Protestant chapel has eight artistic windows, each protraying one of the eight beatitudes.

The church proper has been designed for use by all faiths for their respective services of worship.

There is no attempt at Mooseheart to engage in common worship or seek a common faith, said one of the chaplain. "That is why the House of God presents visible evidence of the tolerance which true religion implies," he added. "It is the most dramatic symbolization of the fact that we are all children of one God. We do not have to think alike, nor act alike. We do not have to compromise our convictions because we are charitable toward the convictions of others."

Won't Supply Reds

Tokyo, March 23 (AP)—The British crew of a merchant ship that won praise for its part in the Hungnam evacuation today refused to sail to Dairen, Communist China. The men thus risked imprisonment and other penalties for defying orders. "We have a close feeling for the United Nations cause through our relationship with the men fighting in Korea," said Second Electrician D. G. Macnaughton, spokesman for the crew of the Empire Marshal. "We voted unanimously—the 58 of us—not to help the Communists by taking the vessel into a Red port where there is no British representation at present."

If not accompanied by a gale, zero temperatures, and drifting powdery snow, a storm is not a blizzard.

Y-Deal Club Has Party and Shower

The Y-Deal Club celebrated St. Patrick's Day Tuesday evening with a combination party and shower. The shower was given in honor of club member Miss Doris Kipp of 125 Franklin street, who will be married Easter Sunday at St. Peter's Church. Miss Kipp received many gifts arranged in a decorated yellow and lavender basket.

After Miss Kipp had opened her gifts, refreshments were served, and appropriate "Irish Day" games were played. Members also held a brief business meeting to plan their April activities.

The group's next meeting will be Tuesday, March 27, when the table tennis tournament will be continued.

There is no attempt at Mooseheart to engage in common worship or seek a common faith, said one of the chaplain. "That is why the House of God presents visible evidence of the tolerance which true religion implies," he added. "It is the most dramatic symbolization of the fact that we are all children of one God. We do not have to think alike, nor act alike. We do not have to compromise our convictions because we are charitable toward the convictions of others."

Won't Supply Reds

Tokyo, March 23 (AP)—The British crew of a merchant ship that won praise for its part in the Hungnam evacuation today refused to sail to Dairen, Communist China. The men thus risked imprisonment and other penalties for defying orders. "We have a close feeling for the United Nations cause through our relationship with the men fighting in Korea," said Second Electrician D. G. Macnaughton, spokesman for the crew of the Empire Marshal. "We voted unanimously—the 58 of us—not to help the Communists by taking the vessel into a Red port where there is no British representation at present."

If not accompanied by a gale, zero temperatures, and drifting powdery snow, a storm is not a blizzard.

Y-Deal Club Has Party and Shower

The Y-Deal Club celebrated St. Patrick's Day Tuesday evening with a combination party and shower. The shower was given in honor of club member Miss Doris Kipp of 125 Franklin street, who will be married Easter Sunday at St. Peter's Church. Miss Kipp received many gifts arranged in a decorated yellow and lavender basket.

After Miss Kipp had opened her gifts, refreshments were served, and appropriate "Irish Day" games were played. Members also held a brief business meeting to plan their April activities.

The group's next meeting will be Tuesday, March 27, when the table tennis tournament will be continued.

Banquet Speaker

KEN NORTON

Ken Norton, basketball coach and director of athletics at Manhattan University, will be the principal speaker at the first annual banquet of the Church Basketball League on Wednesday, March 28, at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

Every player in the Church League will be the guest of Harry L. Edson, the one-man committee in charge of raising funds for the event.

A star player under Claire Bee at Long Island University, Norton came to Manhattan College in 1946 as head basketball coach. He enjoyed five successful years with the Jaspers and landed them in the National Invitation Tournament in 1949.

First In Scandal

Norton's name popped up in the headlines, of course, when the first phase of the current intercollegiate basketball scandal, broke into print. Two former Manhattan co-captains—Big Hank Poppe and Jim Byrnes were arrested on charges of trying to induce Junius Kellog, Manhattan's center, to throw a game. Investigation of the Manhattan case spread and eventually involved stars from Long Island U. and City College of New York.

This past season has been one of Norton's most successful, with 17 wins and 6 defeats. The Jaspers lost to Fordham by 10 points, dropped one-point decisions to Canisius, Springfield and La Salle and by five points to St. John's.

Manhattan trounced N.Y.U., DePaul (the game which Poppe attempted to fix), Texas, Dartmouth and San Jose State. Norton was forced to decline all tournament invitations when he lost his star center, Kellogg, right after the regular season was completed.

The banquet is open to all sports fans in the city. Reservations can be made with Andy Murphy or Harry Edson at the Recreation department or by calling 1682.

Fights Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

West Palm Beach, Fla.—Norman Thompson, 144½, Paterson, N. J., stopped Herb Quintero, 147, New Orleans, in 1:43 of fourth (10).

Fall River, Mass.—George Araujo, 133, Providence, R. I., knocked out Hermie Freeman, 136, Wagle Lake, Me., in fifth (10).

Brooklyn (Eastern Parkway)—Orlando Zulueta, 136½, Havana, Cuba, outpointed Jimmy Richmond, 140, Baltimore (8).

New Manager To Set Up Office

The formal signing of Hank Camelli, former Pittsburgh and Boston National League catcher, as 1951 manager of Kingston's Colonial League franchise, will take place on Monday, the Kingston Baseball Club, Inc. announced this morning.

Camelli is expected to spend several days in the city next week, setting up an office and getting down to the serious business of assembling a ball club for the Colonials.

The big curly-headed Wellesley, Mass., receiver notified Ad Jones yesterday that he has already interviewed several likely prospects for the club and will be in a position to announce names here next week.

Camelli was interviewed by a local committee several days ago and agreed on terms for the 1951 season. He turned down a bid from a Class A League in order to accept the Colonial proposal. He spent last season in the Class A Central League.

A minor league catcher of note, Camelli caught wartime big league baseball at Pittsburgh and Boston.

May Play Albany

An exhibition practice game with the Albany Senators of the Eastern League has been tentatively scheduled for Friday, April 20, at municipal stadium.

It has yet to be decided whether the game will be played at night or as a daylight affair.

Local officials said today that they had advertised for players in the "Sporting News," the baseball bible.

"We hope we don't get the response one minor league club experienced after an ad in the Sporting News," a Colonial spokesman said today, "but we're hoping to come up with a few experienced men." A mid-western minor league operator told the Associated Press recently that he had received 700 replies to an ad in the baseball trade magazine.

Levy and Bahl Top AZA Scorers

Harry Levy and Miles Bahl were the individual scoring leaders for the A.Z.A. basketball quintet, with 220 and 203 points respectively, according to statistics released today.

Levy hit for 220 points in 18 games for a 12.2 average for the sectional A.Z.A. champions of New York state. Bahl, with 203 points in 21 contests, had a 9.7 average.

Levy's 101 field goals were tops in that department, while Phil Mandel, who scored 136 points, led in foul conversions with 26.

Other high scorers were Hermin Perlowin 96; Donald Greenberg 88; and Robbie Greenberg 52.

A.Z.A. rolled up 872 points for a 41.5 game average, while winning 12 and losing nine. The opposition averaged 39.9 points per set.

Davis 2-1 Choice Over Eddie Giosa

New York, March 23 (AP)—John L. Davis of Oakland, Calif., makes his eastern debut tonight against veteran Eddie Giosa of Philadelphia in Madison Square Garden.

Davis, the California lightweight champ, rates No. 2 in the division, and holds victories over such luminaries as Bernie Docusen, Freddie Dawson, Art Aragon, Carlos Chavez and Gene Burton. He lost a split decision to Ike Williams in Seattle a year ago.

The stocky little Philadelphian is a clever boxer but he doesn't figure to be able to hold off the west coast busy bee who is a 2-1 favorite.

Training Camp News in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Sacramento, Calif., March 23 (AP)—A pinched nerve in the elbow of his pitching arm is bothering Allie Reynolds, veteran New York Yankees righthander.

Reynolds said today the ailment is becoming more painful daily. Dr. Sidney Gaynor, team physician, said Reynolds also may have some bone chips in his elbow. No X-rays are planned immediately.

Meanwhile, the world champions are getting some good pitching from rookie righthander Tom Morgan, who went five innings yesterday without allowing a hit as the Yanks beat Sacramento, 11-0. The 20-year-old boy from El Monte, Calif., now has a string of 13 scoreless innings.

One On Newhouser

Lakeland, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Hal Newhouser tells this one on himself.

An elderly feminine fan buttonholed him in the hotel lobby for his autograph. She gushed about how Hal was her "favorite pitcher" and she'd come a long way to see him.

So the star Detroit Tiger southpaw obliged immediately and wrote his name in her book.

"My goodness, Mr. Newhouser," she said, "I never knew you were left-handed."

Willams Ready

Sarasota, Fla., March 23 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox will rest veterans Lou Boudreau and Bobby Doerr today and use a second base combination up from Louisville against the Cincinnati Reds.

Al Richter will be at shortstop and Mel Hoderlein at second as Bill Wight and Walt Masterson face the Reds.

Ted Williams will return to the lineup following two days off. Junior Stephens worked out yesterday for the first time since he sprained his ankle a week ago. He thinks he'll be ready to play in another week.

Brooks Trip Phils

Miami, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Inept fielding and weak hitting by the Philadelphia Phillies helped the Brooklyn Dodgers to an 8-3 victory last night in the teams' second and final game of their exhibition series.

Sloppy Phil fielding and Jackie Robinson's home run gave the Dodgers their first three runs. Further errors handed the Brooks their fourth tally.

The 1950 National League champions got only five hits.

Babe's Son Is Okay

San Bernardino, Calif., March 23 (AP)—Young Don Herman son of Pittsburgh Pirate coach Babe Herman, is the most sought after ball player in California colleges.

He has been scouted by the New York Yankees, Detroit Tigers, Chicago White Sox and the Boston Red Sox.

Latest to watch the 20-year-old UCLA junior was Branch Rickey, general manager of the Bucs.

Hard To Find

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Mr. Shortstop is having trouble in the replacement department. He can't find anyone to fill his shoes.

Mr. Shortstop, of course, is Marty Marion, new manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. He has tried several men at his old spot.

Solly Hemus will be next to take a crack at shortstop. He's been playing second base in the absence of late-starting Red Schoendienst. Hemus, if he makes good, may fill in at third base, too.

Where's Spider?

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 23 (AP)—The New York Giants have a missing player mystery on their hands.

They can't find Spider Jorgensen, the bench-strength infielder-outfielder they bought from Minneapolis. Spider, formerly with Brooklyn, hasn't signed with nor reported to the Millers. Messages sent to him at El Paso, Tex., have been returned, saying the player has moved and his address is unknown.

The Giants continue to have "one-run" trouble. They lost their fourth game of the exhibition grind—third by one run—yesterday when the St. Louis Cardinals took them here 2-1.

Van Cuyk Impresses

Miami, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Chris Van Cuyk, the big lefthander, looks like a sure starter for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

One of the most impressive pitchers in the Brooklyn camp, the six-foot-six, 215-pound Fort Worth alumnus has pitched 12 consecutive scoreless innings and allowed only one run in 15½ innings.

Laurel Opening

Laurel, Md., March 23 (AP)—They're off and running at Laurel today to start 55 days of horse racing at Maryland's three major tracks. This spring there is hope that Maryland can stop backsliding from its traditionally high place in the turf world.

LOCKMAN OUT STRETCHING DOUBLE

Whitey Lockman, New York Giants outfielder, is out at third as he tries to stretch his double in the ninth inning of the exhibition game with the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg, Fla. Don Richmond, Cards third baseman, waits to make the tag after taking shortstop Dick Cole's relay as Umpire Augie Donatelli runs in to call the play. The Cards won, 2-1. (AP Wirephoto)

Illinois and Kentucky Eastern NCAA Finalists Saturday at Garden

St. John's, NC State Late Rally Victims

New York, March 23 (AP)—Spirited, hard-driving Illinois is next in line to try to waylay heavily-favored Kentucky in the NCAA basketball championships, and already Adolph Rupp is losing sleep over it.

"I'm worried," the veteran Kentucky coach said today. "Illinois looks mighty good and my boys are tired. This big Bob Peterson of theirs is liable to give our Spivey a lot of trouble."

Illinois and Kentucky clash Saturday at Madison Square Garden in the eastern finals, the winner qualifying to meet the western victor for the championship at Minneapolis next Tuesday. The western finalists will be determined tonight at Kansas City.

Both eastern finalists produced a lot of late "kick" last night to subdue stubborn adversaries before 14,214 at the Garden.

The Wildcats from Lexington, Ky., held to even terms for 35 minutes, staged a devastating drive in the last five minutes to stun St. John's of Brooklyn, 59-43.

Illini Impressive

Illinois' underrated Big Ten champions also uncorked a stirring finish to repel North Carolina State, the Southern Conference champion playing without three of its veteran stars, 84-70. The Illini looked as if they could run all night.

Rupp let it be known that his greatest concern was how Kentucky's seven-foot Bill Spivey would fare with Peterson, the husky who holds down the pivot job for the Illini.

At six-eight, Peterson is four inches shorter than Spivey but he's heavier, 235 pounds to 215, and he's very agile for a big man.

At Kansas City, Oklahoma A. and M., second ranked nationally, had more trouble than anticipated with little Montana State, 50-46, and Washington's Pacific Coast champions had less than expected with Texas A. and M., beating the southwest titlists, 62-40.

Tonight the Aggies and Washington play in one of the semi-final western games. Kansas State, the high-scoring tournament favorite, meets Brigham Young, National Invitation Tournament winner, in the other game, opening the program at 9 p. m. (EST). The western finals also are Saturday.

Ski Trails

Albany, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—Ski conditions in New York state reported yesterday to the State Department of Commerce:

Belleayre Mountain—6 powder on 5-15 old, good.

Downsville—4-5 powder on 2-5 old, fair to good.

East Berne—5 powder, fair.

Highmount—6 powder on 4-8 old, fair to good.

Lake Placid—2 fluffy on 8 old, good.

People Less Happy

Humboldt, Tenn., (AP) — Mrs. Nancy Catherine Shumate, who has seen a lot of people in her 105 years, says folks are not as happy now as they used to be. "People have changed so much they're mighty near like butterflies now," she says. "People are so proud they can't go to church unless they're in silk. And pride has taken the religion out of them."

Addict Limits Holdup To Price of Heroin

New York, March 23 (AP)—A jittery youth, pretending to have a gun in his pocket, walked up to a man on a Bronx street and said:

"I'm a dope addict. I'm sick, and I need money fast for some dope. Give me your money."

The bewildered man handed over a wallet containing $51.

The youth took out $4—"all I needed for a quick packet of dope," he explained later.

He handed back the wallet with $47, dismissed the owner, and set out to get his heroin.

The story was volunteered early today after the youth was arrested for a $5 holdup in a tailor shop, assistant Bronx District Attorney David S. Blatt said.

The youth, Elliot Cola, 17, of (1118 Forest avenue) the Bronx, was booked by police on charges of armed robbery and narcotics violation.

Police said Cola admitted holding up the tailor, Howard Dane, of (769 East 168th street) the Bronx, last Wednesday night.

The week-old $4 street holdup that Cola related had not been reported, so far as could be learned immediately. Cola was quoted as saying he had been "in a daze" and could not remember where it occurred.

Bowling

Jack Hartman cracked 778; Dick Gruver, the city ed, set his all-time personal high of 688; Irwin Thomas lost a "700" on a stubborn 10-pin and Andy Campbell rolled the first "600" of his career 638—in a sensational scoring spree by the Freeman League keglers last night at the Bowlatorium. Bob Steeger, more honest, less pin-happy, only rolled 321.

Just for the sake of the record, all those things didn't happen, but that's the way the gang was dreaming in the office this morning, following last night's open date on the schedule.

Ferraro Major League keglers went on another rampage last night, piling up a dozen "600" triples; six team singles over 1000 and a 3030 triple by the Amocos.

Harold Broskie flirted with another "700" after a modest 201 opener, firing games of 235 and 244 for a 680 aggregate. Buster Ferraro and Bill Kuehn achieved the hat trick with 209-224-202-635 and 221-203-203-627 respectively, while Larry Weishaupt accounted for 202-247-626.

Also on the honor roll were Frank Leskie with 208-207-204-618; Charlie Manfro 234-617; Phil Corrado 215-211-616; Tom Amato 201-237-610; George Magley 212-215-605; John MacLellan 225-602; Ken Williams 216-600; Harry Wilber 220-600; Marty Kellenberger 243-585; Cosmos Costello 223-207-580 and Herb Sleight 200-200-580.

Amocos hit for 3030 with 945, 1084 and 1001. Hymes Shoes blasted 1000; Jones Dairy 1006; Ten Grand 1021-1046-2981.

Now that Evelyn Gross has transferred her talents to the IBM in Poughkeepsie, the Matinee Club has lost one of its regular weekly "500" customers. In yesterday's session, Eleanor Singer grabbed top honors with 470. Evelyn Francis was runnerup with 465; Jessie Burnett had 463; Pat Pearson 459 and Gertrude Reis 457.

Bill Johnson's 558, with 217-163-178, was the high series in the Colonial Men's League, eight pins better than Ed Propp who shot the high single of 235. Murray Greene had 213-539; George Uhl 211-533; Eddie Auclair 203-528; Phil Levy 522; Al Mazzucca 515; Ed Koskie 513; Jack Blinder 512.

Betty Monashefsky's 472 series was the best individual effort in the Sisterhood League. She hit solos of 165, 149, 158. Blanche Moak was runnerup with 469; Bea Arlensky shot 468; E. Kantrowitz 462; M. Propp 443; Rosalie Eckdish 436; S. Jacobs 433 and S. Green 408.

Russano Leads Silver Palace

Frank Russano, veteran Silver Palace League kegler, was high average man in his league this season with a 184.62 for 72 games, according to final averages released today by John Thompson, secretary.

Russano had a point margin over Herman Seelbach and Elwood Robinson, who finished in a flat-footed tie with 183.95. Clarence Herdman posted 181.47 and Joe Mannello 180 to round out the top five.

Also in the first ten were Mitzie Arlensky, 178.22; Ralph Mayone, 178.50; Bud Evans, 178.46; Eddie Schupp, 178.20; and Jack Martin, 177.85.

Sheldon Levy rolled high single of 268 to win the K.B.A. high single medal and Clarence Herdman toppled the triple department with 685. Team records were Slover-Jansen-Schline's 1024 and Berardi Contractors' 2911.

Smith's Truck Equipment won the league championship by a one-game margin over Progress Clothes, with 49 wins and 35 losses.

Swim Captain

Worcester, Mass., March 23 (AP)—Bob Dieck, a New Rochelle, N. Y., junior, has been elected captain of the 1951-52 Holy Cross swimming team. He was the choice yesterday of the 16 lettermen from a squad which won seven and lost three meets this season and copped the Worcester city championship for the second straight year.

Banquet Speaker

KEN NORTON

Ken Norton, basketball coach and director of athletics at Manhattan University, will be the principal speaker at the first annual banquet of the Church Basketball League on Wednesday, March 28, at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

Every player in the Church League will be the guest of Harry L. Edson, the one-man committee in charge of raising funds for the event.

A star player under Claire Bee at Long Island University, Norton came to Manhattan College in 1946 as head basketball coach. He enjoyed five successful years with the Jaspers and landed them in the National Invitation Tournament in 1949.

First In Scandal

Norton's name popped up in the headlines, of course, when the first phase of the current intercollegiate basketball scandal, broke into print. Two former Manhattan co-captains—Big Hank Poppe and Jim Byrnes were arrested on charges of trying to induce Junius Kellog, Manhattan's center, to throw a game. Investigation of the Manhattan case spread and eventually involved stars from Long Island U. and City College of New York.

This past season has been one of Norton's most successful, with 17 wins and 6 defeats. The Jaspers lost to Fordham by 10 points, dropped one-point decisions to Canisius, Springfield and La Salle and by five points to St. John's.

Manhattan trounced N.Y.U., DePaul (the game which Poppe attempted to fix), Texas, Dartmouth and San Jose State. Norton was forced to decline all tournament invitations when he lost his star center, Kellogg, right after the regular season was completed.

The banquet is open to all sports fans in the city. Reservations can be made with Andy Murphy or Harry Edson at the Recreation department or by calling 1682.

Fights Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

West Palm Beach, Fla.—Norman Thompson, 144½, Paterson, N. J., stopped Herb Quintero, 147, New Orleans, in 1:43 of fourth (10).

Fall River, Mass.—George Araujo, 133, Providence, R. I., knocked out Hermie Freeman, 136, Wagle Lake, Me., in fifth (10).

Brooklyn (Eastern Parkway)—Orlando Zulueta, 136½, Havana, Cuba, outpointed Jimmy Richmond, 140, Baltimore (8).

New Manager To Set Up Office

The formal signing of Hank Camelli, former Pittsburgh and Boston National League catcher, as 1951 manager of Kingston's Colonial League franchise, will take place on Monday, the Kingston Baseball Club, Inc. announced this morning.

Camelli is expected to spend several days in the city next week, setting up an office and getting down to the serious business of assembling a ball club for the Colonials.

The big curly-headed Wellesley, Mass., receiver notified Ad Jones yesterday that he has already interviewed several likely prospects for the club and will be in a position to announce names here next week.

Camelli was interviewed by a local committee several days ago and agreed on terms for the 1951 season. He turned down a bid from a Class A League in order to accept the Colonial proposal. He spent last season in the Class A Central League.

A minor league catcher of note, Camelli caught wartime big league baseball at Pittsburgh and Boston.

May Play Albany

An exhibition practice game with the Albany Senators of the Eastern League has been tentatively scheduled for Friday, April 20, at municipal stadium.

It has yet to be decided whether the game will be played at night or as a daylight affair.

Local officials said today that they had advertised for players in the "Sporting News," the baseball bible.

"We hope we don't get the response one minor league club experienced after an ad in the Sporting News," a Colonial spokesman said today, "but we're hoping to come up with a few experienced men." A mid-western minor league operator told the Associated Press recently that he had received 700 replies to an ad in the baseball trade magazine.

Levy and Bahl Top AZA Scorers

Harry Levy and Miles Bahl were the individual scoring leaders for the A.Z.A. basketball quintet, with 220 and 203 points respectively, according to statistics released today.

Levy hit for 220 points in 18 games for a 12.2 average for the sectional A.Z.A. champions of New York state. Bahl, with 203 points in 21 contests, had a 9.7 average.

Levy's 101 field goals were tops in that department, while Phil Mandel, who scored 136 points, led in foul conversions with 26.

Other high scorers were Hermin Perlowin 96; Donald Greenberg 88; and Robbie Greenberg 52.

Davis 2-1 Choice Over Eddie Giosa

New York, March 23 (AP)—John L. Davis of Oakland, Calif., makes his eastern debut tonight against veteran Eddie Giosa of Philadelphia in Madison Square Garden.

Davis, the California lightweight champ, rates No. 2 in the division, and holds victories over such luminaries as Bernie Docusen, Freddie Dawson, Art Aragon, Carlos Chavez and Gene Burton. He lost a split decision to Ike Williams in Seattle a year ago.

The stocky little Philadelphian is a clever boxer but he doesn't figure to be able to hold off the west coast busy bee who is a 2-1 favorite.

(By The Associated Press)

Sacramento, Calif., March 23 (AP)—A pinched nerve in the elbow of his pitching arm is bothering Allie Reynolds, veteran New York Yankees righthander.

Reynolds said today the ailment is becoming more painful daily. Dr. Sidney Gaynor, team physician, said Reynolds also may have some bone chips in his elbow. No X-rays are planned immediately.

Meanwhile, the world champions are getting some good pitching from rookie righthander Tom Morgan, who went five innings yesterday without allowing a hit as the Yanks beat Sacramento, 11-0. The 20-year-old boy from El Monte, Calif., now has a string of 13 scoreless innings.

One On Newhouser

Lakeland, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Hal Newhouser tells this one on himself.

An elderly feminine fan buttonholed him in the hotel lobby for his autograph. She gushed about how Hal was her "favorite pitcher" and she'd come a long way to see him.

So the star Detroit Tiger southpaw obliged immediately and wrote his name in her book.

"My goodness, Mr. Newhouser," she said, "I never knew you were left-handed."

Willams Ready

Sarasota, Fla., March 23 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox will rest veterans Lou Boudreau and Bobby Doerr today and use a second base combination up from Louisville against the Cincinnati Reds.

Al Richter will be at shortstop and Mel Hoderlein at second as Bill Wight and Walt Masterson face the Reds.

Ted Williams will return to the lineup following two days off. Junior Stephens worked out yesterday for the first time since he sprained his ankle a week ago. He thinks he'll be ready to play in another week.

Brooks Trip Phils

Miami, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Inept fielding and weak hitting by the Philadelphia Phillies helped the Brooklyn Dodgers to an 8-3 victory last night in the teams' second and final game of their exhibition series.

Sloppy Phil fielding and Jackie Robinson's home run gave the Dodgers their first three runs. Further errors handed the Brooks their fourth tally.

The 1950 National League champions got only five hits.

Babe's Son Is Okay

He has been scouted by the New York Yankees, Detroit Tigers, Chicago White Sox and the Boston Red Sox.

Latest to watch the 20-year-old UCLA junior was Branch Rickey, general manager of the Bucs.

Hard To Find

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Mr. Shortstop is having trouble in the replacement department. He can't find anyone to fill his shoes.

Mr. Shortstop, of course, is Marty Marion, new manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. He has tried several men at his old spot.

Solly Hemus will be next to take a crack at shortstop. He's been playing second base in the absence of late-starting Red Schoendienst. Hemus, if he makes good, may fill in at third base, too.

Where's Spider?

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 23 (AP)—The New York Giants have a missing player mystery on their hands.

They can't find Spider Jorgensen, the bench-strength infielder-outfielder they bought from Minneapolis. Spider, formerly with Brooklyn, hasn't signed with nor reported to the Millers. Messages sent to him at El Paso, Tex., have been returned, saying the player has moved and his address is unknown.

The Giants continue to have "one-run" trouble. They lost their fourth game of the exhibition grind—third by one run—yesterday when the St. Louis Cardinals took them here 2-1.

Van Cuyk Impresses

Miami, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Chris Van Cuyk, the big lefthander, looks like a sure starter for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

One of the most impressive pitchers in the Brooklyn camp, the six-foot-six, 215-pound Fort Worth alumnus has pitched 12 consecutive scoreless innings and allowed only one run in 15⅓ innings.

Laurel Opening

Laurel, Md., March 23 (AP)—They're off and running at Laurel today to start 55 days of horse racing at Maryland's three major tracks. This spring there is hope that Maryland can stop backsliding from its traditionally high place in the turf world.

LOCKMAN OUT STRETCHING DOUBLE

Whitey Lockman, New York Giants outfielder, is out at third as he tries to stretch his double in the ninth inning of the exhibition game with the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg, Fla. Don Richmond, Cards third baseman, waits to make the tag after taking shortstop Dick Cole's relay as Umpire Augie Donatelli runs in to call the play. The Cards won, 2-1. (AP Wirephoto)

Illinois and Kentucky Eastern NCAA Finalists Saturday at Garden

St. John's, NC State Late Rally Victims

New York, March 23 (AP)—Spirited, hard-driving Illinois is next in line to try to waylay heavily-favored Kentucky in the NCAA basketball championships, and already Adolph Rupp is losing sleep over it.

"I'm worried," the veteran Kentucky coach said today. "Illinois looks mighty good and my boys are tired. This big Bob Peterson of theirs is liable to give our Spivey a lot of trouble."

Illinois and Kentucky clash Saturday at Madison Square Garden in the eastern finals, the winner qualifying to meet the western victor for the championship at Minneapolis next Tuesday. The western finalists will be determined tonight at Kansas City.

Both eastern finalists produced a lot of late "kick" last night to subdue stubborn adversaries before 14,214 at the Garden.

The Wildcats from Lexington, Ky., held to even terms for 35 minutes, staged a devastating drive in the last five minutes to stun St. John's of Brooklyn, 59-43.

Illini Impressive

Illinois' underrated Big Ten champions also uncorked a stirring finish to repel North Carolina State, the Southern Conference champion playing without three of its veteran stars, 84-70. The Illini looked as if they could run all night.

Rupp let it be known that his greatest concern was how Kentucky's seven-foot Bill Spivey would fare with Peterson, the husky who holds down the pivot job for the Illini.

At six-eight, Peterson is four inches shorter than Spivey but he's heavier, 235 pounds to 215, and he's very agile for a big man.

At Kansas City, Oklahoma A. and M., second ranked nationally, had more trouble than anticipated with little Montana State, 50-46, and Washington's Pacific Coast champions had less than expected with Texas A. and M., beating the southwest titlists, 62-40.

Tonight the Aggies and Washington play in one of the semi-final western games. Kansas State, the high-scoring tournament favorite, meets Brigham Young, National Invitation Tournament winner, in the other game, opening the program at 9 p. m. (EST). The western finals also are Saturday.

Ski Trails

Albany, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—Ski conditions in New York state reported yesterday to the State Department of Commerce:

Belleayre Mountain—6 powder on 5-15 old, good.

Downsville—4-5 powder on 2-5 old, fair to good.

East Berne—5 powder, fair.

Highmount—6 powder on 4-8 old, fair to good.

Lake Placid—2 fluffy on 8 old, good.

People Less Happy

Humboldt, Tenn., (AP) — Mrs. Nancy Catherine Shumate, who has seen a lot of people in her 105 years, says folks are not as happy now as they used to be. "People have changed so much they're mighty near like butterflies now," she says. "People are so proud they can't go to church unless they're in silk. And pride has taken the religion out of them."

Addict Limits Holdup To Price of Heroin

New York, March 23 (AP)—A jittery youth, pretending to have a gun in his pocket, walked up to a man on a Bronx street and said:

"I'm a dope addict. I'm sick, and I need money fast for some dope. Give me your money."

The bewildered man handed over a wallet containing $51.

The youth took out $4—"all I needed for a quick packet of dope," he explained later.

He handed back the wallet with $47, dismissed the owner, and set out to get his heroin.

The story was volunteered early today after the youth was arrested for a $5 holdup in a tailor shop, assistant Bronx District Attorney David S. Blatt said.

The youth, Elliot Cola, 17, of (1118 Forest avenue) the Bronx, was booked by police on charges of armed robbery and narcotics violation.

Police said Cola admitted holding up the tailor, Howard Dane, of (769 East 168th street) the Bronx, last Wednesday night.

The week-old $4 street holdup that Cola related had not been reported, so far as could be learned immediately. Cola was quoted as saying he had been "in a daze" and could not remember where it occurred.

Bowling

Jack Hartman cracked 778; Dick Gruver, the city ed, set his all-time personal high of 688; Irwin Thomas lost a "700" on a stubborn 10-pin and Andy Campbell rolled the first "600" of his career 638—in a sensational scoring spree by the Freeman League keglers last night at the Bowlatorium. Bob Steeger, more honest, less pin-happy, only rolled 321.

Just for the sake of the record, all those things didn't happen, but that's the way the gang was dreaming in the office this morning, following last night's open date on the schedule.

Ferraro Major League keglers went on another rampage last night, piling up a dozen "600" triples; six team singles over 1000 and a 3030 triple by the Amocos.

Harold Broskie flirted with another "700" after a modest 201 opener, firing games of 235 and 244 for a 680 aggregate. Buster Ferraro and Bill Kuehn achieved the hat trick with 209-224-202-635 and 221-203-203-627 respectively, while Larry Weishaupt accounted for 202-247-626.

Also on the honor roll were Frank Leskie with 208-207-204-618; Charlie Manfro 234-617; Phil Corrado 215-211-616; Tom Amato 201-237-610; George Magley 212-215-605; John MacLellan 225-602; Ken Williams 216-600; Harry Wilber 220-600; Marty Kellenberger 243-585; Cosmos Costello 223-207-580 and Herb Sleight 200-200-580.

Amocos hit for 3030 with 945, 1084 and 1001. Hymes Shoes blasted 1000; Jones Dairy 1006; Ten Grand 1021-1046-2981.

Now that Evelyn Gross has transferred her talents to the IBM in Poughkeepsie, the Matinee Club has lost one of its regular weekly "500" customers. In yesterday's session, Eleanor Singer grabbed top honors with 470. Evelyn Francis was runnerup with 465; Jessie Burnett had 463; Pat Pearson 459 and Gertrude Reis 457.

Bill Johnson's 558, with 217-163-178, was the high series in the Colonial Men's League, eight pins better than Ed Propp who shot the high single of 235. Murray Greene had 213-539; George Uhl 211-533; Eddie Auclair 203-528; Phil Levy 522; Al Mazzucca 515; Ed Koskie 513; Jack Blinder 512.

Betty Monashefsky's 472 series was the best individual effort in the Sisterhood League. She hit solos of 165, 149, 158. Blanche Moak was runnerup with 469; Bea Arlensky shot 468; E. Kantrowitz 462; M. Propp 443; Rosalie Eckdish 436; S. Jacobs 433 and S. Green 408.

Russano Leads Silver Palace

Frank Russano, veteran Silver Palace League kegler, was high average man in his league this season with a 184.62 for 72 games, according to final averages released today by John Thompson, secretary.

Russano had a point margin over Herman Seelbach and Elwood Robinson, who finished in a flat-footed tie with 183.95. Clarence Herdman posted 181.47 and Joe Mannello 180 to round out the top five.

Also in the first ten were Mitzie Arlensky, 178.22; Ralph Mayone, 178.50; Bud Evans, 178.46; Eddie Schupp, 178.20; and Jack Martin, 177.85.

Sheldon Levy rolled high single of 268 to win the K.B.A. high single medal and Clarence Herdman toppled the triple department with 685. Team records were Slover-Jansen-Schline's 1024 and Berardi Contractors' 2911.

Smith's Truck Equipment won the league championship by a one-game margin over Progress Clothes, with 49 wins and 35 losses.

Swim Captain

Worcester, Mass., March 23 (AP)—Bob Dieck, a New Rochelle, N. Y., junior, has been elected captain of the 1951-52 Holy Cross swimming team. He was the choice yesterday of the 16 lettermen from a squad which won seven and lost three meets this season and copped the Worcester city championship for the second straight year.

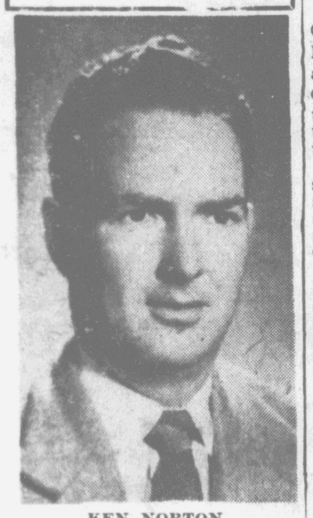
Banquet Speaker



KEN NORTON

Ken Norton, basketball coach and director of athletics at Manhattan University, will be the principal speaker at the first annual banquet of the Church Basketball League on Wednesday, March 28, at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

Every player in the Church League will be the guest of Harry L. Edson, the one-man committee in charge of raising funds for the event.

A star player under Claire Bee at Long Island University, Norton came to Manhattan College in 1946 as head basketball coach. He enjoyed five successful years with the Jaspers and landed them in the National Invitation Tournament in 1949.

First In Scandal

Norton's name popped up in the headlines, of course, when the first phase of the current intercollegiate basketball scandal, broke into print. Two former Manhattan co-captains—Big Hank Poppe and Jim Byrnes were arrested on charges of trying to induce Junius Kellog, Manhattan's center, to throw a game. Investigation of the Manhattan case spread and eventually involved stars from Long Island U. and City College of New York.

This past season has been one of Norton's most successful, with 17 wins and 6 defeats. The Jaspers lost to Fordham by 10 points, dropped one-point decisions to Canisius, Springfield and La Salle and by five points to St. John's.

Manhattan trounced N.Y.U., DePaul (the game which Poppe attempted to fix), Texas, Dartmouth and San Jose State. Norton was forced to decline all tournament invitations when he lost his star center, Kellogg, right after the regular season was completed.

The banquet is open to all sports fans in the city. Reservations can be made with Andy Murphy or Harry Edson at the Recreation department or by calling 1682.

New Manager To Set Up Office

The formal signing of Hank Camelli, former Pittsburgh and Boston National League catcher, as 1951 manager of Kingston's Colonial League franchise, will take place on Monday, the Kingston Baseball Club, Inc. announced this morning.

Camelli is expected to spend several days in the city next week, setting up an office and getting down to the serious business of assembling a ball club for the Colonials.

The big curly-headed Wellesley, Mass., receiver notified Ad Jones yesterday that he has already interviewed several likely prospects for the club and will be in a position to announce names here next week.

Camelli was interviewed by a local committee several days ago and agreed on terms for the 1951 season. He turned down a bid from a Class A League in order to accept the Colonial proposal. He spent last season in the Class A Central League.

A minor league catcher of note, Camelli caught wartime big league baseball at Pittsburgh and Boston.

May Play Albany

An exhibition practice game with the Albany Senators of the Eastern League has been tentatively scheduled for Friday, April 20, at municipal stadium.

It has yet to be decided whether the game will be played at night or as a daylight affair.

Local officials said today that they had advertised for players in the "Sporting News," the baseball bible.

"We hope we don't get the response one minor league club experienced after an ad in the Sporting News," a Colonial spokesman said today, "but we're hoping to come up with a few experienced men." A mid-western minor league operator told the Associated Press recently that he had received 700 replies to an ad in the baseball trade magazine.

Brooklyn (Eastern Parkway)—Orlando Zulueta, 136½, Havana, Cuba, outpointed Jimmy Richmond, 140, Baltimore (8).

Levy and Bahl Top AZA Scorers

Harry Levy and Miles Bahl were the individual scoring leaders for the A.Z.A. basketball quintet, with 220 and 203 points respectively, according to statistics released today.

Levy hit for 220 points in 18 games for a 12.2 average for the sectional A.Z.A. champions of New York state. Bahl, with 203 points in 21 contests, had a 9.7 average.

Levy's 101 field goals were tops in that department, while Phil Mandel, who scored 136 points, led in foul conversions with 26.

Other high scorers were Hermin Perlowin 96; Donald Greenberg 88; and Robbie Greenberg 52.

Davis 2-1 Choice Over Eddie Giosa

Davis, the California lightweight champ, rates No. 2 in the division, and holds victories over such luminaries as Bernie Docusen, Freddie Dawson, Art Aragon, Carlos Chavez and Gene Burton. He lost a split decision to Ike Williams in Seattle a year ago.

The stocky little Philadelphian is a clever boxer but he doesn't figure to be able to hold off the west coast busy bee who is a 2-1 favorite.

(By The Associated Press)

Sacramento, Calif., March 23 (AP)—A pinched nerve in the elbow of his pitching arm is bothering Allie Reynolds, veteran New York Yankees righthander.

Reynolds said today the ailment is becoming more painful daily. Dr. Sidney Gaynor, team physician, said Reynolds also may have some bone chips in his elbow. No X-rays are planned immediately.

Meanwhile, the world champions are getting some good pitching from rookie righthander Tom Morgan, who went five innings yesterday without allowing a hit as the Yanks beat Sacramento, 11-0. The 20-year-old boy from El Monte, Calif., now has a string of 13 scoreless innings.

One On Newhouser

Lakeland, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Hal Newhouser tells this one on himself.

An elderly feminine fan buttonholed him in the hotel lobby for his autograph. She gushed about how Hal was her "favorite pitcher" and she'd come a long way to see him.

So the star Detroit Tiger southpaw obliged immediately and wrote his name in her book.

"My goodness, Mr. Newhouser," she said, "I never knew you were left-handed."

Willams Ready

Sarasota, Fla., March 23 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox will rest veterans Lou Boudreau and Bobby Doerr today and use a second base combination up from Louisville against the Cincinnati Reds.

Al Richter will be at shortstop and Mel Hoderlein at second as Bill Wight and Walt Masterson face the Reds.

Ted Williams will return to the lineup following two days off. Junior Stephens worked out yesterday for the first time since he sprained his ankle a week ago. He thinks he'll be ready to play in another week.

Brooks Trip Phils

Miami, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Inept fielding and weak hitting by the Philadelphia Phillies helped the Brooklyn Dodgers to an 8-3 victory last night in the teams' second and final game of their exhibition series.

Sloppy Phil fielding and Jackie Robinson's home run gave the Dodgers their first three runs. Further errors handed the Brooks their fourth tally.

Babe's Son Is Okay

He has been scouted by the New York Yankees, Detroit Tigers, Chicago White Sox and the Boston Red Sox.

Latest to watch the 20-year-old UCLA junior was Branch Rickey, general manager of the Bucs.

Hard To Find

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Mr. Shortstop is having trouble in the replacement department. He can't find anyone to fill his shoes.

Mr. Shortstop, of course, is Marty Marion, new manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. He has tried several men at his old spot.

Solly Hemus will be next to take a crack at shortstop. He's been playing second base in the absence of late-starting Red Schoendienst. Hemus, if he makes good, may fill in at third base, too.

Where's Spider?

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 23 (AP)—The New York Giants have a missing player mystery on their hands.

They can't find Spider Jorgensen, the bench-strength infielder-outfielder they bought from Minneapolis. Spider, formerly with Brooklyn, hasn't signed with nor reported to the Millers. Messages sent to him at El Paso, Tex., have been returned, saying the player has moved and his address is unknown.

The Giants continue to have "one-run" trouble. They lost their fourth game of the exhibition grind—third by one run—yesterday when the St. Louis Cardinals took them here 2-1.

Van Cuyk Impresses

Miami, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Chris Van Cuyk, the big lefthander, looks like a sure starter for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

One of the most impressive pitchers in the Brooklyn camp, the six-foot-six, 215-pound Fort Worth alumnus has pitched 12 consecutive scoreless innings and allowed only one run in 15⅓ innings.

NO SNAP JUDGMENT—Mickey Mantle's good, Coach Tommy Henrich decides after taking movies of the recruit and studying his grip at the New York Yankees' Phoenix, Ariz., camp. Up from Joplin, where he played shortstop and led the Class C Western Association in batting with .383, the 19-year-old switch-hitter of Commerce, Okla., is touted as the successor to Joe DiMaggio in center field, if and when the Clipper retires. Illinois and Kentucky Eastern NCAA Finalists Saturday at Garden

St. John's, NC State Late Rally Victims

New York, March 23 (AP)—Spirited, hard-driving Illinois is next in line to try to waylay heavily-favored Kentucky in the NCAA basketball championships, and already Adolph Rupp is losing sleep over it.

"I'm worried," the veteran Kentucky coach said today. "Illinois looks mighty good and my boys are tired. This big Bob Peterson of theirs is liable to give our Spivey a lot of trouble."

Illinois and Kentucky clash Saturday at Madison Square Garden in the eastern finals, the winner qualifying to meet the western victor for the championship at Minneapolis next Tuesday. The western finalists will be determined tonight at Kansas City.

Both eastern finalists produced a lot of late "kick" last night to subdue stubborn adversaries before 14,214 at the Garden.

The Wildcats from Lexington, Ky., held to even terms for 35 minutes, staged a devastating drive in the last five minutes to stun St. John's of Brooklyn, 59-43.

Illini Impressive

Illinois' underrated Big Ten champions also uncorked a stirring finish to repel North Carolina State, the Southern Conference champion playing without three of its veteran stars, 84-70. The Illini looked as if they could run all night.

Rupp let it be known that his greatest concern was how Kentucky's seven-foot Bill Spivey would fare with Peterson, the husky who holds down the pivot job for the Illini.

At six-eight, Peterson is four inches shorter than Spivey but he's heavier, 235 pounds to 215, and he's very agile for a big man.

At Kansas City, Oklahoma A. and M., second ranked nationally, had more trouble than anticipated with little Montana State, 50-46, and Washington's Pacific Coast champions had less than expected with Texas A. and M., beating the southwest titlists, 62-40.

Tonight the Aggies and Washington play in one of the semi-final western games. Kansas State, the high-scoring tournament favorite, meets Brigham Young, National Invitation Tournament winner, in the other game, opening the program at 9 p. m. (EST). The western finals also are Saturday.

Ski Trails

Albany, N. Y., March 23 (AP)—Ski conditions in New York state reported yesterday to the State Department of Commerce:

Belleayre Mountain—6 powder on 5-15 old, good.

Downsville—4-5 powder on 2-5 old, fair to good.

East Berne—5 powder, fair.

Highmount—6 powder on 4-8 old, fair to good.

Lake Placid—2 fluffy on 8 old, good.

People Less Happy

Humboldt, Tenn., (AP) — Mrs. Nancy Catherine Shumate, who has seen a lot of people in her 105 years, says folks are not as happy now as they used to be. "People have changed so much they're mighty near like butterflies now," she says. "People are so proud they can't go to church unless they're in silk. And pride has taken the religion out of them."

Addict Limits Holdup To Price of Heroin

New York, March 23 (AP)—A jittery youth, pretending to have a gun in his pocket, walked up to a man on a Bronx street and said:

"I'm a dope addict. I'm sick, and I need money fast for some dope. Give me your money."

The bewildered man handed over a wallet containing $51.

The youth took out $4—"all I needed for a quick packet of dope," he explained later.

He handed back the wallet with $47, dismissed the owner, and set out to get his heroin.

The story was volunteered early today after the youth was arrested for a $5 holdup in a tailor shop, assistant Bronx District Attorney David S. Blatt said.

The youth, Elliot Cola, 17, of (1118 Forest avenue) the Bronx, was booked by police on charges of armed robbery and narcotics violation.

Police said Cola admitted holding up the tailor, Howard Dane, of (769 East 168th street) the Bronx, last Wednesday night.

The week-old $4 street holdup that Cola related had not been reported, so far as could be learned immediately. Cola was quoted as saying he had been "in a daze" and could not remember where it occurred.

Bowling

Jack Hartman cracked 778; Dick Gruver, the city ed, set his all-time personal high of 688; Irwin Thomas lost a "700" on a stubborn 10-pin and Andy Campbell rolled the first "600" of his career 638—in a sensational scoring spree by the Freeman League keglers last night at the Bowlatorium. Bob Steeger, more honest, less pin-happy, only rolled 321.

Just for the sake of the record, all those things didn't happen, but that's the way the gang was dreaming in the office this morning, following last night's open date on the schedule.

Ferraro Major League keglers went on another rampage last night, piling up a dozen "600" triples; six team singles over 1000 and a 3030 triple by the Amocos.

Harold Broskie flirted with another "700" after a modest 201 opener, firing games of 235 and 244 for a 680 aggregate. Buster Ferraro and Bill Kuehn achieved the hat trick with 209-224-202-635 and 221-203-203-627 respectively, while Larry Weishaupt accounted for 202-247-626.

Also on the honor roll were Frank Leskie with 208-207-204-618; Charlie Manfro 234-617; Phil Corrado 215-211-616; Tom Amato 201-237-610; George Magley 212-215-605; John MacLellan 225-602; Ken Williams 216-600; Harry Wilber 220-600; Marty Kellenberger 243-585; Cosmos Costello 223-207-580 and Herb Sleight 200-200-580.

Amocos hit for 3030 with 945, 1084 and 1001. Hymes Shoes blasted 1000; Jones Dairy 1006; Ten Grand 1021-1046-2981.

Now that Evelyn Gross has transferred her talents to the IBM in Poughkeepsie, the Matinee Club has lost one of its regular weekly "500" customers. In yesterday's session, Eleanor Singer grabbed top honors with 470. Evelyn Francis was runnerup with 465; Jessie Burnett had 463; Pat Pearson 459 and Gertrude Reis 457.

Bill Johnson's 558, with 217-163-178, was the high series in the Colonial Men's League, eight pins better than Ed Propp who shot the high single of 235. Murray Greene had 213-539; George Uhl 211-533; Eddie Auclair 203-528; Phil Levy 522; Al Mazzucca 515; Ed Koskie 513; Jack Blinder 512.

Betty Monashefsky's 472 series was the best individual effort in the Sisterhood League. She hit solos of 165, 149, 158. Blanche Moak was runnerup with 469; Bea Arlensky shot 468; E. Kantrowitz 462; M. Propp 443; Rosalie Eckdish 436; S. Jacobs 433 and S. Green 408.

Russano Leads Silver Palace

Frank Russano, veteran Silver Palace League kegler, was high average man in his league this season with a 184.62 for 72 games, according to final averages released today by John Thompson, secretary.

Russano had a point margin over Herman Seelbach and Elwood Robinson, who finished in a flat-footed tie with 183.95. Clarence Herdman posted 181.47 and Joe Mannello 180 to round out the top five.

Also in the first ten were Mitzie Arlensky, 178.22; Ralph Mayone, 178.50; Bud Evans, 178.46; Eddie Schupp, 178.20; and Jack Martin, 177.85.

Sheldon Levy rolled high single of 268 to win the K.B.A. high single medal and Clarence Herdman toppled the triple department with 685. Team records were Slover-Jansen-Schline's 1024 and Berardi Contractors' 2911.

Smith's Truck Equipment won the league championship by a one-game margin over Progress Clothes, with 49 wins and 35 losses.

Swim Captain

Worcester, Mass., March 23 (AP)—Bob Dieck, a New Rochelle, N. Y., junior, has been elected captain of the 1951-52 Holy Cross swimming team. He was the choice yesterday of the 16 lettermen from a squad which won seven and lost three meets this season and copped the Worcester city championship for the second straight year.

Dogs Kill Sheep On Simmons Farm

Woodstock, March 23 — Bearsville on Thursday was the scene of a search for three unidentified dogs which allegedly attacked the sheep pen on the farm of Birge Simmons about 7:45 a. m. Simmons when he heard the commotion in the sheep yard investigated and discovered that four lambs and a ewe had been killed.

Trooper Ray Dunn who was called, reported that Simmons caught a glimpse of the dogs, one a black and tan hound, a black and white collie and another of undetermined breed. Supervisor Kenneth Wilson was notified and he immediately went to the farm with Harry Kutzschbach of the board of assessors, and Dave Myer, dog warden. They investigated and reported that a total of six lambs were dead as several died during the day from injuries. Later in the day Dr. James C. Crandall of Saugerties examined the flock and treated about a dozen more injured sheep.

Joan Braddon Elected To Phi Beta Kappa

Woodstock, March 23—Joan I. Braddon of Wittenberg was among the 11 St. Lawrence University seniors, of Canton, four men and seven women, who have been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity, Edward J. Blankman, president of the New York Lambda chapter of the society, announced this week. The eleven new members will be initiated at the annual Phi Beta Kappa meeting at the home of Mrs. Ward C. Priest. Membership in the honorary fraternity is awarded for highest scholastic achievement. The New York Lambda chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was founded at St. Lawrence in 1899.

Miss Braddon is a daughter of Mrs. E. J. Braddon, of Wittenberg, and a graduate of Kingston High School in 1947. She is a sociology major and will receive the bachelor of arts degree in June. Miss Braddon was editor in chief of the "Hill News," weekly campus newspaper, last year; she is a member of Kalon, senior women's honor society, of Kappa Delta social sorority; Alpha Kappa Delta, honorary sociology fraternity; Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalism fraternity, and is listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." She has been assistant editor of the Winter Carnival program and co-editor of the freshman handbook.

Will Hold Secret Session

Paris, March 23 (AP)—After nearly three weeks of fruitless effort, Big Four deputies hold their first informal secret session today, reportedly to decide whether to continue trying to work out an agenda for a foreign ministers conference on critical world problems. What is said at the informal session will not be made public.

Children Are Sought

Lincoln Park, N. J., March 23 (AP)—Weary searchers resumed their vigil along the banks of the Pequannock river at dawn today fearful that the missing children have drowned. Hundreds of townspeople, police and firemen gave up the search temporarily late last night soon after bloodhounds continually led them to the edge of the rain-swollen river. The search, now entering its third day, centers on two blond-haired boys, Douglas, 3½, and Robert, 2½, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rochard whose home is about 50 feet from the river. The Rochards along with most of the people in this small Morris county town have all but given up hope. They say there is a slim chance someone with a "mother complex" might have the boys.

Blood Saves Many

Washington, March 23 (AP)—The American Red Cross said today its blood collections have more than tripled since last July to provide 175,000 pints of blood for Korean wounded and military stockpiling. "Because the American people are giving their blood for the armed forces the death rate among our military patients in the Korean campaign is lower than  in any other similar military campaign in the history of this country," Red Cross President E. Roland Harriman said in a statement.

Kaman-Ellsworth Case Settled Before Trial

Following selection of a jury and swearing plaintiff, Paul Kaman, who gave some testimony, the action brought in Supreme Court by Kaman against his grandson, Harold F. Ellsworth and his wife, was settled late Thursday afternoon. Kaman sought to set aside a deed which he gave in August 1950 to his grandson by which the Kaman home on First avenue was transferred to Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth who gave a mortgage for the amount of the transaction.

Kaman contended the mortgage was a temporary instrument taken to secure payment of the purchase price of $5,000, and was to be paid in full when Ellsworth secured a G.I. loan on the premises.

Kaman also contended there were other features in the transaction, one of which was that he might occupy two rooms in the house and be supplied with heat, light and other facilities. He claimed these were not supplied and he was forced to leave the property and go to the home of a daughter.

Flanagan and Ortale appeared for plaintiff and Bernard A. Culloton appeared for defendants.

Peace Plan Fails

New Delhi, March 23 (AP)—India has made another fruitless try to find a pathway through which to induce the Chinese Communists to discuss peace, it was learned here reliably today. Government officials declined to discuss the matter, but a well informed non-official source said Prime Minister Nehru initiated a new move to end the Korean conflict late in February, timing it to coincide with serious Chinese reverses on the Korean battlefields.

"Please discuss the play of this hand," requests a Sarasota correspondent. "When it was actually played in our game here, South ruffed the third round of spades and led a trump. West held off, but took the second trump with his ace and returned his last trump.

"South then tried out the diamonds, discovering that the suit did not break. By this time he knew that East had started with only two spades, two hearts, and four diamonds—hence with five clubs. East still had three clubs, so South cashed the king of clubs and then finessed the jack. That lost to the queen, of course, so the contract was set.

"South said the odds were 5 to 2 that the queen of clubs was in the East hand. Was there any way for him to know that the queen was doubleton in the other hand?"

Yes—and South didn't have to peek to find it out. When West led a third trump, South should have won in his own hand in order to lead out his last trump. On this, dummy could discard a low club. This trick would force East to part with one additional club, since he could not afford to discard a diamond.

Now South tries out three rounds of diamonds, discovering that East stops the suit. This leaves only three cards in each hand, and one of East's cards is known to be a diamond. The king of clubs is then cashed, followed by a low club.

Two New Managers AreNamed Uptown

New managers have been appointed to two uptown places of business.

David Mintz of Jersey City has assumed his duties as manager of Rudolph's Jewelers, 309 Wall street, and Henry V. Fallerman of Utica has been appointed manager of the local office of Upstate Loan Company, Inc., 36 North Front street.

Francis J. McPartlon, manager of the local loan company office for eight years, has been promoted to a supervisory post with the company and will have his headquarters in Utica, covering the territory to the west, north and east of that city.

Fallerman has been associated with personal loan work since 1937 and has been with Upstate about four years. He comes to Kingston after serving as manager of the Utica local office, prior to which he managed the Little Falls office. He is a member of Little Falls Lodge 42, B.P.O.E. Married, he intends to make his home in this city as soon as he finds living quarters. He is a native of New York city.

Mintz succeeds Arthur Grossman as manager of the local Rudolph's store. He has been with Rudolph's chain three years and has managed stores in New Jersey. He is married and has two daughters, and he also intends to make his home in Kingston when he finds living quarters.

Will Hold Secret Session

Paris, March 23 (AP)—After nearly three weeks of fruitless effort, Big Four deputies hold their first informal secret session today, reportedly to decide whether to continue trying to work out an agenda for a foreign ministers conference on critical world problems. What is said at the informal session will not be made public.

Children Are Sought

Lincoln Park, N. J., March 23 (AP)—Weary searchers resumed their vigil along the banks of the Pequannock river at dawn today fearful that the missing children have drowned. Hundreds of townspeople, police and firemen gave up the search temporarily late last night soon after bloodhounds continually led them to the edge of the rain-swollen river. The search, now entering its third day, centers on two blond-haired boys, Douglas, 3½, and Robert, 2½, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rochard whose home is about 50 feet from the river. The Rochards along with most of the people in this small Morris county town have all but given up hope. They say there is a slim chance someone with a "mother complex" might have the boys.

Blood Saves Many

Washington, March 23 (AP)—The American Red Cross said today its blood collections have more than tripled since last July to provide 175,000 pints of blood for Korean wounded and military stockpiling. "Because the American people are giving their blood for the armed forces the death rate among our military patients in the Korean campaign is lower than  in any other similar military campaign in the history of this country," Red Cross President E. Roland Harriman said in a statement.

Kaman-Ellsworth Case Settled Before Trial

Following selection of a jury and swearing plaintiff, Paul Kaman, who gave some testimony, the action brought in Supreme Court by Kaman against his grandson, Harold F. Ellsworth and his wife, was settled late Thursday afternoon. Kaman sought to set aside a deed which he gave in August 1950 to his grandson by which the Kaman home on First avenue was transferred to Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth who gave a mortgage for the amount of the transaction.

Kaman contended the mortgage was a temporary instrument taken to secure payment of the purchase price of $5,000, and was to be paid in full when Ellsworth secured a G.I. loan on the premises.

Kaman also contended there were other features in the transaction, one of which was that he might occupy two rooms in the house and be supplied with heat, light and other facilities. He claimed these were not supplied and he was forced to leave the property and go to the home of a daughter.

Flanagan and Ortale appeared for plaintiff and Bernard A. Culloton appeared for defendants.

Peace Plan Fails

New Delhi, March 23 (AP)—India has made another fruitless try to find a pathway through which to induce the Chinese Communists to discuss peace, it was learned here reliably today. Government officials declined to discuss the matter, but a well informed non-official source said Prime Minister Nehru initiated a new move to end the Korean conflict late in February, timing it to coincide with serious Chinese reverses on the Korean battlefields.

"Please discuss the play of this hand," requests a Sarasota correspondent. "When it was actually played in our game here, South ruffed the third round of spades and led a trump. West held off, but took the second trump with his ace and returned his last trump.

"South then tried out the diamonds, discovering that the suit did not break. By this time he knew that East had started with only two spades, two hearts, and four diamonds—hence with five clubs. East still had three clubs, so South cashed the king of clubs and then finessed the jack. That lost to the queen, of course, so the contract was set.

"South said the odds were 5 to 2 that the queen of clubs was in the East hand. Was there any way for him to know that the queen was doubleton in the other hand?"

Yes—and South didn't have to peek to find it out. When West led a third trump, South should have won in his own hand in order to lead out his last trump. On this, dummy could discard a low club. This trick would force East to part with one additional club, since he could not afford to discard a diamond.

Now South tries out three rounds of diamonds, discovering that East stops the suit. This leaves only three cards in each hand, and one of East's cards is known to be a diamond. The king of clubs is then cashed, followed by a low club.

Two New Managers AreNamed Uptown

New managers have been appointed to two uptown places of business.

David Mintz of Jersey City has assumed his duties as manager of Rudolph's Jewelers, 309 Wall street, and Henry V. Fallerman of Utica has been appointed manager of the local office of Upstate Loan Company, Inc., 36 North Front street.

Francis J. McPartlon, manager of the local loan company office for eight years, has been promoted to a supervisory post with the company and will have his headquarters in Utica, covering the territory to the west, north and east of that city.

Fallerman has been associated with personal loan work since 1937 and has been with Upstate about four years. He comes to Kingston after serving as manager of the Utica local office, prior to which he managed the Little Falls office. He is a member of Little Falls Lodge 42, B.P.O.E. Married, he intends to make his home in this city as soon as he finds living quarters. He is a native of New York city.

Mintz succeeds Arthur Grossman as manager of the local Rudolph's store. He has been with Rudolph's chain three years and has managed stores in New Jersey. He is married and has two daughters, and he also intends to make his home in Kingston when he finds living quarters.

Dogs Kill Sheep On Simmons Farm

Woodstock, March 23 — Bearsville on Thursday was the scene of a search for three unidentified dogs which allegedly attacked the sheep pen on the farm of Birge Simmons about 7:45 a. m. Simmons when he heard the commotion in the sheep yard investigated and discovered that four lambs and a ewe had been killed.

Trooper Ray Dunn who was called, reported that Simmons caught a glimpse of the dogs, one a black and tan hound, a black and white collie and another of undetermined breed. Supervisor Kenneth Wilson was notified and he immediately went to the farm with Harry Kutzschbach of the board of assessors, and Dave Myer, dog warden. They investigated and reported that a total of six lambs were dead as several died during the day from injuries. Later in the day Dr. James C. Crandall of Saugerties examined the flock and treated about a dozen more injured sheep.

Joan Braddon Elected To Phi Beta Kappa

Woodstock, March 23—Joan I. Braddon of Wittenberg was among the 11 St. Lawrence University seniors, of Canton, four men and seven women, who have been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity, Edward J. Blankman, president of the New York Lambda chapter of the society, announced this week. The eleven new members will be initiated at the annual Phi Beta Kappa meeting at the home of Mrs. Ward C. Priest. Membership in the honorary fraternity is awarded for highest scholastic achievement. The New York Lambda chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was founded at St. Lawrence in 1899.

Miss Braddon is a daughter of Mrs. E. J. Braddon, of Wittenberg, and a graduate of Kingston High School in 1947. She is a sociology major and will receive the bachelor of arts degree in June. Miss Braddon was editor in chief of the "Hill News," weekly campus newspaper, last year; she is a member of Kalon, senior women's honor society, of Kappa Delta social sorority; Alpha Kappa Delta, honorary sociology fraternity; Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalism fraternity, and is listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." She has been assistant editor of the Winter Carnival program and co-editor of the freshman handbook.

Pepers Lose Three

Woodstock, March 23—Peper's Garage lost all three games bowling last Wednesday night with Mayone's Market in the Saugerties A League. Mayones scored 837-835-958 and Peper's 822-791-746. Will Hold Secret Session

Paris, March 23 (AP)—After nearly three weeks of fruitless effort, Big Four deputies hold their first informal secret session today, reportedly to decide whether to continue trying to work out an agenda for a foreign ministers conference on critical world problems. What is said at the informal session will not be made public.

Greenland's ice cap is estimated to cover the island with a 5000-foot thickness.

Children Are Sought

Lincoln Park, N. J., March 23 (AP)—Weary searchers resumed their vigil along the banks of the Pequannock river at dawn today fearful that the missing children have drowned. Hundreds of townspeople, police and firemen gave up the search temporarily late last night soon after bloodhounds continually led them to the edge of the rain-swollen river. The search, now entering its third day, centers on two blond-haired boys, Douglas, 3½, and Robert, 2½, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rochard whose home is about 50 feet from the river. The Rochards along with most of the people in this small Morris county town have all but given up hope. They say there is a slim chance someone with a "mother complex" might have the boys.

Blood Saves Many

Washington, March 23 (AP)—The American Red Cross said today its blood collections have more than tripled since last July to provide 175,000 pints of blood for Korean wounded and military stockpiling. "Because the American people are giving their blood for the armed forces the death rate among our military patients in the Korean campaign is lower than  in any other similar military campaign in the history of this country," Red Cross President E. Roland Harriman said in a statement.

There are 6,485,000 farm homes in the United States and 39,390,000 non-farm dwellings, according to the 1950 census.

Kaman-Ellsworth Case Settled Before Trial

Following selection of a jury and swearing plaintiff, Paul Kaman, who gave some testimony, the action brought in Supreme Court by Kaman against his grandson, Harold F. Ellsworth and his wife, was settled late Thursday afternoon. Kaman sought to set aside a deed which he gave in August 1950 to his grandson by which the Kaman home on First avenue was transferred to Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth who gave a mortgage for the amount of the transaction.

Kaman contended the mortgage was a temporary instrument taken to secure payment of the purchase price of $5,000, and was to be paid in full when Ellsworth secured a G.I. loan on the premises.

Kaman also contended there were other features in the transaction, one of which was that he might occupy two rooms in the house and be supplied with heat, light and other facilities. He claimed these were not supplied and he was forced to leave the property and go to the home of a daughter.

Flanagan and Ortale appeared for plaintiff and Bernard A. Culloton appeared for defendants.

Following settlement of the case Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth adjourned court until Monday, no court being held today, it being Good Friday.

In Massachusetts, it is against the law to lounge on the shelves of a bakery.

Peace Plan Fails

New Delhi, March 23 (AP)—India has made another fruitless try to find a pathway through which to induce the Chinese Communists to discuss peace, it was learned here reliably today. Government officials declined to discuss the matter, but a well informed non-official source said Prime Minister Nehru initiated a new move to end the Korean conflict late in February, timing it to coincide with serious Chinese reverses on the Korean battlefields.

Dated, March 20, 1951.

De Witt to Speak To Ulster Bar

Macdonald De Witt, prominent New York city attorney, will be the guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the Ulster County Bar Association to be held on Monday evening at Leherb's. Mr. De Witt is a native of the city of Kingston and is a brother of the late William C. De Witt, former Ulster county clerk, postmaster of the city of Kingston and city historian. His father was a Kingston attorney who served as district attorney and surrogate of Ulster county and also as United States congressman from this district.

Attorney De Witt is one of the leading experts in the country on the law of libel and represents several New York city newspapers. Last year he represented Hester McCullough in the famous libel case brought in Connecticut by Draper and Adler who sued because of intimations by the defendant that they were Communists. He is now defending the New York World Telegram in a suit brought by Kingsland Macy as a result of the Hanley letter in the last gubernatorial campaign.

It is expected that there will be a large turnout of local attorneys to hear Mr. De Witt.

Germs Worse Than A-Bomb

Chicago, March 23 (AP)—One of America's top medical experts of biologic warfare warned today that enemy saboteurs could launch a germ attack on the United States' budding mobilization program with virtually no risk of exposure. While some medical authorities believe biologic attack never will be a serious threat, he added, "others presumably equally competent have stated that it is a greater hazard than the atomic bomb."

Locker Storage

U. S. Department of Agriculture figures show there are now some 80,000,000 cubic feet of gross storage in 11,600 locker plants to handle perishable foods at zero temperatures.

De Witt to Speak To Ulster Bar

Macdonald De Witt, prominent New York city attorney, will be the guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the Ulster County Bar Association to be held on Monday evening at Leherb's. Mr. De Witt is a native of the city of Kingston and is a brother of the late William C. De Witt, former Ulster county clerk, postmaster of the city of Kingston and city historian. His father was a Kingston attorney who served as district attorney and surrogate of Ulster county and also as United States congressman from this district.

Attorney De Witt is one of the leading experts in the country on the law of libel and represents several New York city newspapers. Last year he represented Hester McCullough in the famous libel case brought in Connecticut by Draper and Adler who sued because of intimations by the defendant that they were Communists. He is now defending the New York World Telegram in a suit brought by Kingsland Macy as a result of the Hanley letter in the last gubernatorial campaign.

It is expected that there will be a large turnout of local attorneys to hear Mr. De Witt.

Germs Worse Than A-Bomb

Chicago, March 23 (AP)—One of America's top medical experts of biologic warfare warned today that enemy saboteurs could launch a germ attack on the United States' budding mobilization program with virtually no risk of exposure. While some medical authorities believe biologic attack never will be a serious threat, he added, "others presumably equally competent have stated that it is a greater hazard than the atomic bomb."

De Witt to Speak To Ulster Bar

Macdonald De Witt, prominent New York city attorney, will be the guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the Ulster County Bar Association to be held on Monday evening at Leherb's. Mr. De Witt is a native of the city of Kingston and is a brother of the late William C. De Witt, former Ulster county clerk, postmaster of the city of Kingston and city historian. His father was a Kingston attorney who served as district attorney and surrogate of Ulster county and also as United States congressman from this district.

Attorney De Witt is one of the leading experts in the country on the law of libel and represents several New York city newspapers. Last year he represented Hester McCullough in the famous libel case brought in Connecticut by Draper and Adler who sued because of intimations by the defendant that they were Communists. He is now defending the New York World Telegram in a suit brought by Kingsland Macy as a result of the Hanley letter in the last gubernatorial campaign.

It is expected that there will be a large turnout of local attorneys to hear Mr. De Witt.

Germs Worse Than A-Bomb

Chicago, March 23 (AP)—One of America's top medical experts of biologic warfare warned today that enemy saboteurs could launch a germ attack on the United States' budding mobilization program with virtually no risk of exposure. While some medical authorities believe biologic attack never will be a serious threat, he added, "others presumably equally competent have stated that it is a greater hazard than the atomic bomb."

Can't Authorize Leaves for Police

The local Civil Service Commission, indicating that it had received recent requests from police department members for leaves of absence, said in a statement released today that it has no authority to act on them.

The formal statement approved for release at a recent meeting of the local board said:

"The Civil Service Commission has no power to approve or disapprove leaves of absence for city employes under its jurisdiction. The commission is merely notified and records such requests."

Since the granting of a six-months leave of absence by the police board to Detective William Krum, other requests for leaves have been made by members of the police department, and some of these have been sent to the Civil Service Commission.

Will Speak Here To Zionist Region Meeting Sunday

HANNAH STEIN

Hannah Stein, noted English Zionist, journalist and lecturer will be the guest speaker during an executive meeting of the Empire State Zionist Region, Sunday at 1 p. m., in B'nai B'rith building, Wall street.

Miss Stein, now on a visit to the United States, is a member of the executive of the British Zionist Federation and is a member of the Foreign Press Association. She has been present during most of the important conferences that have been held in Europe, namely, the Paris Peace Conference in London, the Deputy Foreign Ministers' Conference on Peace Treaties with Germany and Austria, the World Jewish Congress Assembly at Montreaux, the General Zionist European Conference at Paris, meetings of the World Zionist Actions Committee at Zurich and later at Tel Aviv and Jerusalem. Miss Stein is a member of the executive of the British Zionist Federation.

In July 1947, on one of her trips to Palestine, Miss Stein established a Zionist youth settlement there which serves as a special link between the youth in England and Palestine. This year she laid the foundation stone for the first 20 houses.

Sol Reiter, who has undertaken the chairmanship for the Empire State Zionist Region for the Israel bond campaign will give an outline of the practical procedure to be followed on May 1, when the drive is scheduled to begin.

Saul Hammerman, cantor at Temple-Emanuel in Passaic, N. J., will sing Hebrew and Jewish folk songs.

Dr. Albert B. Freedman, president of the region, will preside.

Shuttle Would Lose To Conveyer Belt

New York, March 23 (AP)—Maybe the rattling subway shuttle trains between Times Square and Grand Central terminal will be replaced some day by quiet conveyor belt cars propelled by rubber-tired wheels.

The plan to ultra-modernize New York's shortest and busiest subway link was presented yesterday to the City Board of Estimate by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

The conveyor shuttle was designed by Goodyear and the Stephens-Adams Manufacturing Co. of Aurora, Ill. Estimated cost of installation is $2,100,000.

Here's how it would work:

Passengers would step on a loading platform going one and a half miles per hour. From there they could step into any one of 25 small plastic domed cars going at the same rate of speed and seating 10 persons.

The cars, after leaving the loading platform, glide off the low-speed conveyor onto a bank of rubber tired wheels which speeds them along at 15 miles per hour. At the other end, the cars slow up to the 1½ mile an hour gait so the passengers can disembark.

Included in the proposed plan would be stationary walks, which also could be used as bomb shelters.

3,300 Paratroops

mass jump from 145 combat cargo planes.

Two tank spearheads paced the allied drive north from the old south Korean capital. Tanks rumbled up mine-pocked roads behind crews of engineers who dug up the explosives.

Infantrymen trudged behind the tanks. Their lines stretched for miles.

Completed in Hour

The airborne assault was completed in one hour.

AP Correspondent John Randolph, who watched the landing from an accompanying plane, said the vari-hued chutes wafted down "swinging in the air like giant floating flowers of many colors."

Ammunition cases, jeeps and artillery swing like pendulems as they chuted down.

"It would be beautiful—really beautiful— if it weren't so terrible," said Lt. Col. T. A. Edward of Tulsa, Okla., a U. S. Eighth Army intelligence officer."

The paratroops met no opposition in the first minutes after landing.

Opposition Met

They slipped out of their chute harnesses and ran into skirmish order standing up—something men never do when bullets are flying.

Some of the Reds put up a stiff fight.

The airborne infantrymen knocked these out with their artillery and some fighter plane support.

Communist troops apparently were all around the paratroopers. An Eighth Army staff officer in the parachute force said there was continuous fire on the boundary of the drop area.

Ridgway said the operation was aimed "to kill the enemy."

Brig. Gen. Frank S. Bowen, Jr., told his paratroopers:

"I wish you all a happy landing. I'll see you on the ground." He cautioned officers:

"Make the men dig in . . . get buttoned up in the goose eggs (The Drop Zone.)"

Ridgway Directs Men

The 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team — bolstered by tough, wiry rangers specially trained for behind-the-lines fighting—hit the Korean dirt near Musan.

Ridgway, a paratrooper himself, carried a pistol in hand and the familiar grenade hitched to his paratroop harness.

The paratroopers quickly cut the Red supply road running south from Kaesong, two miles south of the border.

Ridgway said the air troopers "landed with no appreciable losses, and are now proceeding to secure their objectives."

The flying boxcars met no anti-aircraft fire. No enemy planes rose to try to break up the surprise allied move.

Sleeps Through Own

Liberty, Mo., March 23 (AP)—A minister has confessed to sleeping through a sermon—his own. The Rev. W. C. Link, Jr., pastor of the Second Baptist Church here, was asked to preach one Sunday at St. Joseph. He made a tape recording of a sermon he preached in his own church so he could criticize himself. He played the recording several times, then decided to have a last listen before delivery. Mr. Link awoke as the choir sang the closing hymn. "I suppose," he said, "I am the only preacher who ever slept through his own sermon."

Says Fight Has Just Begun

Washington, Mar. 23 (AP)—Communications Commissioner Frieda B. Hennock said today she has just begun to fight for educational television on a nationwide basis. Her comment followed FCC's action in tentatively allocating about 10 per cent of TV broadcasting space to school use under a plan for a broad expansion of channels. Miss Hennock has been demanding that 25 per cent of all TV stations be given over to education and information. She described the 10 per cent allocation as "the giblets from the television turkey," inadequate to reach the country as a whole.

Governor Not Opposed

Hartford, Conn., March 23 (AP)—Governor John Lodge has denied that he opposes a proposal all-purpose highway in Fairfield county to relieve congestion on the heavily-traveled Boston Post road. Lodge is a resident of Westport, where opposition has arisen to a proposed route cutting through the town. Some Westport residents have argued for an alternate route north of the Merritt Parkway. Asked at a news conference yesterday about reports that he had promised fellow Westporters to oppose the original route, the governor said emphatically that that wasn't so.

Reach Agreement

Toronto, March 23 (AP)—Union leaders announced last night a settlement has been reached between Toronto's milkmen and dairy company officials ending a day-old strike. The agreement goes before the union membership for ratification today. The dispute was over the effective date of a $3 a week raise awarded by a conciliation board. Details of the settlement were not made public. The average wage of drivers, including commission, is estimated at $50 a week.

Senator Unchanged

40 Millions Are possible because of the movie's producer—the Rev. Patrick Peyton of the Roman Catholic congregation of Holy Cross.

Irish-born Father Peyton, a 41-year-old priest from the University of Notre Dame, long has been known as a miracle radio and television producer in Hollywood. He also is a supersalesman.

Every big star in town has helped him sell family prayer. Jack Benny, a Jew; James Stewart, a Presbyterian, and Bing Crosby, a Catholic, are typical of the many who work gratis.

Prayer is all that Father Peyton sells.

But he sells it like General Motors sells cars—through high-powdered advertising. There's even a slogan: "The Family that Prays Together, Stays Together."

Although the stations donate the time and the stars their talents, the radio shows cost $1,500 a week and the television movies $50,000. That's because Father Peyton pays union scale to workers and bit players who must work to eat.

He never knows where the money for next week's show is coming from but he hasn't missed yet. No public appeal for money is made. It comes in anyway, mostly in nickels and dimes from listeners.

Only six weeks ago, Father Peyton told this reporter that his friends then urged him to skip a television movie this Easter. Family Theatre had just spent some $50,000 to put on a Christmas movie that was seen by an estimated 35,000,000 watchers. No more funds were in sight.

But the quiet, humble priest believes in the product he sells:

"I can't believe God will let us pass up such an opportunity to reach so many people."

Reindeer meat is a staple food of Northlanders.

Lenten Services

First Presbyterian

The congregation of the First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf street and Tremper avenue, will gather tonight at 8 o'clock for the celebration of the Lord's Supper and reception of new members. The communion meditation by the minister, the Rev. William J. McVey, will be on "The Amazing Love of God in Christ." The musical program for the service, arranged by Miss Edna Merrihew, organist and choir director, will be as follows: organ prelude, Come Sweet Death, chorale by Bach; anthem, Could Ye Not Watch With Me? from Crucifixion by Stainer; solo, Sheep and Lambs by Sydney Homer, to be sung by William J. McVey, Jr., baritone; organ postlude, O Sacred Head, Now Wounded, chorale by Bach. All are welcome.

St. Mark's Church

Good Friday, 8 p. m., at St. Mark's A.M.E. Church, 12 Foxhall avenue, the last in the series of Holy Week union services will be held of the following churches: Franklin Street A.M.E. Zion; Progressive Baptist; New Central Baptist; Riverview Baptist, and St. Mark's A.M.E. The Rev. Marshall M. Smith will be the speaker. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be celebrated in prayer and praise. The public is invited to worship with this church.

Dividend Is Declared

The board of directors of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, at its monthly meeting held at its South Road office, Poughkeepsie, today, declared a dividend of 15 cents per share on its common stock, payable May 1, to stockholders of record April 10.

Thousands Make

ber of foreign diplomats in the Holy Land.

It was announced that Jaffa Gate in the old city walls will be opened Sunday to permit the Jerusalem Consular Corps to enter the old city along the traditional route. The old city is in the hands of Jordan while the new city is controlled by Israel.

Permits were issued to allow other pilgrims safe passage across the Israel-Jordan armistice lines to enter the ancient city through the Mandelbaum Gate and to visit Bethlehem.

An air of uneasiness over the world's peace is evident in Jerusalemn this Easter season. Both Christian and Moslem residents constantly ask visitors from abroad "will there be war?"

Ford Assets

Detroit, March 23 (AP)—Assets of the giant Ford Foundation, set up by Henry Ford in 1936, have mounted to approximately half a billion dollars. This was shown today in the report of the organization as of Dec. 31, 1950. The financial statement showed that after deducting $18,272,522.07 for unpaid appropriations and $21,431.17 for accounts payable net assets came to $492,678,255. The bulk of the assets is represented in non-voting but dividend-earning stock in the Ford Motor Co.

Scouts Will Collect Paper on March 31

Boy Scouts and Explorers of six city troops will collect waste paper on Saturday, March 31, to raise money to send members to summer camp and to purchase camping equipment.

Troops participating in the drive are Nos. 3, 5, 6, 9, 11 and 12.

Wards in which the paper will be collected are those numbered two to nine, inclusive, and Ward 13. Residents in those wards are asked to tie their old newspapers in bundles and place them at the curb prior to 8 a. m. Saturday, when the collections will begin.

In charge of the drive is Frank Bourke, Kingston district commissioner. He will be assisted by scoutmasters C. J. Thurin, Robert Ornstein, Sherwood Lasher, William Daum, Robert C. Tremper and Ralph Shapiro.

Here's how it would work:

Passengers would step on a loading platform going one and a half miles per hour. From there they could step into any one of 25 small plastic domed cars going at the same rate of speed and seating 10 persons.

The cars, after leaving the loading platform, glide off the low-speed conveyor onto a bank of rubber tired wheels which speeds them along at 15 miles per hour. At the other end, the cars slow up to the 1½ mile an hour gait so the passengers can disembark.

Included in the proposed plan would be stationary walks, which also could be used as bomb shelters.

But he sells it like General Motors sells cars—through high-powdered advertising. There's even a slogan: "The Family that Prays Together, Stays Together."

Although the stations donate the time and the stars their talents, the radio shows cost $1,500 a week and the television movies $50,000. That's because Father Peyton pays union scale to workers and bit players who must work to eat.

He never knows where the money for next week's show is coming from but he hasn't missed yet. No public appeal for money is made. It comes in anyway, mostly in nickels and dimes from listeners.

Only six weeks ago, Father Peyton told this reporter that his friends then urged him to skip a television movie this Easter. Family Theatre had just spent some $50,000 to put on a Christmas movie that was seen by an estimated 35,000,000 watchers. No more funds were in sight.

But the quiet, humble priest believes in the product he sells:

"I can't believe God will let us pass up such an opportunity to reach so many people."

Reindeer meat is a staple food of Northlanders.

First Presbyterian

The congregation of the First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf street and Tremper avenue, will gather tonight at 8 o'clock for the celebration of the Lord's Supper and reception of new members. The communion meditation by the minister, the Rev. William J. McVey, will be on "The Amazing Love of God in Christ." The musical program for the service, arranged by Miss Edna Merrihew, organist and choir director, will be as follows: organ prelude, Come Sweet Death, chorale by Bach; anthem, Could Ye Not Watch With Me? from Crucifixion by Stainer; solo, Sheep and Lambs by Sydney Homer, to be sung by William J. McVey, Jr., baritone; organ postlude, O Sacred Head, Now Wounded, chorale by Bach. All are welcome.

St. Mark's Church

Good Friday, 8 p. m., at St. Mark's A.M.E. Church, 12 Foxhall avenue, the last in the series of Holy Week union services will be held of the following churches: Franklin Street A.M.E. Zion; Progressive Baptist; New Central Baptist; Riverview Baptist, and St. Mark's A.M.E. The Rev. Marshall M. Smith will be the speaker. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be celebrated in prayer and praise. The public is invited to worship with this church.

Dividend Is Declared

The board of directors of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, at its monthly meeting held at its South Road office, Poughkeepsie, today, declared a dividend of 15 cents per share on its common stock, payable May 1, to stockholders of record April 10.

Thousands Make

ber of foreign diplomats in the Holy Land.

It was announced that Jaffa Gate in the old city walls will be opened Sunday to permit the Jerusalem Consular Corps to enter the old city along the traditional route. The old city is in the hands of Jordan while the new city is controlled by Israel.

Permits were issued to allow other pilgrims safe passage across the Israel-Jordan armistice lines to enter the ancient city through the Mandelbaum Gate and to visit Bethlehem.

An air of uneasiness over the world's peace is evident in Jerusalemn this Easter season. Both Christian and Moslem residents constantly ask visitors from abroad "will there be war?"

Ford Assets

Detroit, March 23 (AP)—Assets of the giant Ford Foundation, set up by Henry Ford in 1936, have mounted to approximately half a billion dollars. This was shown today in the report of the organization as of Dec. 31, 1950. The financial statement showed that after deducting $18,272,522.07 for unpaid appropriations and $21,431.17 for accounts payable net assets came to $492,678,255. The bulk of the assets is represented in non-voting but dividend-earning stock in the Ford Motor Co.

Scouts Will Collect Paper on March 31

Boy Scouts and Explorers of six city troops will collect waste paper on Saturday, March 31, to raise money to send members to summer camp and to purchase camping equipment.

Troops participating in the drive are Nos. 3, 5, 6, 9, 11 and 12.

Wards in which the paper will be collected are those numbered two to nine, inclusive, and Ward 13. Residents in those wards are asked to tie their old newspapers in bundles and place them at the curb prior to 8 a. m. Saturday, when the collections will begin.

In charge of the drive is Frank Bourke, Kingston district commissioner. He will be assisted by scoutmasters C. J. Thurin, Robert Ornstein, Sherwood Lasher, William Daum, Robert C. Tremper and Ralph Shapiro.

Can't Authorize Leaves for Police

The local Civil Service Commission, indicating that it had received recent requests from police department members for leaves of absence, said in a statement released today that it has no authority to act on them.

The formal statement approved for release at a recent meeting of the local board said:

"The Civil Service Commission has no power to approve or disapprove leaves of absence for city employes under its jurisdiction. The commission is merely notified and records such requests."

Since the granting of a six-months leave of absence by the police board to Detective William Krum, other requests for leaves have been made by members of the police department, and some of these have been sent to the Civil Service Commission.

Will Speak Here To Zionist Region Meeting Sunday

HANNAH STEIN

Hannah Stein, noted English Zionist, journalist and lecturer will be the guest speaker during an executive meeting of the Empire State Zionist Region, Sunday at 1 p. m., in B'nai B'rith building, Wall street.

Miss Stein, now on a visit to the United States, is a member of the executive of the British Zionist Federation and is a member of the Foreign Press Association. She has been present during most of the important conferences that have been held in Europe, namely, the Paris Peace Conference in London, the Deputy Foreign Ministers' Conference on Peace Treaties with Germany and Austria, the World Jewish Congress Assembly at Montreaux, the General Zionist European Conference at Paris, meetings of the World Zionist Actions Committee at Zurich and later at Tel Aviv and Jerusalem. Miss Stein is a member of the executive of the British Zionist Federation.

In July 1947, on one of her trips to Palestine, Miss Stein established a Zionist youth settlement there which serves as a special link between the youth in England and Palestine. This year she laid the foundation stone for the first 20 houses.

Sol Reiter, who has undertaken the chairmanship for the Empire State Zionist Region for the Israel bond campaign will give an outline of the practical procedure to be followed on May 1, when the drive is scheduled to begin.

Saul Hammerman, cantor at Temple-Emanuel in Passaic, N. J., will sing Hebrew and Jewish folk songs.

Dr. Albert B. Freedman, president of the region, will preside.

Shuttle Would Lose To Conveyer Belt

New York, March 23 (AP)—Maybe the rattling subway shuttle trains between Times Square and Grand Central terminal will be replaced some day by quiet conveyor belt cars propelled by rubber-tired wheels.

The plan to ultra-modernize New York's shortest and busiest subway link was presented yesterday to the City Board of Estimate by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

The conveyor shuttle was designed by Goodyear and the Stephens-Adams Manufacturing Co. of Aurora, Ill. Estimated cost of installation is $2,100,000.

Here's how it would work:

Passengers would step on a loading platform going one and a half miles per hour. From there they could step into any one of 25 small plastic domed cars going at the same rate of speed and seating 10 persons.

The cars, after leaving the loading platform, glide off the low-speed conveyor onto a bank of rubber tired wheels which speeds them along at 15 miles per hour. At the other end, the cars slow up to the 1½ mile an hour gait so the passengers can disembark.

Included in the proposed plan would be stationary walks, which also could be used as bomb shelters.

3,300 Paratroops

mass jump from 145 combat cargo planes.

Two tank spearheads paced the allied drive north from the old south Korean capital. Tanks rumbled up mine-pocked roads behind crews of engineers who dug up the explosives.

Infantrymen trudged behind the tanks. Their lines stretched for miles.

Completed in Hour

The airborne assault was completed in one hour.

AP Correspondent John Randolph, who watched the landing from an accompanying plane, said the vari-hued chutes wafted down "swinging in the air like giant floating flowers of many colors."

Ammunition cases, jeeps and artillery swing like pendulems as they chuted down.

"It would be beautiful—really beautiful— if it weren't so terrible," said Lt. Col. T. A. Edward of Tulsa, Okla., a U. S. Eighth Army intelligence officer."

The paratroops met no opposition in the first minutes after landing.

Opposition Met

They slipped out of their chute harnesses and ran into skirmish order standing up—something men never do when bullets are flying.

But as they pushed out from the tight drop area, they ran into opposition from small, scattered groups of Reds.

Some of the Reds put up a stiff fight.

The airborne infantrymen knocked these out with their artillery and some fighter plane support.

Communist troops apparently were all around the paratroopers. An Eighth Army staff officer in the parachute force said there was continuous fire on the boundary of the drop area.

Ridgway said the operation was aimed "to kill the enemy."

Brig. Gen. Frank S. Bowen, Jr., told his paratroopers:

"I wish you all a happy landing. I'll see you on the ground." He cautioned officers:

"Make the men dig in . . . get buttoned up in the goose eggs (The Drop Zone.)"

Ridgway Directs Men

The 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team — bolstered by tough, wiry rangers specially trained for behind-the-lines fighting—hit the Korean dirt near Musan.

Ridgway, a paratrooper himself, carried a pistol in hand and the familiar grenade hitched to his paratroop harness.

The paratroopers quickly cut the Red supply road running south from Kaesong, two miles south of the border.

Ridgway said the air troopers "landed with no appreciable losses, and are now proceeding to secure their objectives."

The only mishap of the huge airdrop was the explosion of a C-119 flying boxcar plane in the air after it delivered its paratroopers.

The flying boxcars met no anti-aircraft fire. No enemy planes rose to try to break up the surprise allied move.

Sleeps Through Own

Liberty, Mo., March 23 (AP)—A minister has confessed to sleeping through a sermon—his own. The Rev. W. C. Link, Jr., pastor of the Second Baptist Church here, was asked to preach one Sunday at St. Joseph. He made a tape recording of a sermon he preached in his own church so he could criticize himself. He played the recording several times, then decided to have a last listen before delivery. Mr. Link awoke as the choir sang the closing hymn. "I suppose," he said, "I am the only preacher who ever slept through his own sermon."

Says Fight Has Just Begun

Washington, Mar. 23 (AP)—Communications Commissioner Frieda B. Hennock said today she has just begun to fight for educational television on a nationwide basis. Her comment followed FCC's action in tentatively allocating about 10 per cent of TV broadcasting space to school use under a plan for a broad expansion of channels. Miss Hennock has been demanding that 25 per cent of all TV stations be given over to education and information. She described the 10 per cent allocation as "the giblets from the television turkey," inadequate to reach the country as a whole.

Governor Not Opposed

Hartford, Conn., March 23 (AP)—Governor John Lodge has denied that he opposes a proposal all-purpose highway in Fairfield county to relieve congestion on the heavily-traveled Boston Post road. Lodge is a resident of Westport, where opposition has arisen to a proposed route cutting through the town. Some Westport residents have argued for an alternate route north of the Merritt Parkway. Asked at a news conference yesterday about reports that he had promised fellow Westporters to oppose the original route, the governor said emphatically that that wasn't so.

Reach Agreement

Toronto, March 23 (AP)—Union leaders announced last night a settlement has been reached between Toronto's milkmen and dairy company officials ending a day-old strike. The agreement goes before the union membership for ratification today. The dispute was over the effective date of a $3 a week raise awarded by a conciliation board. Details of the settlement were not made public. The average wage of drivers, including commission, is estimated at $50 a week.

Senator Unchanged

40 Millions Are

possible because of the movie's producer—the Rev. Patrick Peyton of the Roman Catholic congregation of Holy Cross.

Irish-born Father Peyton, a 41-year-old priest from the University of Notre Dame, long has been known as a miracle radio and television producer in Hollywood. He also is a supersalesman.

Every big star in town has helped him sell family prayer. Jack Benny, a Jew; James Stewart, a Presbyterian, and Bing Crosby, a Catholic, are typical of the many who work gratis.

Prayer is all that Father Peyton sells.

But he sells it like General Motors sells cars—through high-powdered advertising. There's even a slogan: "The Family that Prays Together, Stays Together."

Although the stations donate the time and the stars their talents, the radio shows cost $1,500 a week and the television movies $50,000. That's because Father Peyton pays union scale to workers and bit players who must work to eat.
